OLNEY DECLARES SUPREME COURT EXCEEDS POWER

Ex-Secretary of State Says Tribunal in Trust Cases Assumed Legislative Rights.

'REASONABLENESS' THE POINT

Claims Congress Alone Can Determine What Trade Combinations Shall Be Permitted to Live.

URGES ACTION TO RELIEVE BUSINESS

[Secretary of State in President Cleveland's Second Administration.]

It is axiomatic that the law invariably lags behind the conditions and needs of progressive communities. Nothing more strikingly illustrates the rule than what has taken place in this country in respect to what are called the trusts. Under the statute of 1890 trusts, big and little, were outlawed. The executive department was required to exterminate them through the courts, their promoters and officers were put in the criminal class, and all persons injured by their operation were given claims for damages.

What has been the result of this twenty years' war upon the trusts—a war waged with the emphatic approval of the general public? So far from being eliminated, they have persistently grown in number and scope, and, economically speaking, have vindicated their economic right to exist and to stay. Even the most ardent and eminent trust busters among whom can be included an ex-president—have begun to perceive that the trusts are only a phase of financial development and to realize that the relentless and indiscriminate assaults upon them are a serious menace to the country's commercial development and progress.

Supreme Court Influenced.

Even the United States Supreme court shows the influence of the spreading of the reaction in favor of big business and, recalling its original decision against it, now holds that there are good trusts and bad trusts, and that it is for it to determine which are good and which are bad—which shall live and which shall perish.

The Supreme court is, of course, to be credited with good intentions, and, by its latest decision in the trust cases, unquestionably meant to come to the relief of the business of the country. But the crucial question is, has it done so? In recanting and denying all combinations restraining trade in any degree to be unlawful, has it cleared up the situation or made confusion worse confounded?

The situation it dealt with was one in which the law was clear, but its enforcement so impracticable and repugnant to common sense that, as a rule, business thrived, or at least got along somehow by evading or defying the law with the practical connivance of its officers.

Law No Longer Clear.

The situation the court has substituted is one in which the law is no longer clear—in which combinations must be adjudicated legal before there can be certainty as to the lawfulness of their organization or the innocence of their promoters, in which every case must be a law unto itself and unto itself alone, and in which reasonableness, the supreme test of the validity of combinations and of the non-guiltiness of the combiners is a highly fluctuating factor, necessarily varying with the kind of business, with the time and place were carried on, with the indispensableness of the business in its relation to other businesses and the general welfare, with the extent of domestic and foreign competition, and with a multitude of other circumstances, chief among which will always be found to be the length of the chancellor's foot.

Surely, if before the latest trust decisions big business was handicapped because it knew it to be carried on against the law, it is now none the less severely handicapped because, until the court gives it its benediction, it can never know whether its status is legal or illegal.

Business Craves Certainty.

What business most craves of all things, however, is certainty and certainty before it embarks upon an enterprise and not merely afterwards. It cannot be gainsaid that large combinations of capital for the financing of large enterprises must always be effectually discouraged and repressed by the menace of litigation over their reasonableness, with all the attending and inevitable uncertainties.

It will be conceded that big business is with us to stay. The financial chaos, the industrial and commercial stagnation and disaster that must ensue from reversion to the age of small things—to railroads forty or fifty miles long, to factories and farms dependent for their operation upon the resources of some one individual, to independence and isolation among the captains of industry in place of interdependence and co-operation—are too glaring and too appalling to be welcomed by the sturdiest enemy of the present order of things.

Court Has Taken Charge.

If big business is to continue, though, as also the relations to it of the national judiciary as defined in the latest trust decision, the result is that the national Supreme court has taken upon itself practical charge of the business of the country. Nine-tenths of it will be done by the combinations which will effectually control the other one-tenth, and the existence, character, and proceedings of all will be dependent upon edicts of the Supreme court. Was ever a country's judiciary in that position before?

Two things, it is believed, may be confidently asserted. In point of law the present position of the court is not tenable, unless the constitution is to be regarded as obsolete

A Series of Articles of Real Importance.

There is no question of more pressing importance to the country today than that of the relations which shall subsist between the government and the people on the one hand and combinations of capital on the other.

This question involves not only the present but the future development of the republic, and affects intimately the life of every citizen. During the next session of Congress consideration will be given to proposals designed to solve the trust question, probably resulting in the enactment of a law which shall enable effective co-operation in business and at the same time prevent the abuses which have outraged public sentiment.

Big business holds that the days of cutthroat competition have gone and that modern conditions compel co-operation. A law which will give the best results is a law that will be approved both by the business community and by the masses. To crystallize the situation, The Chicago Tribune has secured a series of articles written by a number of the most prominent men engaged in big business, which will present their views on the following points:

1—The effect of the operation of the Sherman anti-trust law, as construed by the United States Supreme Court in the Standard Oil and Tobacco trust cases.

2—Whether it is possible to restore the old-time competition, or whether the country must legalize capitalistic and industrial co-operation.

3—If co-operation is necessary under existing conditions, to what extent shall the government exercise regulation and supervision.

To this series have contributed statesmen, lawyers, railroad chiefs, bankers, heads of industrial enterprises, and labor leaders.

It will be a series of great value to the people and their representatives in the National Congress, since it will be the first important presentation of the business view of the trust question.

ENRIGHT'S FATE IN JURY'S HANDS

WAYMAN DEMANDS LIFE.

BULLETIN (2 A. M.).

It is rumored among the deputy sheriffs that a verdict has been reached. What this verdict is could not be learned. Debate stopped at 12:30 o'clock, but many of the jurors are still up playing cards.

The question whether Maurice (Moss) Enright, captain of the sluggers' "pirate car," self-confessed slayer of William Gentleman, and believed to be responsible for the death of "Barney" Malloy, is guilty of the murder of Vincent Altman went to the jury in Judge McSurely's court last night.

State's Attorney Wayman completed the final argument at 5:55 o'clock. Judge McSurely then read his instructions to the jury, which has listened to the evidence about the Briggs house tragedy for two weeks. The twelve men filed out at 6:16 o'clock.

At 10 o'clock at night, when the jury had been out nearly four hours without returning a verdict, Judge McSurely went home. He left orders for the jury to return its verdict at 10 o'clock this morning. At 11 o'clock the jurors went to sleep.

The jury was furnished with blank verdicts of murder in the first degree, manslaughter, and "not guilty." Attorneys Brady and Erbstein assured the jury they would have no use for the middle verdict.

Defense Makes Final Plea.

"Either this defendant is guilty of a murder and should pay the penalty of death or he is not guilty and should go home to his wife and child," Attorney Brady said in closing his argument.

The attorneys for the defense spent the greater part of the five hours allotted to them for argument in assailing the character of Fred Irish, State's Attorney Wayman, and Inspector Hunt. The jury was told the only testimony against Enright was that of Irish, and that this had been bought by State's Attorney Wayman because of his ambition to become governor through the machinations of Inspector Hunt.

The state's attorney made no attempt to defend the character of Irish. He said the defense had conceded the man whom John J. Brittain grappled with was the murderer, while the testimony of the state's witnesses proved the man was Enright.

Wayman Points to Conspiracy.

"Brittain said," State's Attorney Wayman continued, "'the 'man that killed Altman is the man I grabbed.' Hall, the cashier, said: 'Yes, the man that shot Altman is the man that Brittain grabbed,' and every witness the defense has produced testified to that one fact. Brittain said: 'The man that I grabbed is the man who fired the shots.' Warner said: 'The man you grabbed was Maurice Enright.' Goldstein said: 'The man you grabbed was Maurice Enright.' Troy said: 'The man I grabbed was Maurice Enright.'"

The state insisted the motive was to be found in room 508 of the Briggs house, that occupied by Simon O'Donnell for his conferences with Thomas Kearney, James Garvin, and other labor leaders. He told the jury the case had begun with a conspiracy of silence on the part of the labor leaders and the political henchmen who assembled daily in the Briggs house late last winter, and reminded them how Ald. Coughlin of the First ward admitted he stopped the police search after the shooting.

DIVORCEE AND WIDOW EACH ASK HOWARD ESTATE INCOME.

Suit Filed in Circuit Court to Solve Problem of Who Gets Rich Woman's Property.

Suit to determine to whom should be paid one-fourth of the net income of an estate valued at more than $500,000 was filed in the Circuit court yesterday by Harold A. Howard and John C. Howard, trustees of the estate of their mother, the late Sarah J. Howard, who died on Jan. 4, 1905, at Paris, France.

In her will, which was executed April 8, 1902, Mrs. Howard directed that one-fourth of the income should be paid to her son, Durant Howard, or to his wife should he die before his wife.

At the time the will was executed Durant Howard was married to Frances Henriette Howard. Two children were born.

In 1902 Mrs. Howard was granted a divorce and given the custody of her two children. Howard married Jane Blomseth. One child was born. On Oct. 5, 1911, Howard died.

The trustees now ask the courts to determine whether Howard's first or his second wife is entitled to the income.

KINSLEY CLARKE OF CHICAGO DIES ON EVE OF MARRIAGE.

Succumbs to Operation for Appendicitis in East—Was Betrothed to Miss Catherine Henley.

Kinsley Napier Clarke, eldest son of Mrs. Clara M. Kinsley Clarke of Chicago and grandson of the late H. M. Kinsley, died yesterday at Newport News, Va., following an operation for appendicitis on Tuesday at St. Francis hospital, in Newport News.

His marriage to Miss Catherine Henley, daughter of the late Judge Henley of Williamsburg, Va., was to have been celebrated today at the residence of her brother, John Henley, at Williamsburg, but had been postponed several days ago on account of the impending operation.

Mr. Clarke, who was a graduate of the University of Michigan, was 27 years old and was connected with the big shipbuilding yards at Newport News, where he had been preparing an apartment for his bride.

His mother was not notified of the operation until after it had been performed, but she left Chicago for Newport News after hearing of her son's illness. According to a telegram received by friends here an early recovery had been expected.

Following close upon the institution of the federal government's prosecution of the Steel trust, President Taft, speaking before a Chicago audience last night, announced his determination to enforce the anti-trust law to the letter against every monopoly or other unlawful combination.

Emphasizing his earnest desire to preserve the stability of business and to protect and encourage all lawful enterprise, the president asserted vehemently that the practices of combinations to stifle competition which have obtained during the last twenty years must now be stamped out forever.

He enunciated a definite policy of destroying every industrial combine which has been formed for the purpose of eliminating competition and imposing extortionate prices upon consumers.

Bears on Steel Prosecution.

Although he did not mention the Steel trust by name, Mr. Taft made it clear that in the prosecution of the big combine which his administration has initiated in New Jersey he was actuated solely by the sense of his duty to enforce the Sherman law according to the interpretation given it by the Supreme court in the Standard Oil and Tobacco trust cases.

His words also contained the intimation that other prosecutions in enforcement of the law might be expected. The time for the permanent reform of "big business" is at hand, according to the president, and he is determined his administration shall perform the duty pointed out by the Supreme court.

The president outlined this policy before 5,000 men and women who composed the citizens' mass meeting organized by the Hamilton club at the First regiment armory. Enthusiastic applause marked nearly every utterance by the chief magistrate of the nation.

Throngs Cheer in Streets.

The president arrived in the city at 8 o'clock for a three days' visit. Through streets crowded with cheering citizens he was escorted directly to the armory. It was the subject of remark on the part of members of the presidential party that the reception accorded Mr. Taft nowhere had been more cordial than in Chicago.

The armory was packed to the doors early in the evening, but it was nearly 9 o'clock before the president and his party arrived. With the first intimation that the distinguished guest was at the doors the great gathering arose and a moment later broke into tumultuous cheering as the uniformed figure of Maj. Butt, followed closely by the bulky form of the president, was espied on the stairway leading from the entrance.

Mr. Taft, after acknowledging the hearty reception of the crowd, which overflowed the main floor and banked the galleries, was seated between Mayor Harrison and Guy Guernsey, the chairman of the meeting.

Mayor Also Is Cheered.

The mayor was cheered with more informality than the president. When the crowd yelled "What's the matter with Harrison?" Mr. Taft glanced quizzically at the mayor, who threw back his head with his characteristic deprecatory laugh.

Then Chairman Guernsey referred to the president as the "most distinguished executive in the world," and the crowd promptly passed into further exhibitions of enthusiasm over Mr. Taft. The men and women present also liked Mr. Guernsey's characterization of Mr. Taft as a president "determined the laws shall be obeyed by high and low, by rich and poor."

The mayor gave the president a welcome, "regardless of party," to the "typically American city," and when he said, "We Chicagoans look to the president as the very embodiment of the might and majesty of the nation," there was a lot more cheering.

Then Lieut. Gov. Oglesby, acting on behalf of Gov. Deneen, introduced President Taft to the audience.

Replies to Mayor's Welcome.

Mr. Taft's speech was as follows:

"I am indebted exceedingly to the mayor of Chicago for cordial expressions of welcome on behalf of the people of this good and great city.

"I am obliged exceedingly to the lieutenant governor for his expressions of good will on behalf of the people of Illinois. I am to be with you three full days, and I am advised by the press that I am to move here, for the time, the government of the United States.

"Well, the government of the United States is here all the time. There may be a change of persons, but the government of the United States is in the people of the United States, and there are a good many of the people of the United States in Chicago.

Refers to Long Trip.

"This is the forty-second day of a trip of nearly fifty days that, without knowing it, I contracted to make some three or four months ago, before congress adjourned. I did not know then congress would give me so short a time for vacation and for the trip, but the executive proposes and congress disposes.

"So it is I am here, after having traversed I don't know how many states and visited I do not know how many cities, and inflicted on the devoted people of the United States I do not know how many speeches, to come again to the poor people of Chicago and hurl one at them.

"Jesting aside, I think a trip of the chief executive through the country for the purpose of acquiring knowledge of the attitude of the people of different states towards general issues as they may be affected by local conditions is not without its uses.

Gets Education in Office.

"I do not know whether you know it or not, and I do not know how it is in the executive of a great city or of a great state, but I do know how it is in the executive of the nation, that when he enters upon his office his education has only begun.

"And anything in the way or thoroughness of teaching that he can develop during that term helps him on to some sort of solution of the difficulties which present themselves.

"Therefore it is an opportunity for the executive to educate himself by meeting the people, and an opportunity also for him to discuss the issues of the day as they may have presented themselves to him at Washington, to explain such action as he may have taken, and, on the other hand, to give some views as to the future troubles and issues and questions that are likely to arise.

Government Touches Business.

"The government of the United States touches the business interests of this country in a good many different ways, and at a good many different points, and the method by which and the occasion for which it affects the business of the country changes from time to time as this country grows.

"Under the constitution of the United States congress has the right to regulate interstate commerce, but for years that power lay unused, because while interstate commerce was important it had not assumed the importance that it now has, and has had within the last fifty years of being the commercial arterial circulation of the whole country.

Cites Interstate Commerce Work.

"It was not until twenty-five or thirty years after it had become such that congress began to realize, as the people began to realize, that unless it was regulated and subjected to supervision it could be made to be a vehicle of great injustice and of great evil.

"Accordingly, in 1887, the Interstate commerce act was passed. At first the prestige of the commissioners who were appointed, with Judge Cooley at their head, made the commission one of some authority with the railroads.

"Subsequently, because the act was not full of machinery for the enforcement of the regulations which the commission made, it fell into disrepute with the railroads, or at least it fell into their contempt. I may say, and for years—for decades—their orders were not regarded with any particular respect, and secret rebates, and that discrimination against which that act was aimed, went on in full bloom, and almost knowledge, of the public.

Drew the Law Tighter.

"But congress, taking its cue, and understanding the meaning of the public, began to draw the law tighter, and session after session introduced amendments and, finally, in the last session of the last congress, or the regular session of the last congress, they passed a law which has made the machinery which the commission now operates effective to remedy every defect and to enforce the absence of discrimination and the absence of rebates.

"The railroads have indicated a full desire now to acquiesce in that popular demand, and, while I do not mean to say that there may not be discriminations still, and there may not be defects in the operations of the railroads, and there may not be injustice done, there is the machinery by which they can be all eradicated, and all that is necessary is a regular complaint and a prosecution and it will be taken up and disposed of with dispatch.

Board Out of Politics.

"Now, I hope that it has taken the railroads out of politics. I hope they will continue, as they now give every evidence of continuing, to serve the public and each individual justly and equally and to discharge effectively the great function that in their charter they assumed to discharge toward the public.

"If they are thus removed from politics, if they are thus performing the great and indispensible duties which they do perform, well, then, we ought to encourage them and see to it that they receive adequate compensation for the services they render.

"We ought to resist every effort at unjust legislation and we ought to condemn in unmeasured tones those who by unjust attack upon them would climb into power as demagogues.

Points to the Decision.

"Now, I come to another point where the government touches business, and I come to it at a time when the matter is boiling. I mean the question of the enforcement of the anti-trust law. I hope it will not be far distant when one can take his place on the platform and make the same statements with respect to the great combinations that are carrying on interstate trade that I have made with respect to the railroads. But for the time being it is not so.

"Two decisions were handed down less than six months ago which held the anti-trust act to declare unlawful the combinations by which the Standard Oil company was constituted and the combination by which the tuted and the competition by which the American Tobacco company was constituted.

"That court laid down the rule that any combination in restraint of interstate trade

President Taft Explains His Policy Regarding Trust Suits and Their Effect

My own hope is, now that these decisions (Standard Oil and Tobacco) have been given, now that they can be studied and understood, that all the business men who are touched by the decisions in any way will square their business hereafter according to the law and that only a short time will elapse before we shall be doing business on a proper and legal basis in accordance with the principles of free competition.

If there is anything that arouses disgust in me it is the calamity howler and the man who attacks good business and thrifty business and seeks to arouse prejudice against it. I would rather cut off my right hand than to do anything to disturb the business of this country and especially to disturb it with the motive to cultivate political success.

—o—

We have a condition of lawlessness. We have had it for twenty years. Men have gone on combining against the anti-trust statute with a knowledge that it was on the face of the statute book and with a knowledge that they were violating the law on the theory that the law was not to be enforced or could not be enforced.

—o—

I am hopeful that the business of the country may square itself—and I don't think there is a great deal of the business that needs to square itself—to the anti-trust statute and the construction of it by the Supreme court.

—o—

Of course we must have combinations but they need not be in unlawful restraint of trade.

Mere "Bigness" Not Violation.

"Now, the question has been put, Is mere bigness of a corporation a violation of that law? Well, there is nothing in the decisions of the Supreme court and there is nothing in the statute that says so. What the Supreme court says is that under that statute the men engaged in the business of the Standard Oil company united together for the purpose of establishing a monopoly for the purpose of suppressing competition, for the purpose of controlling prices, and it was the combination with that purpose, effected as it was, that made the Standard Oil company a combination in violation of that statute. And so, too, with the American Tobacco company.

"It was not its mere bigness; it was that it went out and gathered in on every side companies that were engaged in the same business for the purpose of suppressing competition, for the purpose of controlling prices, for the purpose of establishing a monopoly.

"Hence, mere bigness of a plant, or a company, or a corporation in doing its business, if it does not so do its business as to try to exclude and suppress competition, as to try to control prices, as to try to establish a monopoly, is not a violation of the statute. But it is the history of these combinations with the purpose for which the combinations were made that constitutes a violation of the statute.

Says Ruling Will Be Enforced.

"Now it is said that in enforcing this statute the executive is going to disturb the business.

"The Supreme court has said these combinations were made for the purpose—and successfully made—of establishing a monopoly, of controlling prices. The only thing that we can do when we find a combination that is engaged in doing that and that was made for that purpose is to disintegrate it.

The Supreme court says we are going to do it, and we are going to do it under the direction of an injunction which shall forbid the parts into which it shall be divided from combining together again for the purpose which is inhibited by the statute.

"Now that is effective. Men have said: 'What are you going to do? You cannot divide them up because they have united.' Well, the Supreme court seems to think they can be divided up, and it has directed that there shall be a division, and it has put in obstruction to any renewed combination a permanent injunction.

"Those gentlemen who are familiar with the operation of a permanent injunction and what follows its violation by the Supreme court will understand that the gentleman who proposes to run over that injunction or to evade it is—to use the expression of the street—'up against it.'

Denounces "Calamity Howler."

"Now, all my life long I have conducted myself as far as I could to promote business and to promote prosperity. If there is anything that arouses disgust in me it is the calamity howler and the man who attacks good business and thrifty business and seeks to arouse prejudice against it.

"I know that prosperity is the one thing that we all need. We are all in the same boat, and if we have prosperity then we can give shoes to our children and clothes and good meals and have good homes—wage earners, capitalists, professional men, clerks, and every one else. It means the greatest good to the greatest number and it means happiness to the individual. I would rather cut off my right hand than do anything to disturb the business of this country. And especially to disturb it with the motive to cultivate political success. [Applause.]

"But we have a condition of lawlessness. We have had it for twenty years. Men have gone on combining against the antitrust statutes with a knowledge that it was on the face of the statute book and with a knowledge they were violating the law, on the theory that that law was not to be enforced and could not be enforced.

Early Decision Unfortunate.

"Now, I am not saying that the decision of the Supreme court early in the history of that statute was not unfortunate. I refer to the decision of the Knight case, in which it would seem as if, while what was charged there was not held to be innocent, but was held to be beyond federal jurisdiction, that the decision discouraged the enforcement of the law and made them think trusts could not be reached except by state jurisdiction.

"The effect of that decision was to lead on to combinations, and it has taken twenty years to get over that first mistaken notion, and now to have final decision construing that statute which shows what the lawlessness is and which requires that that lawlessness should be stamped out.

Determined to Enforce Law.

"It is not within my discretion as an executive officer to suspend any statute that stands upon the statute books. I am here under my oath taken to defend the constitution and laws of the United States to enforce the law, and when I find it violated to prosecute or direct prosecution of those who violate it. [Applause.]

"My own hope is that now that these decisions have been given—now that they can be studied and understood—all the business men who touch the decision in any way will conduct their business hereafter according to the law, and that only a short time may elapse before we shall be doing business on a proper and legal basis in accordance with the principles of free competition.

"I know it is customary to go about and lecture and say free competition is impossible and that we have got beyond that and that under modern conditions we must have combinations. Of course we must have combinations, but they need not be in unlawful restraint of trade.

Great Corporations Necessary.

"Of course, we have to have great plants and great corporations to wield the capital necessary to reduce the cost of production; but that is one thing. It is another thing to combine the plants for the purpose of controlling prices and destroying competition and establishing a monopoly.

"And no business man can tell me it is a question for a jury. A jury would settle it in two minutes—the difference between the purpose of uniting plants for the purpose of reducing the cost of production and that of uniting plants and all of them and putting some out of commission for the purpose of establishing a monopoly. [Applause.]

"It is an issue of fact as to intent and purpose, and the law is to be enforced according to that line, and it is a man's own conscience that is to tell him whether he is violating that statute or not when he understands the simple construction that the Supreme court has given it.

President Refers to His Critics.

"And that presents one of the amusing and ridiculous and ludicrous phases of this discussion. Here I am charged on the one side with destroying business and bringing disaster upon the country by directing the law officers of the government to enforce the law, and then I am charged on the other hand with having set up the Supreme court to make these decisions in order to emasculate the law in the interests of the trusts.

"Well, I hate to refer to the latter charge. It is made so utterly without foundation, and it reveals in the person who makes the charge such a little realization of the iniquity of that which he charges. Of course it is not true.

"Of course those men—honest, high minded judges, whom I am proud to have put on the bench—would never have consented to be appointed under any such misunderstanding, even though I might be wicked and low enough to seek to make it.

Defies Critics to Cite Instance.

"I have put to these gentlemen that have said that that statute was emasculated a question. I have asked them to cite to me a single instance which any one would condemn as coming within that statute which would not come within it under the construction put upon it by the Supreme court. Now, when a man says the statute has been emasculated and rendered futile by the decision, would not you think he ought to be able to tell me some instance that the construction of the Supreme court does not cover that he would wish to have covered. No, that is not the answer made to my invitation to state such a case. It is that "You set up the Supreme court."

"Well, I submit that is about as evasive as the answer of the Irishman who was told—you remember the old story—to give an evasive answer when his master was asked for, and he asked the visitor whether her grandmother was a hoot owl. [Laughter.] It comes just about as near in point of relevancy.

Period of Strain Near End.

"So I say I am hopeful this period of strain may end. I am hopeful that the business of the country may square itself—and I don't think there is a great deal of the business that needs to square itself to that statute and the construction of it by the Supreme court. (Applause.)

"But I realize that only a few of such combinations with such large capital may become interlaced with the legitimate business of the country so that they cannot be disturbed without bringing a halt to general business in a way. But when general business is thus suffering from contagion and disease the only way—at least the only way that I am permitted as the enforcer of the law to remove the trouble with business—is to eradicate the disease. [Applause.]

"And so statements as to what I may be responsible for in the way of business trouble, however regretful I may be that there may me some foundation for the statements, cannot turn me from the duty which lies just as plainly before me as that siele, to enforce the law up to the letter until the lawlessness ceases. Now, I hope that is understood.

"Touches Business of Country."

"There are other points in which the general government touches the business of the country. One most important point, and that is in the change of tariff law. When the Payne bill was passed there arose a bitter discussion as to what its effect was, whether it was upward or downward, and the great difficulty that the business community found was that they did not know, that they hadn't the means of determining, and there arose a demand all over the country that we should have some instrumentality by which we could tell what the facts were with respect to the future operation of proposed amendments of the tariff.

"So they formed a tariff commission association and sent it on to Washington and urged congress to adopt a measure creating a tariff board of five with a known partisan membership, and with powers to make investigations and to report upon the different schedules of the tariff, the difference in the cost of production here and abroad, and all other facts that might enable congress to judge of the operation of any proposed amendment of the tariff laws.

Filibustering as a Factor.

"That bill went through both houses, but it failed in the lower house, where it was sent to concur in an amendment of the senate, by filibustering. Meantime I had been given authority under the clause in the Payne bill to create a board of three, or at least I made it of three, with appropriation enough to enable me to tell that board to go to work and write out an encyclopedia, or a glossary, or something which would enable people of common knowledge to read the tariff bill and understand it.

"I don't know whether you have ever read the tariff bill. It is about as interesting as the multiplication table and about as confusing or hard to understand as the Greek testament if you don't know Greek [laughter]. It is full of technical terms of specific duties, and it is almost impossible to tell what it means unless you have an expert with you—and you have to have an expert for every separate schedule of the tariff.

Praises Report of Experts.

"The commission went on—or the board—and they have nearly completed that glossary. Meanwhile they have made a report and a very full report, and a report that is very enlightening as to what they may make in other respects and upon other schedules, upop the wood and pulp and print paper schedule of the tariff. That is of 134 pages and it shows you with great accuracy the difference in the cost of production between the cost of print paper in this country and the cost of print paper in Canada.

"They have proceeded on the theory that the manufacturers were willing to give them an opportunity to learn the truth, and that theory has been sustained. They have 120 men in their employ—experts. They are themselves not experts on tariff, but they are expert investigators.

How Experts Were Chosen.

"Prof. Emory, the head of the board, I selected by applying to a number of universities and asking them to furnish me lists containing six or eight names of those best competent as economists to analyze cost, to make investigations, and to make report, and his name was on all the lists and at the head of six of them, so I took him.

"I was determined that the tariff did not lie between parties—that the commission should be nonpartisan. In these days when it is difficult to tell what a Democrat is and what a Republican is it was rather a difficult task to perform, but I went ahead to do the best I could. All I know about the board is that whether they be Republicans or Democrats they are neither enough to hurt. [Laughter.]

"I selected a professor of economy, Prof. Page, from the University of Virginia. He says he's a Democrat and he comes from south of Mason's and Dixon's line. I suppose that makes him a Democrat. Congressman Howard had been eight times in congress from Georgia—and I took that as indicating that he was a Democrat, although it is by no means certain.

"Then Mr. Alvin Saunders, editor of the Breeders' Gazette, a great expert on agricultural subjects, and Mr. Reynolds, who had been for four years the assistant secretary of the treasury in charge of the customs.

"That makes up the board, and they are directed to make the investigations into schedule K and schedule I. That was because congress in its appropriation bill, which gave me the money to run the board, provided that if a tariff commission was appointed it should make the report on the 1st of December on schedule K; so I directed them to do that, and on schedule I—the cotton schedule—as well.

Refers to Canada Pact.

"They have not been confirmed by the senate, but there was not any authority to have them confirmed. I should have been glad to have submitted them to the senate for their examination and confirmation.

"I believe them to be a most high minded board, actuated only by a desire to reach the facts and to report those facts without respect to what effect they may have upon the tariff or political parties or anything else except the truth.

"Now, I made a little agreement with Canada in January last through the state department. I agreed I would do everything I could to secure an early confirmation of that agreement. I haven't any doubt the government of Canada, with a majority of forty in the parliament, would confirm before we did, but the best laid plans of mice and men aft gang agley.

"At any rate, I was obliged to call the extraordinary session, in honor bound under that agreement. I was told I would open Pandora's box with an adverse majority in the lower house, that I would have a time if I dared to call an extraordinary session, but it was not open to me to consider that as a matter of discretion. I was under obligation and so I called it.

Give Treaty "Honorable Burial."

"Well, they confirmed the Canadian treaty. At any rate, we did that. Whether it was defeated in Canada or not, it had honorable burial in that we carried on our part of the agreement.

"Congress, you know, is not limited by the call of the executive to consider only the question upon which the extraordinary session is summoned. It is in some states, I believe, but in Washington it is not so. And so it proceeded to consider the tariff and it took up schedule K, wool and woolens. A bill was introduced, a free trade bill, imposing 20 per cent tax on wool, reducing it from 11 cents a pound, and 50 per cent. I think it was on woolens.

"That went to the senate and there met a substitute introduced by a senator who said his was a protection bill. The substitute and this free trade bill were amalgamated and confirmed the 35 per cent ad valorem and 55 per cent on woolens. Then it went back to the house, there was a conference, and then there was a further compromise and a further squeezing together, and they made a bill with 29 per cent on raw wool and 49 per cent on woolens.

Woolen Tariff Too High.

"Now, if I had been elected on a free trade platform or a tariff for revenue only platform, it would have been my duty to sign that bill, because I believe the present tariff on wool and woolens is too high. It ought to be reduced. But I was elected on a protectionist platform, as a moderate protectionist, and was pledged to secure to every industry needing protection that measure of protection represented by the difference between the cost of production here and the cost of production abroad.

"It is one thing to say, therefore, that a schedule ought to be reduced. It is another thing to say how much it ought to be reduced in order to preserve the measure of protection I have stated.

"There was no adequate information furnished by any investigation or committee to moderate or substitute. The protectionist substitute was introduced and passed without reference to a committee, and it came to me in this way, half-protection, half free trade, with rates lower, so far as the woolen manufacturers were concerned, lower considerably than the Gorman-Wilson bill of 1894 and 1895.

Wool Industry Suffers.

"At the time that bill was passed and after it the wool industry and the woolen industry suffered severely. I know there was partisan discussion as to whether there was cause and relation between the one and the other, and I am here to take that up.

"I am only here to say that fact put me necessarily on inquiry as to what the reduction was and whether it would injure those industries, and I had no adequate means of information and none was published which congress availed itself of, as far as I know.

"Meantime, this tariff board which had been appointed, and for which $300,000 has been appropriated and is being expended, was making just such an investigation, and will report on the 1st of December.

"This bill provided it should go into effect on the 1st of January next, both in the house and the senate. If it had gone through that day it would have given rise to the question that if the exigency was such that you could delay until the 1st of January, why couldn't you wait until you got the adequate information on the 1st of December.

"Having been put into effect for the 1st of January, 1912, in both houses, they changed it to the 16th of October, 1911. I don't think that deprives me of the right to use that as an argument to show the exigency was not so great but that they might have waited until the 1st of December to get this information, so we could have all acted intelligently.

Will Demand Action Dec. 1.

"When the first of December comes that report will be in, and I shall make a recommendation based on it, asking congress to pass a bill reducing duties in accordance with that report, and I shall do the same thing with respect to the cotton schedule.

"Then they passed the farmers' free list. I can only say that was a bill thrown together most hastily, thrown together without any regard to the symmetry of the various schedules which it affected.

"It proposed to do a good many things which were in the statute already, as for instance to put agricultural implements on the free list, when they are now on the free list, practically, because they are on the free list for many countries that make and import; they put our agricultural implements on the free list, and the only importer in this country of agricultural implements is England. They have attempted to import, and I think their importations reach the amount of $50,000.

"The truth is that our agricultural implements are cheaper and better adapted to our uses than any other agricultural implements. Therefore, that concession to the farmers was rather in the print than in the substance.

Passed as Sop to Farmers.

"So there were a number of features in that bill which justified its veto, but it was passed, it was said, as a sop to the farmers, because of the injustice done them by the Canadian reciprocity agreement. Well, if that be so, then let us bury them both gently in the same grave, because as the one died, the other was unnecessary.

"There was another bill, to reduce cotton duties, that actually calls for a slight comment, in order to characterize the whole legislation which was put through at that session. The bill to reduce cotton duties was a free trade bill, and introduced avowedly as such. If it had gone through both house and senate as such, I would have vetoed it, not because it was improperly prepared. I think it was so prepared, and being a free trade bill, and as I am not a free trader, I would have vetoed it. But when it got to the senate there were some gentlemen in favor of it—or rather, some gentlemen there from the cotton manufacturing states, who hesitated to be in favor of it because it cut the cotton duties pretty low.

"They went to their fellows and asked them about it, and they were told they might have some corresponding reductions of duties on things that entered into the manufacture of cotton.

Another Amendment Put In.

"One was cotton machinery. That could be reduced 45 per cent and 25 per cent and that amendment was put in. Another was powder and coloring matter. In order to get that in he was permitted to make a motion to amend the whole chemical schedule of eighty-five items, covering millions of dollars, and reduce that 25 per cent.

"Well, he went down to the treasury department and got a statistician to work. There were sixty-six items of specific duties that required a great expert knowledge to know how to transmute into ad valorem duties, but he went ahead.

"He introduced an amendment and said in so many words, 'I don't know anything about it except I got this from the treasury statistician,' and then it went through the senate. They also reduced the metal schedule 30 per cent without any reference in it. Then it went through the senate and through the house. I set the experts of the tariff board to work to find out what the bill really meant.

Eliminate Specific Duties.

"But this statistician and this senator got to work at that chemical schedule and were oblivious of the delicacy with which alcohol ought to be handled. As a consequence they eliminated altogether the specific duties and put only the ad valorem duty of 40 per cent. Well, I don't know whether you do know, but I know that alcohol only costs to make about 20 cents a gallon, intrinsic value, and 40 per cent on that is just 8 cents a gallon.

"If I signed that bill there might have been introduced into this country, through these items providing for the introduction of alcoholic compounds, alcohol at the rate of 8 cents a gallon. I need not say what confusion that would have introduced in the collection of internal revenue or of the customs taxes. Congress did not intend it, nobody intended such an unpatriotic interference with the whole system of taxation, but I refer to that. Of course it was a blunder, it was a mistake, and I am not criticising it as an intentional one or anything of that sort, but I am stating this as one—an extreme case, I admit—but as one which gives the utmost point to my contention that no matter whether you are a free trader or a tariff for revenue only man or a protectionist, you ought to know what you are doing with the tariff before you change it.

Thinks Fisher Has Gained Light.

"There are other points I should like to discuss, but I am not going to keep you longer. The general government touches the interests of the people at large in all important questions, with reference to the workman's compensation act, the employers' liability, railroads, and safety appliances. It touches especially west of the Missouri river general business in the matter of the disposition of the public domain. I am glad to say that Mr. Fisher, one of your fellow townsmen, and I have been learning. I think we have got some light—I won't say it is new light—but we have acquired some information as to the attitude of the people in the west on this general subject of conservation.

"While we have been given by the press the view that ought to obtain in respect to that, we have also the other side and have learned some of the views that have grown up out there due to the delay in failing to settle any policy with respect to the disposition of the public domain.

Prescribe Moral Code.

"We are in the attitude in the east of laying down moral principles to govern some other people. Now, there isn't anything that is more delightful in its way than to prescribe a moral code for somebody else to live up to, and they have a feeling out there that that is what we are doing, that inasmuch as we have wasted our own substance east of the Missouri river, they have a right, if they choose, to waste the substance they find lying around in their neighborhood in order to develop the country.

"Well, of course, that is not the right attitude. We have learned something by our experience, and we are part of the people of the United States and should have a right to say how the domain shall be disposed of.

"But I think we are right in saying also that everything that comes from that domain in the way of profit, where the domain lies west of the Missouri river, ought to be turned back into the development of that country for the benefit of those who live in that neighborhood.

Should Retain Mines.

"We ought in some way to retain ultimate disposition of coal mines, of phosphate lands, and to order for it in so far as it is within the control of the federal government.

"I think nobody will, certainly we do not deny that. I believe, however, that we are nearer a solution. They are pressing for a solution and we ought to give it to them, and we ought to decide the matter at once. Expedition is necessary in justice to those people, and they have discussed it so long now we can treat it without regarding the word conservation as a fetich, and we can dispose of it on farsighted business principles.

"I think that completes the list of what I had to talk to you about. I thank you sincerely for your patience in listening to a man who has got so used to talking that he can't help it. Good-by."

TAFT'S DAY IN CHICAGO.

The star that marks the capitol of the United States moved fast into Chicago last night when President Taft was whirled through Wisconsin to the city's outskirts at a speed that averaged a mile a minute and even reached seventy miles an hour.

Crowds at Milwaukee, Racine, and Kenosha had delayed the special train all through the afternoon, so that the start from Kenosha was made at seven minutes past 7 o'clock—more than twenty minutes behind the schedule.

"Let her wide open," were the instructions of officials to the engineer of the president's special. He did. The train with its most important passenger reached the Chicago and Northwestern station at 8:07, having sped over fifty-two miles in one hour. This time includes the necessary slow speed through the yards at Kenosha and Chicago.

Reception Committee Surprised.

From a positive haze of red fire at Kenosha, the special stopped at an apparently deserted platform at the Northwestern station. Not a person was in sight. Quickly the reception committee of the Hamilton club, with a police escort of a dozen in dress parade uniforms and evening dress, hurried to the president's car in time to greet Maj. Archibald Butt, the president's military attaché, in all the splendor of his dress uniform, before he had alighted from the end car of the special, Mr. Taft's quarters, an all steel compartment coach.

The exit from the train began when Marquis Eaton returned from a visit to the street announcing that all was ready. Lead by Assistant Chief Schuettler, followed by Maj. Butt and Col. Steward arm in arm, the president and party walked down on the platform.

Cheers Mark Street Progress.

Then burst the cheer in the station that was perpetual during his ride through the streets of Chicago. Three hundred policemen, personally stationed and commanded by Chief McWeeny, held the crowd in obeyance inside and outside the station.

To the First regiment armory the president rode on Madison street, to La Salle, south to Jackson boulevard, east to Michigan avenue, where a turn was made at East Sixteenth street into the alley behind the armory where the entrance was made into the auditorium.

After the speech in the armory came the quick whirl over to the Hotel La Salle, where he attended the Irish Choral society ball in the ballroom on the nineteenth floor of the hotel.

Escorted into the ballroom by Mayor Carter H. Harrison, he was ushered to the presidential box by the mayor, Mrs. Harrison, and William P. J. Halley, president of the society. More than 1,100 persons welcomed Mr. Taft when he made his appearance in the ballroom.

At midnight he was whirled to the Blackstone hotel, where he occupied the same "state suite" that was his one day residence in Chicago last July.

"Back home," he smiled when he entered the suite.

Chicago, perhaps, had never before seen such an example of perfect policing. This was a comment common among the party. There wasn't the slightest confusion or excitement, beyond patriotic enthusiasm, at any stage of the executive's arrival and welcome last night.

Orders New Silk Tile.

President Taft's tour has stimulated business, at least this is true in the hat trade. The president last night left with Manager Thompson of the Blackstone hotel an order for a new silk hat. This will be the third one he has purchased during the trip. The president raises a hat to the crowd so often that it doesn't last long. He wears a seven and three-quarters.

President Taft is a big human machine. It takes a great deal of fuel to keep him going. Here is the menu that Gustave Becker, the Blackstone chef, will prepare this morning for the president's party:

Sliced oranges,
Scrambled eggs, Hominy,
Coffee and rolls.

It was ordered personally by the president.

STUDENTS JUDGE DAIRY COWS; TAFT TO GIVE THE TROPHY.

Student teams from eleven colleges contested yesterday for President Taft's silver cup, the trophy to be given to the winner of the students' dairy cattle judging contest at the National Dairy show at Dexter pavilion. The papers will be graded and the award announced probably tomorrow, and the president will give the trophy to the winning team when he visits the dairy show Monday morning to view the prize dairy herds on exhibition and make an address to the dairymen gathered from all parts of the country.

The schools that had teams entered in the trophy contest include Delaware college, Iowa State college, Kansas State Agricultural college, Kentucky State university, Maryland Agricultural college, Massachusetts Agricultural college, New York State College of Agriculture, Ohio State university, South Dakota State college, University of Missouri College of Agriculture, and the University of Nebraska.

Today will be children's day at the show, and a special admission price of 10 cents has been made to all school children. The afternoon and evening program will include, besides the parade of the prize winning dairy cattle, pony shows, and a frolic of the calves in the pavilion arena. Judging of the dairy cattle entered for the show trophies and other prizes will be started this morning.

HONOR MEMORY OF MRS. DRAKE.

The flag flew at half mast yesterday on the temporary "White House" of the country—the Blackstone hotel. This was a tribute to the memory of Mrs. John B. Drake Sr., widow of the former owner of the Grand Pacific hotel.

President Taft was told the circumstances and requested the flag remain as it is. He was a personal friend of Mr. Drake.

Mrs. Drake died on Wednesday. Funeral services will be held this afternoon at the residence, 2114 Calumet avenue. Interment at Rosehill.

TAFT ASKED TO ATTEND CHURCH.

President Taft has been invited to worship at the Third Presbyterian church tomorrow morning, when Eva Booth, head of Salvation Army of America, will preach. The invitation was sent yesterday by Elder J. S. Goodman, and, it is understood, was favorably received.

TALKS ON "PEACE" TOMORROW.

More than 3,000 persons are expected to hear President Taft's address on "Peace" before the Sunday Evening club in Orchestra hall tomorrow night. All seats are free except the boxes, which have been sold for the season to business houses.

GIRLS MAKE TAFT CAPTIVE AT BALL

TOO TIRED TO DANCE.

Sits Beside Mrs. Harrison and Pays Her Compliments; Irish in Him, He Thinks.

Between 100 pretty girl members of the Irish Choral society and a dozen college presidents President Taft hesitated in the red room of the La Salle hotel last night for a split second. Then he turned his back on the college presidents.

The incident occurred after Mr. Taft had addressed the society and was getting ready to leave. As he walked down the steps the girls gathered about him. So did the professors. Most of the latter had seen Mr. Taft before. The girls hadn't. Perhaps this accounted for Mr. Taft's decision.

"How do you do, Mr. Taft?" said the professors.

"How do you do, Mr. Taft?" said the pretty girls.

"You fellows wait a minute," said Mr. Taft. The college professors waited one minute, two minutes, three minutes. They had been invited especially from the Association of American Universities last night to meet the president. The association has been in session at the Chicago university. They wanted to see the president.

"Just a minute," repeated Mr. Taft, then shaking hands with another girl, and shouting 'Goodby" to the girls, he hurried to the elevator. The ungreeted college presidents stared after him.

Mr. Taft's visit to the Choral society was his last labor of a hard day. He was tired out and begged to be excused as soon as possible. In compliance with this wish, William P. J. Halley, president of the society, revised the arrangements by which the president was scheduled to lead the grand march.

"I'd like to dance with every girl in the room," said Mr. Taft when he made his five minute talk. "I like dancing. But I seldom dance," He grinned. "There are reasons."

Loves Dancing Like an Irishman.

"I think it's good healthful fun, and I hope you get lots of pleasure from it. No people appreciate music and dancing more than the Irish, and I like it so well myself that sometimes I believe I've got a little Irish in me."

About 300 members of the society were at the ball. They waited for the president until 10 o'clock before word came that he was on his way from the Blackstone. Mrs. Carter H. Harrison had been waiting for an hour; her husband, however, was busy with the president and did not arrive until shortly before 10. The two sauntered into the ballroom together.

Sits Down with Mrs. Harrison.

When Mr. Taft entered he took his seat between Mrs. Harrison and Mr. Halley. Mr. Harrison sat on his wife's right. The president's chair is the same in which he sat March 17, 1909, at the meeting of the Fellowship society. It bears his monogram, and has been presented to the club by its original owner, M. J. Faherty.

Mr. Taft seemed tired, but he was still affable.

"I'd really like to lead the ball," he said, especially with such a lovely partner"—indicating Mrs. Harrison. "I've made one speech tonight, though, and had a long train ride, and, with lots of work before me tomorrow, the wisest thing I can do is to go to bed."

C. Desmond McDonough was chairman of the entertainment committee. Its other members were: William P. J. Halley, Judge Mortimer Kavanagh, John E. Kehoe, William N. Brady, Elbridge Hanecy, Michael Faherty, Frank J. O'Bryne, John K. Murphy, John B. Hayes, George E. Warren, James F. Bishop, Patrick J. Byrne, Charles French, and John W. Rainey.

Mrs. Harrison Comes Early.

Mrs. Carter Harrison, who was scheduled to lead the grand march some time between 9 and 10 o'clock, gave all other grand march leaders a lesson in arriving early.

She wore a gown of white satin with a long, tunic-like drape of rare white chantilly, which had the added attractiveness of being heirloom lace. The lace fell but little below the knees in front, but it swept into the train at the back, and was gathered into a small flat bow of white satin just where the skirt passed into the train.

About her throat she wore a chain of pearls, with a clasp of diamonds and sapphires. A corsage piece and bracelet of the same combination of stones were her other jewels. In her hair was a half wreath of silvered leaves.

Mrs. Scanlan's Dress Charming.

Of the other gowns worn that of Mrs. Kickam Scanlan was noticeably beautiful. The foundation was of white satin with an overdrape of net solid in tiny gold beads, except where two-inch panels of net embroidered in a spider's web of kings blue, gold and silver beads, slipped into the tunic pattern. At the right the tunic ended in a band of chiffon with an edge of fringe. At the left it was of apron shortness, the length finished by a fall of chiffon.

Mrs. John MacMahon, another early guest, wore pearl chiffon trimmed with bands of silver and pearl and made over pearl satin. In her hair were silver leaves. Mrs. Michael Faherty, whose husband is president of the Irish Fellowship club, wore a gown of king's blue satin, with a short V yoke of silver beaded net. Over one-half of the bodice and draped in over-skirt effect over one-half of the skirt was a fall of deep silver lace.

Mrs. Reilly's Pretty Dark Gown.

Mrs. J. L. Reilly, too, wore a dark evening gown of handsome pattern. This was of deep blue net over which was worked a heavy pattern in bead and chenille embroidery, carrying out a combination of the dark blue and a more brilliant shade. The overdress was used to veil white satin.

Of the younger set at the ball there was Mrs. Joseph E. Bidwell Jr., who wore a gown of white satin with a long drape of jetted black net. At the end of the tunic and about the bodice were touches of orange satin. Mrs. Bidwell's sister, Miss Marguerite Connery, was another well dressed young woman. Her gown was of pale blue brocade with a panel tunic of the brocade, in which the pattern was outlined in gold thread. This tunic was finished with a fall of gold fringe and the bodice was fashioned of the brocade, gold lace, and fringe.

Miss Rose Clark, an attractive brunette who is one of the belles of Irish society circles, wore a dancing dress of pale yellow satin finished at the hem with a band of dark brown fur. A tunic of sheer white lace fell to the knees. The bodice of this simple frock fas made with short sleeves and rounded neck, a band of fur finishing both neck and sleeves. Long pearl eardrops were the only bit of jewelry worn by Miss Clark.

Miss Irene Dee, whose betrothal to Judge Harry Dolan was announced recently, wore a gown of pale yellow crêpe over satin of the same shade, and Miss Helen Barry was dainty in a gown of pale green satin over which was draped a bias tunic of brocade of the same shade. One-half of the bodice was of gold lace with a fall of gold fringe.

ONCE COUNTY BOARD MEMBER; DIES DESTITUTE IN HOSPITAL.

George E. Coburn Ends His Days in Public Institution He Helped to Build.

George E. Coburn, for three years a member of the Cook county board of commissioners, died yesterday in destitute circumstances in the county hospital which he had helped to build.

Coburn had been in the hospital since August. Feeling that he had not long to live, he went to Peter Bartzen and asked to be permitted to enter the hospital. Mr. Bartzen wrote a special order directing Warden Bailey to put him in a private ward and see that he had every comfort. Bartzen also visited him personally and provided him with luxuries.

Coburn was 74 years old and had been a resident of Chicago for forty-nine years. He was elected a county commissioner in 1879, served for three years as chairman of the public service committee, and was a member of the committee that had charge of the construction of the county building which was razed to make way for the present structure.

Coburn was born at Lowell, Mass., and was a pioneer in the newspaper advertising general agency business. Funeral services will be held tomorrow at 2 o'clock p. m. from 1587 Ogden avenue. The county commissioners will have a committee in attendance and will place on the records resolutions regarding the death.

Arrested as Oleo Seller.

J. H. W. Davis, 3915 Ellis avenue, who conducts a butter store at 3960 Cottage Grove avenue, was arrested yesterday on a charge of selling oleomargarine without a license.

ASK CITY TO SAVE CHILDREN'S LIVES

Poorly Paid by Some Department Stores and Lured to Saloon Dance Halls.

Evils which surround children in Chicago and which the cupidity of unscrupulous or negligent persons have established to gather in the pennies, nickels, and dimes of the city's easiest victims, were outlined yesterday at the annual meeting of the Juvenile Protective association. The principal snares for the young in Chicago are:

Penny slot machines in hundreds of candy stores where children 5 years old and more learn rudiments of gambling.

Some of the nickel theaters, which lure children with sensational posters, causing children to beg and pilfer to see motion pictures—many of these theaters in bad localities.

Inadequate wages of young girls employed in some department stores, in many cases causing downfall of the underpaid.

The report of the association states its officers have confiscated 750 slot machines and lottery devices in candy stores throughout Chicago and that a large number are still in operation, although such petty gambling devices have been declared illegal by the Superior court. Sticks of gum and candy and cheap toys are the prizes offered. The candy in all cases is said to be bad and the toys virtually worthless.

Tell of Harmful Films.

Although it is said some nickle theaters of Chicago have improved since the crusade of the association began the report points out that harmful melodramatic films are to be found in many of the 133 second and third class show houses.

The association demands that licenses should be issued to places and not persons, so that when a license is revoked the offending proprietor cannot turn his place of business over to some relative or business associate and continue as the virtual owner.

Of 200 department store girls interviewed, the report states, 173 lived at home with relatives and twenty-seven had to shift for themselves on wholly inadequate wages. The wages of the girls varied from $2.50 to $11 a week. Seven received $3.50 per week or less, thirty-three received from $4 to $5.50, fifty-four received $6, sixty-eight from $6.50 to $8, nineteen from $8.50 to $10, and only one received $11. The remainder were paid on a commission basis.

Condemns Dance Halls.

The dance halls are asserted to be the greatest sources of evil found by the association's investigators, who discovered that seventy-seven out of 278 Chicago dance halls were in the proximity of disreputable hotels or lodging houses. The dance hall management in many cases had connived with the keepers of these lodging houses to furnish trade.

"Out of 86,000 people found by the association's investigators in 278 dance halls," the report states, "in the majority of halls, the boys were between 16 and 18 years old and the girls from 14 to 16, the age when pleasure is most eagerly demanded."

"The dances are short—four to five minutes," the report says, "and intermissions are long—fifteen to twenty minutes—thus giving ample time for purchase of beer and other liquors. In 187 halls immoral dancing and open embracing was indulged in."

In one hall it was found a cash prize of $100 was offered to the girl who at the end of the month had the largest number of drinks to her credit.

The association recommends that the city establish a recreation bureau, that all dance halls should be licensed, that sale of liquor at all dance halls be prohibited, and that all connections between dance halls and lodging houses should be prohibited. No immoral dancing should be permitted and every hall should be adequately policed.

At the meeting the following trustees were elected for three years: William L. Bodine, Judge Merritt W. Pinckney of the Juvenile court, Sherman Kingsley, Miss Jane Addams, Mrs. Charles Henrotin, Mrs. Charles W. Walker, Mrs. Joseph Fish, Mrs. Lessing Rosenthal, and Mrs. Charles A. Chapin.

YOUNG COUPLE WILL MARRY TWICE; TWO LICENSES TAKEN.

The above is taken from the records of the marriage license bureau and indicates the obstinacy of youth when intent upon taking unto itself the responsibilities of connubial bliss.

James Todd Jr., 3952 Harvard avenue, has long professed the Protestant faith. His fiancée, Miss Florence M. Hartley, 424 South Western avenue, clings close to the Catholic church. The young man's parents declare he shall be married by a Protestant minister. The young woman's parents say she must be married in a Catholic church.

To meet the demands of the parents two marriage ceremonies are necessary. The couple will be married today at the home of the young man's parents, by a Protestant minister. Then they will hurry to a Catholic church and complete the sacred knot. After which, parents willing, they will begin their honeymoon.

CLANCY DODGES VICE BLAME

EYES SHUT TO OPEN DIVES.

Gambling in His District? Forced Tribute? "Never Heard of It."

Police Inspector William P. Clancy is not responsible for any gambling, lawless saloons, or resorts in Hyde Park, or South Chicago. If the police regulations concerning such places are being disobeyed, it is a fault of his subordinate officers and the plain clothes men and uniformed patrolmen.

Such a story the commanding police officer of the Hyde Park division told the city civil service commission yesterday when testifying concerning conditions in his territory.

He said if there was street gambling in South Chicago during a carnival in June it was the fault of Capt. James Madden, commander of that district. He asserted he did not believe reports made to the commission by his own plain clothes men to the effect that there are more than 1.0 inmates in South Chicago resorts.

O'Leary Knows Sleuths.

Attorney W. W. Wheelock for the commission questioned him concerning his former jurisdiction when stationed at stockyards station near the gambling house of "Jim" O'Leary, which flourished throughout the Clancy régime.

His men had watched O'Leary's place for days at a time, he said, but they never made any arrests, because O'Leary knew the sleuths and never allowed any gambling to go on while they were around.

"Do you know of an order sent out by the chief of police to the officers in command of the various stations to send in a list of disorderly places in their districts?" asked Mr. Wheelock.

"I know of the order," the inspector said.

Q.—In response to this order a report was received from the Fifteenth (South Chicago) precinct listing over 300 women as inmates of such places there. Who is responsible? A.—I don't believe that any such number of women are there.

Q.—Are you a member of the Policemen's Benevolent association. A.—Yes, sir.

Denies Knowing of Forced Tribute.

Q.—Isn't it a fact that a certain number of policemen in every precinct are detailed for a week, a month, or other length of time to sell tickets for the annual entertainment or show and that they go to all night saloons, gambling houses, and disorderly houses in their districts and force the proprietors to buy large numbers of these tickets? Isn't it a fact that a large part of the money received from the ticket sales finds it way into the hands of police officials instead of into the treasury of the association? A.—I never heard of men forcing saloonkeepers, disorderly house keepers, and others to buy tickets.

Q.—Do you know that the Woodlawn café, Sixty-third street and Cottage Grove avenue, has winerooms in the rear and that women solicit there? A.—No, I do not; I have not been in it.

Peter Vlasakis was fined $25 by Municipal Judge Walker for conducting a gambling house at 738 North Clark street, and three other men were fined $1 and costs each for playing "stush" in the place. Municipal Judge Maxwell fined David Brennan $5 and costs as keeper of a game at 986 West Madison street.

'CONTROL ALASKA'; FISHER'S DEMAND

VIEWS INDORSED BY TAFT

Favors the Leasing of Mineral Lands; Railroad Ownership and Operation.

Lasting ownership of Alaskan resources by the government, direct control of the extraction and transportation of minerals, and, if necessary, government ownership and operation of railroads in the northern territory were given last night by Walter L. Fisher, secretary of the interior, as the essentials of the administration's Alaskan policy.

Secretary Fisher's address before the American mining congress at the Auditorium hotel was prefaced by the statement that it had received the indorsement of President Taft.

"The general policy contained in this address," said Mr. Fisher, "has been discussed with him, meets his approval, and will have his support."

Result of Personal Investigation.

The address was the first detailed, formal statement on Alaskan problems since the secretary's personal investigation of the situation in Alaska. It comes several weeks after his return to the United States and a reasonable time after the lengthy conference with the president during the western tour. It is a summary of the administration policy based largely on the cabinet member's study of conditions, and may be considered as the plan which will be urged in the forthcoming message to congress.

That the recommendations would be for the retention of ownership of mineral resources by the government had been surmised from previous speeches by Mr. Fisher and the president. The significant features of the announced policy are the firmness with which this attitude is stated and the expression of favor for experimental work in the operation itself as well as ownership made permanent.

Significant, too, is the recommendation regarding the railroads—the determination to establish a closer control of transportation than has ever before been attempted by the United States, and if satisfactory conditions can be secured in no other way the entry of the government itself into the operation of the roads.

Opposes Exclusive Federal Control.

At the same time exclusive control of affairs by the government is opposed. The secretary does not believe this should be considered unless it is clear that private enterprise cannot be effectively controlled. As to the mining of the coal, the aim is stated to be the leasing of the coal properties in order to encourage entry of private enterprise, going slowly and experimentally, correcting early mistakes and meeting new conditions.

Only sufficient lands should be leased to meet the existing market and encourage its development.

Quantity leased to any one lessee limited to what can be profitably mined, yet large enough to attract investors.

Lessee shall pay royalty as he mines the coal.

Annual amount shall be at a fixed minimum, which will prevent holding land without production.

Mining to be accomplished without unnecessary waste and with due regard to health and safety of employés.

Lessee shall not engage in combinations, agreements, or understandings to control price of coal.

Revenues derived by government not to be used as source of federal revenue or substitute for taxation, but for development of state or territory in which the coal is mined.

These are based on mistakes seen in existing systems and on recognized needs of the territory.

Tells of Alaska Visit.

"I visited every port in Alaska which seems likely in the near future to become an important entrance to the country," said Secretary Fisher. "I examined all the town and harbor sites which have attracted particular attention.

"The existing coal land laws applicable to Alaska neither promote development nor protect the public. It is a country of great mineral and agricultural probabilities, needing development, but held back chiefly by inadequate transportation facilities and inadequate laws.

"The present cry is that development has been stopped by the withdrawal of coal fields from entry, but I am convinced this has exerted only an incidental influence on the development of railroads. If the fields had remained open to unrestricted private exploitation railroad development might have been stimulated, but the profits of the coal and not of the railroads would have been the incentive to construction.

"Alaskan coal is of great value, but its extent and character have been much exaggerated.

Has Plan for Development.

"Alaskan coal may be opened so as to enable individuals or groups to make money, bringing with the development considerable incidental benefit to the community as a whole, or on terms offering sufficient profit to furnish adequate incentive, but which will place the coal on the market at the cheapest price consistent with this incentive, conferring on the community the manifold advantages of cheap fuel and development of industrial enterprise which cheap fuel renders possible."

Mr. Fisher said Alaskan anthracite was the only anthracite on the coast, and as such would be in strong demand for certain purposes not best served by bituminous coal or California oil, which competes as railroad fuel. He said the present market is uncertain, but that demand will increase with development. It seems reasonably clear, however, he said, that Alaskan coal will not dominate the market of the coast, as was once confidently thought. He pointed to the construction of properly placed copper ore smelters as one of the territory's pressing needs.

U. S. Holds Controller Bay.

The controller bay situation was discussed at considerable length, the speaker declaring the value of the claims filed had been greatly exaggerated, and describing the harbor in the bay as planned by the R. C. Ryan interests.

"Whatever may be the merits or demerits of this harbor," he said, slowly and distinctly, "it has not passed out of the control of the government."

Of the dangers of railroad monopoly he said:

"I am unable to see how a road situated at Controller bay would be of any particular advantage to the Alaska syndicate, and if a real competitive railroad should be built it would serve as a check on the Copper river road.

"If, on the other hand, a government road is desirable, now or in the future, there is ample opportunity for it. If the Ryan road should be built and the government desired its acquisition, the opportunity for the government to build a competitive road should be effective in preventing an exorbitant price.

Against Government Railroad.

"I see no reason why the government at this time should take on itself the unnecessary financial risks of supplying transportation. If rates and service can ever be effectively regulated they can be here. I see no reason why the Alaskan syndicate should not be permitted to continue the enormously expensive experiment to which its present investment has already committed it and which prevents it from abandoning the project.

"The essential thing is to adopt proper laws under which monopoly will be impossible, preserving ample opportunities for any future action. The immediately important thing is that the field be open to wise development to supply local needs and any market that may exist on the coast.

"I believe the railroad from Seward, the Alaskan Central or Alaskan Northern, should be continued to the coal fields and the interior. If private interests will not undertake it the government should. I do not like the plan for guaranteeing the bonds. If the government is to guarantee cost it should own this road outright, whether it operates or leases.

"There is ample precedent in undertaking railroad construction. It is simply resuming one of government's proper functions.

Government Mining Not Likely.

"The time has passed," he continued, reverting to the methods of opening the coal lands, "when the government should convey unrestricted title, deliberately encourage unrestricted private exploitation of the sources of power. Ownership carries right of sale. It is unwise and unnecessary to sell our coal lands to insure development.

"On the other hand, government operation, including mining and selling, involves such far reaching changes of administration and policy that there is no likelihood of its adoption. Unless railroad operation, it has never been considered a function of government. Leasing avoids difficulties of both extremes.

"The choice is not whether we shall mine our coal on the leasehold scheme, but whether under private or government lease."

Price regulation, he continued, it is unwise to insist upon as a necessary feature. It would be a departure from precedent and would cause delays in the passage of the proposed leasing laws. It must be left for more mature consideration.

Urges Speedy Legislation.

In conclusion Mr. Fisher declared he had found the main points of his plan approved by prominent coal operators of Pennsylvania, to his surprise, and that resolutions in opposition passed some time ago at Cordova, Alaska, had since been rescinded.

"What is desired in Alaska," he said, "is prompt action by congress in some direction that will promote development. For the present these ideas are offered as definite suggestions for a policy under which the territory of Alaska may be immediately opened for wise and vigorous development."

The secretary's speech was preceded by that of John Hays Hammond, mining expert and special ambassador at the coronation of George V., who predicted approval of the Taft-Fisher program.

Hammond Denounces "Promoters."

Mr. Hammond gave a sizzling denunciation of dishonest promoting methods, and urged that the American mining congress exert an influence for honest mining finance.

"There is no use blinking the facts," he said. "There is more downright swindling in mining than in any other legitimate industry, and unfortunately the losses here fall on those who can ill afford them. Drastic legislation is required in connection with the floating of companies—many industrials, in fact—to compel furnishing accurate reports of all details, before and after flotation.

"Investments in mines should not be made by any one to whom the loss of the investment would mean serious distress. There is an important difference between investing in mining prospects and in well developed mines. The life of a mining investment is relatively short, and a higher rate of dividends does not in itself justify the investment."

Resolutions Are Adopted.

There was an attempt in the resolutions committee, it is understood, to bring in resolutions opposing the administration's program of leasing coal lands. It was suppressed, but the result of the deliberations was not notably in favor of the plan. The resolutions as adopted follow:

Resolved, That the American mining congress urge on the congress of the United States the importance of enacting at the approaching session such legislation as will bring about the opening and operation of the coal mines in Alaska on such a basis as may be best for both the present and the permanent welfare of the Alaskan people.

Resolved, That the president of this congress appoint a committee of five to cooperate with the honorable secretary of the interior in securing the enactment by congress of such legislation as will best and most promptly accomplish the above purposes.

Gov. Spry Opposes Leasing.

At the afternoon meeting at the La Salle hotel there had been a variance of opinion on the leasing matter, with Dr. George Otis Smith of the United States geological survey backing the administration program and Gov. William Spry of Utah opposing it.

"If we wait for the government to locate the minerals and make the land ready for extracting them," said Gov. Spry, "future generations will be left unprovided for. I am not fighting conservation, but I think certain views are too extreme. I do not think we are in any such peril as has been said."

"Alaska is being reserved to death," declared George E. Baldwin of Valdez, Alaska. "It is being starved in the name of conservation."

Congressman Martin D. Foster, chairman of the house mines committee, spoke in favor of the leasing of coal lands and urged the need of greater facilities for mining and metallurgical schools through the country. He also said there was occasion for experimental stations under the federal bureau of mines.

DON'TS FOR INVESTORS

JOHN Hays Hammond, mining expert and special ambassador for the United States to the coronation of George V., has promulgated a table of ten commandments for patients in the throes of a mining investment fever. Here is his prescription, as read last evening before the American Mining Congress.

1. Don't invest solely because a friend or relative became rich through a fortunate mining investment.
2. Don't, however, be deterred because a less fortunate friend became bankrupt.
3. Don't allow an insinuating—not to employ the shorter and uglier term—promoter or broker to convince you against your natural modesty that you yourself are competent to determine the value of a mine. "Shoemaker stick to your last."
4. Don't be influenced by "rich specimens" under any conditions. "You might as well see the hair from the tail of a horse and tell how fast that horse can trot."
5. Don't buy because the mine has produced millions, for the mine is so much the poorer.
6. Don't purchase because "distance lends enchantment." Hesitate then.
7. Don't buy because the mine is near a good one. Interesting, but not conclusive.
8. Don't buy without the unqualifiedly favorable report of an engineer of integrity, ability, experience, and success.
9. Don't buy unless the board of directors is honest and capable.
10. Don't abandon all your common sense just because it's a mine and not some other industrial.

JAP SHOOTS SELIG; SLAYS MANAGER

CHICAGOAN WILL SURVIVE

Los Angeles, Cal., Oct. 27.—[Special.]—Francis Boggs, local manager of the Selig Polyscope company, was shot and killed, and William N. Selig of Chicago, head of the company, was wounded by Frank Minnimatsu, a Japanese gardener and janitor, this morning at the office of the Selig company in Edendale, a suburb. Selig is in a hospital and will recover.

The Japanese, crazed by drink, opened fire with a revolver on the men while they were holding a business conference in reference to the production of a new pantomime play. The first bullet passed through Boggs' heart and he toppled out of his chair. He died on the way to a hospital.

The slayer turned the weapon on Selig and fired four shots. Two of the bullets went wide of the mark, narrowly missing Santshi, leading man of one of the Selig companies. The third bullet hit Selig in the right arm and the fourth went wide. Selig grappled with the Japanese and the latter hit him a crushing blow with his gun, knocking him unconscious.

Attempts to Use Dirk.

J. L. McGee, business manager; Hobart Bosworth, and Santshi seized the demented Japanese, who attempted to fire another shot. The cap snapped and the cartridge failed to discharge. Minnimatsu then tried to pull a dirk from his pocket and renew his efforts to kill his captors.

Mounted Police Officer Hagenbaugh, attracted by the shooting, helped to overpower the man, and he was handcuffed. He was taken to Central station, where he is held on a charge of murder.

Selig arrived from Chicago last night and went out to the picture studio today to hold a conference with his business manager and actors. While they were thus engaged the Japanese burst into the office and without warning opened fire. No cause can be learned for his assault.

Four months ago he is said to have made a like assault upon a fellow employé. He was drunk at that time, and when called to account showed remorse. He was reinstated.

WIDOW HERE ON VISIT.

Mrs. Francis Boggs is well known in Chicago theatrical circles as May Hosmer. She was found last night at the Merchants' hotel in Milwaukee avenue. She has been visiting friends here for about two weeks. Mrs. Boggs left last night for Los Angeles.

"Only about two weeks ago I left him happy and well," she said. "The Japanese had caused trouble before and turned out to be a treacherous character, as my sister-in-law, Florence Boggs, predicted. Several months ago Minnimatsu got drunk and fired several shots into the gasoline tank of an automobile in the garage.

"They could not have that kind of fellows around a place where there were so many films and he was discharged. After capturing him and placing him in handcuffs they found an empty whisky bottle he had been drinking from, and I am afraid that is the trouble this time. A short time ago he came back and asked to be forgiven, and Frank took him back into employment. Frank's sister warned him against doing so, saying the Japanese was treacherous, but he thought it would be all right."

Mrs. Boggs said she would have her husband's body cremated and buried in Graceland cemetery.

TYPISTS FIX CITY WAGE SCALE

WAR ON FLIRTING "BOSSES."

STENOGRAPHERS' UNION SCALE.

Beginners	$ 8 weekly.
After six months	10 weekly.
Then	No limit.

This is a wage scale fixed last night by the Chicago Stenographers' union at a mass-meeting in Handel hall, 27 East Randolph street.

Three hundred stenographers were present. All except a half dozen were women and girls. Nearly 200 were members of the union when the meeting was called to order. The remainder joined before the meeting adjourned. There was no initiation fee. The assessments are 50 cents a month.

Plans for development of the union were outlined by its president, Miss Kittie Van Bodengraven, and Mrs. Raymond Robins, president of the Women's Trade Union league. They estimated there are 50,000 stenographers in Chicago and that 90 per cent of them are underpaid, and that 50 per cent are compelled to work in unfavorable surroundings.

Union Plans Aid for Members.

Among attractive features to be established at once by the union will be:

Free employment agency.

Night school for teaching German, Spanish, and technical terms of various professions and business.

Physical culture school, including dancing and athletic games.

Free medical bureau, conducted by women physicians for female members.

Fund to pay "out of work" benefits.

"Make the union attractive, and you will enroll every stenographer in the city," asserted Mrs. Robins.

Discuss Temptations.

Temptations that beset the stenographer were discussed at the meeting. Many told of their experiences with employers and employment agencies. They told of being sent to work in places not conducive to good morals, of "dates" sought by their bosses, and of other annoyances.

The sweetheart proposition—so far as theaters are concerned—also was given a jolt. By unanimous vote officials of the union were instructed to visit the best local theatrical managers and try to get reduced rates for stenographers with union cards. The stenographers said they would buy their own tickets if they could get a reduction in price.

PREDICTS SURE VICTORY.

Washington Prepares to Rush Hearings, Which May Begin December 4.

New York, Oct. 27.—After a day of intense excitement in the stock market, with especially severe declines in the securities of the United States Steel corporation, the following statement was issued by Elbert H. Gary, chairman of the board:

"I think it would be improper at this time for me to make any comments concerning the suit which has been brought by the government against the United States Steel corporation, except to say I regret exceedingly that the department of justice felt called upon to institute proceedings.

"If any harm results it will fall upon the stockholders and employés, aggregating a large number, and any loss to them must be deplored. It is a time for every one to keep cool, with a disposition to await results patiently, knowing that in the end justice will be done to all interests.

Cites Favorable Facts.

"I believe a disclosure of all the facts applicable to the allegations contained in the government's bill of complaint as a ground for relief will show that the suit ought to be decided in favor of the corporation on its merits and that the following facts will be established:

1. That in the organization of the United States Steel corporation those in charge had no intention of creating a monopoly or of restraining trade.

2. That the corporation never has had or attempted to exercise a monopoly or to restrain trade.

3. That the conduct of the affairs of the corporation has clearly and positively negatived any effort or intention to violate any provision of the Sherman law.

4. That the existence of the corporation has been of benefit, and not of injury, to its employes, its customers, its competitors, and the general public.

5. That no misrepresentation was made to the president relative to the Tennessee Coal and Iron properties, and that the motive of those connected with the purchase was to prevent a threatened general financial disaster which would have adversely affected the corporation as well as others."

Conference Draws Up Statement.

The statement is the result of a protracted conference held earlier in the day, in which the participants were Chairman Gary, J. Pierpont Morgan, Charles Steele, and George F. Baker, directors of the corporation, as well as several of the legal representatives. Other than this no word came from Chairman Gary or any other official of the corporation.

It was at first the intention of the heads of the steel corporation to make no public response to the action of the government until next Tuesday, when, at the quarterly meeting, the financial statement of the corporation for the third quarter of the year is to be issued.

Excitement Draws Explanation.

By reason of the shrinkage of the steel stocks in today's market, and because of numerous inquiries from all parts of the country and abroad, however, the directors later decided to make known their attitude without further delay.

The stock market was thrown into confusion at the opening this morning by a wild rush to sell steel stocks. Owners of the securities in all parts of the country and Europe, alarmed at the dissolution suit, poured in orders to sell, and when the stock exchange opened brokers were massed about the post at which steel stocks are traded in, scrambling in confusion to execute their orders. The price of the common stock dropped precipitately from 58½ to 55½ on initial transactions amounting to 28,000 shares.

Market Generally Feverish.

Throughout the morning prices rose and fell in feverish fashion. The low point for the day for the common stock was 50, a loss of 8½ points, and the bottom figure since 1900. During the day 600,000 shares were traded in. The preferred stock fell more than 5 points, to 103.

The stock market in general was affected by the movement and standard railroad and industrial shares fell from 2 to 5 points.

In the afternoon the market recovered some of its losses and at the close prices ranged considerably above the lowest of the day. United States Steel common rallied to 57¾ and preferred to 103.

Roosevelt Dodges Interview.

Theodore Roosevelt flatly declined today to make any comment on the steel trust suit. He greeted interviewers smilingly, but to all their questions said repeatedly, with his usual emphasis: "I have nothing to say."

"Have you read the petition?" the colonel was asked.

"It was read to me," said Mr. Roosevelt.

"It sets forth that you were deceived with regard to the Tennessee Coal and Iron company deal. Are you going to let them get away with that?"

"You can't charm me into saying one word," said Mr. Roosevelt, snapping his teeth.

"Well, aside from the Tennessee Coal and Iron matter, what do you think of the expediency and common sense of the suit as a whole?"

"Not one word," said the ex-president.

"Will you issue a statement after you digest the petition?"

Mr. Roosevelt smiled and said nothing.

"It might interest you to look up my testimony before the congress committee in August," Mr. Roosevelt suggested, as he waved the interviewers farewell. "To what I said then I have nothing to add."

FIRST BATTLE DUE DEC. 4.

Washington, D. C., Oct. 27.—The United States Steel corporation's first step in the legal battle with the government for its existence will be taken Monday, Dec. 4.

On that day an array of counsel which promises to include some of the most brilliant legal minds in America will formally appear before the United States Circuit court at Trenton, N. J., in which the government's dissolution suit has been brought.

On Jan. 2, 1912, the steel corporation is expected to file its answer to the government's sensational charges, which have hardly been paralleled in all the anti-trust suits brought by the department of justice.

Several legal maneuvers of which the steel corporation's lawyers could avail themselves may postpone the date of their answer, for they have the right to ask the court to give thirty days more grace, thus extending their time to Feb. 2.

Delay May Be Obtained.

In the meantime they may demur to some of the government's allegations or they may file a bill of exceptions. Either action would delay automatically the actual beginning of the trial. The government expects that some of the formalities of law will be overlooked by its opponents. It is possible, however, that no legal technicalities may be thrown in the way, and in that case the earliest date upon which the trial can begin is Jan. 2.

The procedure will be for Judges Gray, Lanning, and Buffington to appoint a master to hear testimony. The master so appointed will take evidence in various parts of the country. It required a year and a half to take the testimony in the Standard Oil case. That was considered fairly quick time. The government expects to do as well with the steel corporation.

Quick Trip to Supreme Court.

When the taking of testimony is finished and both sides have been heard the Circuit court will decide the issue. Whichever side loses will appeal, and by the operation of the so-called expediting act the case will jump to the Supreme court, where the fate of the greatest corporation in the world will be decided.

The government's desire for a speedy culmination of the suit is evidenced by the "certificate of public importance" filed by Attorney General Wickersham with the government's bill in the court in Trenton. In this certificate Mr. Wickersham sets forth that the great importance of the suit should entitle it to be given precedence over other suits in the courts of the Third circuit and assigned for hearing at the earliest practicable date before not fewer than three of the judges of the circuit.

Other Decisions Not "Models."

Department of justice officials do not feel that the Supreme court decisions in the oil and tobacco cases will decide the steel case. Attorney General Wickersham today declared he is convinced more than ever that each case must be settled upon its own merits and that the oil and tobacco cases cannot fairly be called "models" for solving the trust question.

Mr. Wickesham was asked today if he hoped to see business returned to the conditions of competition which prevailed before the first trusts came into existence.

"I do not," he replied. "I cannot, because I do not think it possible. We cannot return to our swaddling clothes. We must readjust to a new set of conditions entirely."

"Do you think that can be done within the present laws without further upsetting business?" he was asked.

"I hope so," replied the attorney general, "but I do not know."

"It ought to be made clear," continued Mr. Wickersham, "that there is no conflict in the steel case between the department of justice and the Stanley committee of the house of representatives, which has been investigating the steel corporation. That committee has been conducting its investigations to determine what legislation may be desirable to meet the economic question raised by trusts and combinations; the suit filed by the department of justice is a legal proceeding to compel the observance of the law."

Secrecy of Suit Surprises.

It was declared today that Jacob M. Dickinson, former secretary of war, who has been engaged as the government's special counsel, would occupy the same position in the case against the Steel corporation that Frank B. Kellogg did in the Standard Oil case.

Official Washington is still wondering how the preparations for the filing of the bill were conducted with such successful secrecy. The bill was not set in type in the government printing office, as such petitions usually are, but was printed by the private concern that prints the decisions of the Supreme court.

It was intimated at the department of justice today that the government considers its case practically complete. Special agents who have worked for the last two years or more still are gathering some loose ends, but on the whole the attorney general feels confident in going to trial on what evidence has been obtained.

Figures on Business.

The magnitude of the alleged profits to the organizers of the branches of the corporation is indicated by the bill's declaration that in the National Steel company $5,000,000 of the common stock went to the promoters; in the American Tinplate company $10,000,000 of common stock; in the American Steel Hoop company, $5,000,000, and a large amount of American Sheet Steel company's capital stock is declared to have gone the same way.

The government contends that the United States Steel corporation's capitalization is not less than $800,000,000 in excess of the value of the property taken over, and that approximately half of its earnings were brought about by the power the corporation exerted over trade and commerce.

Ju lges Who Will Try Government Suit Against Steel Trust.

JUDGE GEORGE GRAY — JUDGE JOSEPH BUFFINGTON — JUDGE WILLIAM M. LANNING

STEEL DIRECTOR URGES CAUTION

SAYS SUIT IS NOT WON YET

Fears Stampede as Result of Court Move Will Cause Unnecessary Loss.

Pittsburgh, Pa., Oct. 27.—Former Judge James H. Reed, chairman of the board of directors of the Carnegie Steel company and a director of the United States Steel corporation, in a statement today said:

"I cannot discuss the merits of the suit brought against the United States Steel corporation, but I hope the thousands of small stockholders of the corporation will not be stampeded into selling thier stock at a loss because of the suit, for they must know it is one thing to bring a suit and an entirely different thing to win it.

"In the meantime the effect of the necessary uncertainty will not be a good thing for the interests of Pittsburgh.

"If the suit should be succesful and lead to a separation of the companies so they are active competitors there will be a fine chance to settle the respective merits of Pitsburgh and Chicago as manufacturing centers."

THREE JUDGES TO TRY CASE.

Trenton, N. J., Oct. 27.—Three judges, and not one, as originally reported, will sit in judgment upon the suit brought by the government against the United States Steel corporation, it was announced here today. They are George Gray of Wilmington, Del.; Joseph Buffington of Pittsburgh, and William M. Lanning of Trenton—the same tribunal which recently crowned with success the government fight against the so-called powder trust.

In the powder trust case Judge Lanning clearly indicated the position of the three judges. He said:

"If a corporation arbitrarily uses its powers to force other competitors or to coerce them into a sale or union with the combination, it puts a restraint on interstate commerce and in a sense violates the anti-trust act. Our decree must forestall future violations and compel the dissolving of the combination now existing."

Facts About the Jurists.

Judge Lanning will be 63 years old on the day set for filing answer to the government suit, Jan. 1 next.

Judge Gray is the presiding judge of the Third judicial district. He was born in Newcastle, Del., May 4, 1840.

Judge Buffington of Pittsburgh was promoted from District court judge to the Circuit bench in 1906, and during his service on the circuit has participated in the disposal of many big litigations. He was born in Kittanning, Pa., and is 56 years old.

Women Fined as Shoplifters.

Mrs. Doroth Ewaldt, 5705 South Halsted street, and Mrs. Mary Newby, 5705 South Halsted street, were arraigned before Municipal Judge Himes yesterday charged with having stolen $8 worth of babies' apparel from a west side department store. Mrs. Ewaldt was fined $5 and Mrs. Newby $10.

BRYAN SCENTS BIG TRUST JOB.

Glad Steel Men Are Under Fire—He Thinks Supreme Court Was Packed to Cheat Prisons.

Norfolk, Neb., Oct. 27.—William Jennings Bryan, in an interview today, declared he was glad to see the suit commenced against the United States Steel trust. He thought it should have commenced ten years ago, but the fact that it is a suit in equity instead of a criminal prosecution, he declared, shows that either the president recognizes that the anti-trust law is now worthless as a criminal law or that he does not want to punish big criminals.

"The public," Mr. Bryan said, "will now understand the meaning of the decision in the oil and tobacco cases nullifying the criminal pact of the law by inserting the word 'unreasonable.'

"I believe in criminal punishment of those who violate the anti-trust law, but I believe that the Supreme court decisions in the Standard Oil and tobacco cases make it practically impossible to punish trust magnates criminally and satisfy that which was the purpose of the decision and that the court was packed to secure such a decision."

Rev. Chas. Hurlburt, who entertained ex-Pres. Roosevelt in East Africa, will speak at the Union Bible Class the Moody Church, at 7 p. m.—Adv.

SUPREME COURT EXCEEDS POWER?

CONGRESS SHOULD ACT.

Is the Only Body That Can Determine What Trade Combinations May Live.

and the national judiciary has become clothed with legislative and administrative as well as judicial functions.

In point of fact, the task of supervising the business combinations of 90,000,000 people, of passing judgment upon the reasonableness of the innumerable partnerships, firms, associations, and corporations by which that business is done, is a task incapable of real performance by the national courts, because reasonableness is never the same in two cases, but in each must be separately investigated and determined.

Suppositious Case Cited.

What must happen, perhaps, will be better realized if we assume the doctrine laid down in the recent trust cases to apply to restraints of trade other than those arising from business combinations.

Duties on imports, for instance, operate to restrain trade in the most effective manner. Suppose congress, after giving a list of dutiable articles, should enact that the rate of duty in each case should be a reasonable rate as determined by the national courts, or should be a fixed rate, or such other rate, as the courts might find reasonable. The result would be that a crowd of tariff cases would be likely to occupy those courts to the exclusion or detriment of all other cases and to produce such a congestion of business as to practically stop the wheels of justice.

Similar results are to be expected from the national courts undertaking to sit in judgment upon the reasonableness of all business combinations. Not only are the suits likely to be as numerous as they would be if the courts were to attempt to make reasonable tariff schedules. They necessitate investigations of a great variety of subjects, each requiring the ascertainment and analysis of masses of facts and the weighing of a great body of conflicting expert opinions.

Great Volume of Evidence.

By way of illustration there could be nothing better than what the tobacco and oil cases have furnished. The record in each is enormous. There are volumes of evidence, and the rise, progress, and development of each industry to date are set forth at full length, with all accompanying facts respecting foreign and domestic markets and foreign and domestic consumption and competition.

When it is remembered that every industry of the country and every business combination carrying it on may be subjected to the same ordeal, the wonder will be not that the mills of the national judiciary grind slowly but that they do not cease grinding altogether.

When the decision in the trust cases was first announced there was a general sigh of relief on the part of the American business world. Lawyers, statesmen, and captains of industry joined in a chorus of praise for the judgment and the court. They were seemingly captivated by what struck them, or what they chose to treat as a new discovery—namely: the existence of a rule of reason in accordance with which the courts discharged their functions.

They did not know, or ignored the fact, that there was nothing new about the rule; that the Supreme court had not invented it for use in the trust cases, and that English jurists and English courts had acted upon it for centuries, to the great advantage both of society at large and of the law itself.

Of late, however, pæans in honor of the court and of its adjudication have rather abruptly ceased and have given place to general skepticism, not as to the existence of the rule of reason and its value, but as to the justness of the application of the rule by the court to the Sherman anti-trust statute.

Did the rule justify or call for any such application? Did it authorize or require the court to evolve out of its own inner consciousness a standard by which the reasonableness of business corporations should be determined?

In undertaking to settle such a standard without any guidance or clew from congress as to the elements or requirements of the public policy involved, did not the Supreme court trespass upon a field committed by the constitution to the possession of congress exclusively? And did not the rule of reason demand that the court should hold the statute to be altogether and incurably defective, on the court's first version of it, for the reasons the court sets forth, and, on the second and only alternative version, because that would enable and require the court to make its views of public policy the law of the land instead of the views of congress?

Not for Judiciary.

These are the questions now being put by statesmen and lawyers and captains of industry and being more and more uniformly answered in the affirmative. It is being more and more completely and generally realized that only the legislative department of the national government is competent to determine what business combinations should or should not be permitted to carry on interstate and foreign trade and that the question of public policy involved is not for the national judiciary, either as qualified by having power over the subject matter or as well fitted to make such pertinent investigations and obtain such pertinent data as are easily made by and easily accessible to congress and its committees.

Lawyers, in particular, are impressed with the unfortunate consequences to the national courts likely to ensue from their undertaking the duties required of them by the late decisions of the trust cases. It is only too true that no uniform rule touching the reasonableness of business combinations is likely to be found in the decisions of the various national courts of the country; that reasonableness in one district is likely to wear a wholly different aspect from reasonableness in another; that in the nature of things no consistent principle covering all such cases can be formulated by the Supreme court, and that the result to be expected is not merely confusion and perplexity in business circles, but great loss of prestige by the national judiciary.

Taft's Former View.

President Taft, in his present record traveling and speechifying trip, is vigorously lauding the Supreme court's changed attitude on the trust question and is vigorously assailing the views and motives of its critics. But it is clear that he once deprecated any such change and was particularly alarmed by its probable effects upon the prestige and usefulness of the court.

In a special message to congress in January, 1910, noticing the contention that "reasonable" should be a part of the statute and that it should be left to the court to say what is a reasonable restraint of trade and what is a reasonable monopoly, he used this language:

"I venture to think that this is to put into the hands of the court a power impossible to exercise on any consistent principle which will insure the uniformity of decision essential to just judgment. It is to thrust upon the courts a burden that they have no precedents to enable them to carry and to give them a power approaching the arbitrary, the abuse of which might involve our whole judicial system in disaster."

Duty of Congress.

It is quite impossible to believe that the law respecting Big Business will permanently stay in the condition in which the latest trust decisions of the court have landed it. Congress, and congress alone, can effectually and permanently lift business out of the slough of despond in which it is now plunged. It is its plain duty to vindicate its jurisdiction over the subject-matter; to get all possible light upon it by proper investigations and by study of the experience of other countries; and, being thus informed and guided, to determine what are the conditions under which Big Business can be and ought to be carried on without loss of its advantages, but with practical elimination of possible dangers to the public welfare.

Then she fainted. According to Juvenile court officers, the husband deserted her when she was ill and left her to starve at 218 East Fifty-fifth street. The court officers found her, took her to the county hospital, and nursed her back to health. Then they persuaded her to swear out a warrant charging her husband with abandonment. Judge Goodnow continued the case.

WANTS HAT FOR MOTHER.

Mrs. Lucille Chambers Had No Money, So Charged It to Another.

Through the arrest yesterday of Mrs. Lucile Chambers of 4819 Kenmore avenue, her marriage last July to a commercial traveler, of which even her mother was not aware, came to light. Mrs. Chambers, who is 20 years old, was Miss Lucille Ford. She is a graduate of the Lake View High school. Her husband also was a student there. Before her marriage Mrs. Chambers was a member of the choir of the Wilson Avenue Congregational church.

She was arrested for obtaining goods from a State street store by representing herself as another Mrs. Chambers, who has a charge account. One of the articles she purchased was a hat which was intended as a present to her mother.

Eloped to Crown Point.

"I was keeping company with Mr. Chambers, an old schoolmate," she said, "and my mother was opposed to his courtship. On July 12 we went to Crown Point, Ind., and were married. I returned home the same night, and Mr. Chambers left the next day for Oklahoma. We have corresponded regularly since then, and he has sent me money.

"Fearing that my mother would order me from the house, I said nothing to her about the marriage. Before I was married I was employed as a stenographer, and although I have been out of a position for several weeks, I was compelled to make my mother believe that I was working.

Obtained Hat for Mother.

"She asked me to buy her a hat, and I did not have the money. One day I was in a store and overheard a woman tell the clerk to charge what she had purchased to Mrs. Chambers, 1526 East Sixty-fifth place. I saw how easy it was to have articles charged, and I used the other woman's name.

"I don't know what possessed me to do it. It is the first time I ever was arrested or committed a wrong."

Dr. Flexner Declares the Disease Will Be Placed Under Control.

New York, Oct. 27.—[Special.]—At the concluding session of the annual conference of the sanitary officers of the state of New York in Carnegie Lyceum today Dr. Simon Flexner, director of Rockefeller Institute for Medical Research, declared that as the result of many experiments with serum he was able to say that epidemics of spinal meningitis can now be controlled.

This, he said, can be done by putting the serum in the cerebro spinal membrane, thus getting at the seat of the disease. Efforts to get the serum into the blood of infected persons, he said, had failed.

"It has taken a large sum of money and a long time to perfect this cure," he said. "This is the first time I have announced it, as only recently have I demonstrated to my own satisfaction that the serum I have prepared will do what I claim for it.

"With the application of this new form of treatment that we have discovered, influenza meningitis in the child will not be one-tenth as dangerous as it was before the discovery of this new serum and method of treating such a disease."

Five children were made motherless last night when Mrs. Julia Bennett, a widow, fell down an elevator shaft in the building at 2628 North Market street and was killed. She lived at 776 West Seventeenth place.

Mrs. Bennett was employed in the building as a scrubwoman. She was on the fifth floor and attempted to enter the elevator while it was ascending.

William Frang, who was in charge of the elevator, told Lieut. Conroy of the central station, that the woman opened the gate herself. She plunged to the basement. Five other employés in the building witnessed the accident.

CHINESE RULERS SUING FOR PEACE

Negotiations Between Imperialist Forces and Rebels About to Open.

WAR MINISTER OUSTED.

Yuan Shi Kai Takes Command; Assembly Asks Popular Parliament.

PEKING, Oct. 27.—It was authoritatively announced here this evening that at the instigation of Yuan Shi Kai negotiations between the imperialist forces and the revolutionaries in the Yangtse Kiang region are about to open.

It was also officially stated that Yuan Shi Kai will proceed to Sin Yang Chow tomorrow to take up the supreme command of the imperial army and navy at the front.

The minister of war, Gen. Yin Tchang, who is at the head of the imperial forces, has been ordered to turn over his command to Yuan Shi Kai and to return to Peking. It is generally believed that Yin Tchang has been wounded. It has been reported that he is dead and many Chinese believe the report.

Yuan Shih Kai, on whom is confered almost dictatorial powers with the rank of imperial minister, is a strong personality. The throne's edict orders the viceroys of the empire to cooperate with him.

It is declared that he is likely to prove more friendly to the rebels than to the government. His endowment to power is not ascribed to his love of an imperialistic policy but to the desperate need of a savior for the empire. He numbers his friends strongly among the anti-Manchus and many believe that secretly he sympathizes with the revolutionists.

Asks Immediate Parliament.

At the session today the national assembly adopted a resolution to memorialize the throne requesting the immediate institution of a popular parliament, the reconstruction of the cabinet with the nobles excluded, and the pardon of political offenders, including the present rebels, as the best means of quelling the rebellion. The members lamented the fact that Sheng-Hsuan-Huai, deposed minister of posts, had not been sentenced to death.

The empress dowager has contributed several millions to the army campaign fund. The government announces that the imperial troops have recaptured Cheng Fu. An unofficial report asserts there has been severe fighting around Hankow and that 700 rebels were killed.

Deposed Minister Near Death.

Sheng-Hsuan-Huai, who was removed from office as a concession to the national assembly yesterday, had a narrow escape from assassination today.

Edward T. Williams, the American chargé d'affaires, denies that Sheng Hsuan-Huai entered the American legation, but says he cannot discuss the ex-minister's departure from Peking further.

A proposal was circulated among members of the national assembly for signatures demanding the decapitation of Sheng. One of Sheng's adherents visited the American legation today and after a hurried conference proceeded to the race course, from which two foreign ministers returned immediately to Peking.

Lodge Complaint with Premier.

Later the French, German, and British ministers, accompanied by the American chargé d'affaires, drove to the residence of Prince Ching, the premier, and lodged an objection to a possible decree in line with the wishes of the assembly.

At Tien Tsin and Shanghai the foreign residents will give Sheng the protection of the foreign police. Representatives of the governments concerned in the railway and currency agreements felt in honor bound to intervene for his safety, as they or their predecessors had pressed him to conclude these contracts, and also urged him to take the strong stand which resulted in the present situation.

While the revolution had been brewing previous to the conclusion of these contracts, it is considered here that the foreign loan policy finally precipitated it.

Gen. Li Yuen Heng, leader of the rebel forces, has informed the foreign consuls at Hankow that he has been proclaimed "president of the republic of China."

The foreign ministers here have exchanged communications with Li upon several subjects. They objected to his announcement that vessels carrying contraband would be subject to confiscation and also to his proposal to administer the custom revenues at the port of the Yangtse Kiang and other cities when controlled by the revolutionists.

The latter objection was based on the fact that revenues are pledged as security for foreign loans and should be turned over to the British inspector general of customs in China.

The fear that the uprising will soon reach Peking is becoming stronger and there is a general exodus of officers and Manchu families from the capital. The settlements at Tientsin and the southern concessions are filled with refugees.

ITALIAN TROOPS LOSING IN TRIPOLI

FEAR GREAT MASSACRE.

British Subjects Ask That Warships Be Sent to the City to Protect Them.

[BY CABLE TO THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE.]

MALTA, Oct. 27.—Sixty thousand Turks and Arabs are pressing back the Italian lines around the city of Tripoli and the inhabitants of the town are in panic, fearing a massacre if the movement is successful. Maltese and other British subjects in Tripoli are asking for warships to protect them.

Messages which escaped the Italian censor tell of several days of almost continuous fighting in which the Italians had the worst of it. Although reports from Italian forces declare the loss has been small, it is reported here that hundreds of Italians have been killed or wounded.

That the loss of the invading army is not greater is due to an error of a minor Turkish commander. His small force made a premature attack upon a large Italian column which was advancing into an ambush. Had the Turkish plans not gone astray few of the Italians would have survived, so numerically superior were the Turks and Arabs who were waiting to surround and attack them.

Italians Wait New Army.

While the Italian officials deny they have met with serious reverses, confirmation of their plight is given in the official announcement that no forward movement will be begun until reinforcements arrive. It is known that another expedition left Naples in secret last night.

A revolt within Tripoli city was one of the more serious developments. Arabs who had hailed the occupation of the city by Italians with delight suddenly appeared in the streets armed when the Turkish attack began on the outskirts, and fierce street fighting followed. Arabs suddenly appeared on all of the balconies, and even on the house tops, and opened fire on the garrison.

The extent to which the uprising in the city has gone is shown by the fact that from forty to fifty Arabs are shot daily by the Italians after court martial.

Fierce Fighting in Trenches.

Details of the fighting yesterday have been received. The Turkish attack was made before daybreak and took the Italians by surprise.

The Arabian and Turkish cavalry threw themselves against the entire Italian line. A sanguinary encounter at close quarters ensued. The Turks fought furiously. One contingent advanced to the trenches occupied by the Italian sharpshooters, slaying as they came.

The Turks were reinforced by two large bodies of infantry, and threw its whole strength against the Italian center, which they succeeded in smashing, but the Italians rallied and drove back the enemy, inflicting heavy losses.

The Turkish horsemen and foot soldiers displayed remarkable bravery. In one instance a company of Turks and Arabs which had fallen back returned to the field in the face of almost certain death to recover the body of a fallen officer. In the dash one-half of the number were cut down by Italian bullets.

SHIFTS THE JUDGES' LIST

DONE TO STOP LAWSUITS.

Decision Made, Despite Charge Statute Is Unconstitutional.

Rather than take the chance of possible litigation over the arrangement of the names on the ballots for the judicial election next Tuesday, the board of election commissioners yesterday receded from its former decision and will allow the candidates' names to be printed in the order certified by the secretary of state.

The commissioners had announced the official ballot order would be the arrangement made by the commissioners, who chose the names by lot. Alfred Austrian, attorney for the Democratic central committee, whose members have intimated that the commissioners placed the names to suit their own convenience, appeared before the board yesterday. He cited the new law providing that the names should go on the ballot as prescribed by the secretary of state.

Attorney Mitchell, for the board, insisted the new law was unconstitutional, but that rather than have any trouble on the eve of the election he would advise the board to accept the list certified to by the secretary of state.

Official Ballot as It Stands.

Republican.	Democrat.
William H. McSurely,	Joseph H. Fitch,
Albert C. Barnes,	Walter T. Stanton,
Henry V. Freeman,	D. L. Cruice,
Charles M. Foell,	M. L. McKinley,
Andrew J. Redmond,	Daniel G. Ramsay,
Hugo Pam,	Ross C. Hall,
Edward A. Dicker,	Denis E. Sullivan,
Joseph J. Sullivan,	Clarence N. Goodwin,
McKenzie Cleland,	Thomas J. Dawson.

How Nominees Are Affected.

The first four candidates for the Superior court remain the same as before, because they are placed according to the vote they received at the April primary. The six convention picked nominees are changed slightly from the order agreed upon by the commissioners. Ramsay and Hall, on the Democratic ticket, interchange places, and Goodwin is placed next to last, instead of fifth, while McKinley is moved from the third place from the bottom to fifth place.

On the Republican side Pam goes from fifth place to seventh, Cleland from seventh to last, Foell from ninth to fifth, Judge Dicker from last to ninth, and Sullivan and Redmond interchange places.

She—Is that so?

He—Yes. I tried to take a note that didn't belong to me one time and they put me in jail.

A woman laughed herself to death yesterday over this joke in the Fox theater at Aurora, and another was so violently amused she had a fit.

The woman who is dead is Miss Margaret Higgins Milroy of Batavia. When she heard the jest she laughed so hard that she was taken with a fit of coughing. The coughing led to a hemorrhage of the lungs. She became unconscious, was carried to an ambulance, and died on the way to the St. Charles hospital.

Miss Ernestine Heidt of Aurora heard the same joke. She began to laugh and the laugh ended in a fit.

A sore throat is a serious matter and is not to be healed by such make-believe remedies. The use of such methods is simply putting the patient to needless torture. Use a little sore throat wisdom and give them TONSILINE and the throat will heal quickly.

Ten cents now buys the best cigar that can be made

The Rigoletto Cigar. The tobacco we put into the Rigoletto is the costliest tobacco grown. We couldn't pay more for tobacco if we wanted to. But we import Havana tobacco from Cuba and make the cigars in this country in order to save you the heavy tariff charge. This saving alone amounts to more than seven cents on each cigar.

The Rigoletto cigar is hand-rolled as carefully as a cigar can be made. Every cigar is sightly, even and free-burning. Yet, by eliminating wasteful conditions in cigar manufacturing, we have reduced the cost of making 50 per cent.

It is by these savings, by the introduction of efficient methods, that we are able to put the money into actual tobacco value—to give you for ten cents the finest cigar that can be made.

The Rigoletto Cigar

means that for the first time you're getting real smoking value for every cent of your cigar money. You're not paying unnecessary tariff charges, or selling costs, or for the old-fashioned wasteful methods of manufacturing.

That's why the Rigoletto is now the most popular brand in the country among smokers of good cigars. Its real Havana fragrance, its flavor and mellowness and smooth-burning qualities appeal to every man who has a taste for good cigars.

You can get the Rigoletto at all good cigar shops. Four standard shapes, Panetela, Elegante, Perfecto Extra and Club House. All 10c straight.

Says Living Cost Drives Women to Bad Lives.

If the cost of living in our cities continues to increase in the present ratio, the number of degraded men and women will be increased to vast armies. This is the statement of A. B. Hulit, head of the National American Immigration association, who spoke at a luncheon given in the Hotel La Salle by the Woman's party of Cook county.

"You women know the base of degradation is want," said Mr. Hulit. "It is hunger that drives women to lives of shame. If the cost of living continues to increase there will be a slow process of filling up the armies of the degraded. When you say you are going to purify politics when you get the ballot you are in error. Women are no more honest than men. If they have the same temptations they will fall, just as men do."

Mrs. Myra Strawn Hartshorn was chairman of the luncheon. Among the speakers were Alfred Rose, Mrs. Freeman E. Brown, Mrs. Frances Shaw, Countess de Langlade, and Mrs. Esther Falkenstein.

In the World of Music.

The Thomas Orchestra Honors Liszt's Memory.

BY GLENN DILLARD GUNN.

IT is not often that artistic piety achieves its end. Therefore it happens that the various centennial and memorial concerts which duty imposes upon a symphony orchestra from time to time have come to be regarded by the public with a certain patient tolerance inimical to spontaneous interpretative effort. It required the magnetic and compelling art and personality of Rudolph Ganz to awaken the Friday afternoon patrons of the Thomas concerts from their wonted attitude and convince them that the Liszt centennial was not an ordinary affair of pious duty but the reverent service of musicians who seek to do honor to the memory of a superlative genius.

There have been many performances of the E flat major concerto in the Thomas concerts. In some the technical demands of the work have served the twofold purpose of defining the mechanical and musical limitations of the interpreter and establishing a false impression of the intentions of the composer. Hence the tradition as to the superficial brilliancy of the work. Mr. Ganz may have technical limitations. If so, they are known only to himself, and the Liszt E flat concerto is not the medium to reveal them to the public. He stands so completely above the work that it achieves under his hands the effect of free and spontaneous improvisation, controlled by a sense of beauty so keen, that its boldest utterances, its utmost heights of exultation, its most intimate and poetic inflections, fall into a broad, symmetrical pattern.

With this rhapsodic, extempore spirit as its chiefest attribute, Mr. Ganz's interpretation of the concerto developed tonal and pianistic graces and beauties that were at once its varied expressions and its complementing and modifying factors. It so far transcended the ordinary standards of piano playing that one prefers to regard it as pure tonal art entirely independent of the nature and the limitations of the instrument. When it was brilliant one thought not of fleet fingers and strenuous octaves but of an impulse to free and glorious enthusiasm made audible. One forgot that the piano cannot sing, for here was song that touched the imagination with the magic finger of romance and opened strange and fantastic vistas of emotion and sensibility.

Yet it remained the familiar Liszt E flat concerto. Mr. Ganz did not find it necessary to improve upon the thought of the composer as it is recorded in the text. He played the notes as they stand in the score, yet resolved them into that inspired utterance that the composer heard in his heart and set down with the cumbersome tools of the art. To do that is to attain the noblest ideals of interpretative art. It was not surprising, therefore, that his performance was received with an expression of approval that approached as near to what is popularly known as an ovation as the decorum of this undemonstrative public permitted. Mr. Ganz responded with a tonally beautiful reading of the popular A flat "Liebestraum," in which the audience recognized those inflections of the Liszt idiom with which the public is most familiar and which therefore most nearly satisfy its ideals

The mood so surely established by Mr. Ganz was splendidly maintained by Mr. Stock in the first movement of the "Faust" symphony. With regret one records the fact that the audience received this far more significant work with a reserve that was sufficient commentary on the general lack of understanding. Here one may discover the secret of the unsuccess of the most beautiful melodic and harmonic ideas of Liszt as they are elaborated in his own music and the instant appeal which they make in their various Wagnerian treatments and developments. Liszt left them free and the public, disciplined by the rigid patterns of the tunes it can remember, will have nothing of melodic freedom. Wagner fashioned music into a system and carefully conformed to the "tune pattern." Therefore the general effect of his art just meets the limitations of the average cultured listener.

Unquestionably the attitude of the audience reacted upon the conductor and his men. They gave generously and enthusiastically of their best, and meeting slight response, lapsed in the second movement into dutiful an performance of the notes that was as far removed from the inspiration of the first section as is mere skill from genuine feeling. Thus it happened that the poetry and idealism of the music in which Liszt has sought to define the personality and character of Margaret became merely a series of beautiful tonal effects. It mattered not that Mr. Esser, Mr. Barthel, Mr. Schreurs, and the other soloists engaged delivered their parts with splendid skill. The spell was broken nor could it be reëstablished.

The scherzo intended to define in tones the spirit of "Mephistopheles." "Der Geist der stets verneint," is possibly the greatest example of the variation form that has been added to the art since Beethoven. Mr. Stock set forth this sardonic caricature of the beauties that had gone before with just the needed touch of diabolic cunning and he built up an imposing climax in the final chorus. Here the singers of the Mendelssohn club proved themselves worthy to be associated with the Thomas orchestra even at its best, thus escaping the anti-climax that usually overtakes the symphony in its German performances. John B. Miller intoned the tenor solo with much taste, sympathy, and beauty of voice.

Wagner's "March of Homage" opened the program. It was effectively read and made sonorous if somewhat empty preface to the concerto. The program will be repeated this evening.

Among the New Books.

Story by Hewlett a Luminous Tapestry.

BY ELIA W. PEATTIE.

MAURICE HEWLETT has expended his richest qualities of imagination upon "THE SONG OF RENNY" (Scribners) and has produced a story which is as pictorial—or rather, as decorative—as a luminous tapestry. A medieval tale of France, bloody, barbaric, and splendid, it seems rather to hang upon the wall of one's room of fancy than to become a part of one's life.

The imperious Rennys, "cousins to the Virgin Mary and to the king," are next in authority to the ruling house of feudal France, are as quaint, as stiff, as terrible, and as dazzling as any ever embroidered upon cloth of gold; and their oppressor, the raging Earl of Pikpoyntz, is a figure as fearful as Herod. Nor could any setting have been devised more impressive than the dark Valley of Stones, with its shining castle high in the midst, pinnacled and towered and lying in the full shine of the sun.

In a sense the story is one of a troubadour's love, for in the end, after great adventures, the last lady of the Rennys did what at least two royal ladies of our own time have done, married a humble gentleman who has the milk of kindness rather than imperial blood in his veins. It seems impossible that in a nervous age like this a man can hold the attention of the reader with 400 pages of gorgeous, reminiscent posturing, no more real in a sense than one of those modern pageants which are devised to remind the commonplace moderns of their picturesque beginnings. But the art of Hewlett is sufficient for this. One hangs upon lucent sentences, rejoices in scenic loveliness such as William Morris might have contrived, and is carried along by the musical echoes of a long dead passion.

It is interesting to know that another book by Mr. Hewlett, "The Song of Roland," is soon to be produced in this city by the young but aspiring "Alderbrink Press," under the supervision of Ralph Fletcher Seymour.

"ETHAN FROME" represents a new departure on the part of Edith Wharton (Scribners). It is a fascinating and appalling story with a theme which seems properly to belong to Mary Wilkins. But the style in which it is written is more dramatic than that employed by Miss Wilkins, and the effect upon the mind is somehow different. Not pity for human fate so much as awe at the dispensation of the gods is the mental attitude at the conclusion of this remarkable tale.

The story is of a Massachusetts town and of a man of strong will and fine intelligence who was beaten into helplessness by destiny. He cared for an old father and mother in his youth, wedded a distant relative older than himself who had cared for his mother, and accepted the heavy monotony of life in a stagnant village until a young girl came into his life. She was a relative of his wife's and came to care for her. She, like himself, was joyous, eager, and out-looking. The two shuddered before the mean tyrrany of the hypochondriacal wife and finally, when the wife practically cast out the penniless and friendless girl, Ethan Frome and Mattie Silver had a bold and terrific flight of imagination. They got on a coaster sled one glittering moonlight night, headed for a huge elm, and meant to go to their death together, laughing. They both lived, broken in body—she a helpless invalid tied to her chair for life, he a twisted creature who could barely drag his body about; and the woman whose inscrutable cruelty had driven them to their mad act cared for them with sullen devotion amid the bitter poverty of their home.

It doesn't sound like pleasant reading, you will say. It really is a great book. Perhaps it is the best thing Mrs. Wharton ever has done. It is at any rate as relentless as a Greek drama.

"MOTHER," by Kathleen Norris (Macmillan), is a singularly touching and simple tale conveying a great message beneath its unaffected history. It is the story of an ambitious young girl, Margaret Pagent, who grows up in a small New York village, one of a family of eight, the inheritor of rather fine traditions and the victim of that desperate economy which a small salary and a large family entail. She is taken into a rich New York household as private secretary and indulged friend, and is shown the riches of the world as they display themselves in our metropolis. Then, returning to her home, she finds there the same confusion of eager interests, the same shabbiness, sacrifice, and endless toil which she left, and it strikes her as being the result of consummate stupidity. She looks upon her self-forgetting and heroic mother as upon one who has committed a blunder, and though she is awakening to the fact that she herself loves a man—a young professor whom she has met in New York—she is in revolt against the maternal life.

The manner in which the real meaning of life is unfolded to her and the transfiguration which her mother finally achieved in the eyes of her daughter, may be left to the story teller.

Montrose J. Moses has, of his abundant experience and knowledge, written a book entitled "THE AMERICAN DRAMATIST" (Little, Brown & Co.), which seems to fill a need. With commendable brevity he tells the reader about American playwrights and American dramatic ideals. "We are splashing around in a rich sea of American humanity," he writes, "and we do not know how to swim with the strong current." A truer word could not be said. The fact is evident both in our strong and rather brutal plays and in our more subtle and ineffective ones. Our playwrights are dismayed by the abundance of the material at hand and by the incoherence of our civilization. Mr. Moses pays his respects to each and every playwright of importance since 1850, and illustrates his book with portraits.

The seventh volume of "THE CAMBRIDGE HISTORY OF ENGLISH LITERATURE" bears the subtitle "Cavalier and Puritan" and has to do with the rich period of Charles I. A notable group of scholars provides the sixteen chapters of the book, among them George Saintsbury, who contributes the chapter on Milton as well as that on "Antiquaries," and the one on "Lesser Caroline Poets." To F. W. Moorman has been accorded the vivacious subject, "The Cavalier Lyrists"; the Rev. F. E. Hutchinson has written a very choice chapter on the sacred poets; A. Hamilton Thompson discourses of the writers of the couplet; the Rev. W. H. Hutton has the gravid subject "Caroline Divines" for his theme; A. W. Ward contributes his chapter on historical and political writings; the Rev. John Brown deals with Bunyan and Marvell, and others, no less distinguished in church and academy, write of criticism, philosophy, scholarship, journalism, etc. All of the work is distinguished by its particularity—its nice attention to details. The copious volume leaves nothing to be desired, it would seem, in the way of comment and criticism. True, certain phases of literary expression have been passed over in a cursory manner, but they are precisely the ones the reader will be willing to pass by. In all the more interesting matters, such as an examination of the works of Vaughn, the poet; of Sir Thomas Browne, or of the Hatton or the Howells letters, the information is specific. The work is up to the standard of the preceding volumes, and having a subject so inviting to students of literature, will be, it is safe to predict, one of the favorite volumes of the series. (Putnam.)

If "The Women of the Cæsars," by Guglielmo Ferrero, does not represent the most scholarly work of that distinguished historian, it is nevertheless an intensely interesting and instructive book. (The Century Co.) It is written with an underlying philosophic purpose, as the author frankly indicates. It's tragic pages carry their own lesson. Ferrero is not only a brilliant historian, completely informed in his subject, but he is a man of singular wisdom and sympathy. He writes as he feels, and he does not hesitate to point his morals or to make his applications. He is no follower of tradition, but abides by the result of his investigations, and when he pronounces Messalina no monster or Claudius no imbecile the reader has no desire to question the authenticity of his statement. It is, in fact, the completely authentic character of this work, added to its dignity and simplicity, that gives it value. It is illustrated with reproductions of portraits and statues.

Round About Chicago.

Pinch-hitting at Banquets.

BY RICHARD HENRY LITTLE.

CANNED speeches, composed by Miss Euphemia Gusher for various after dinner orators who will make addresses at notable functions arranged for President Taft, are now ready for delivery and should be called for immediately.

Miss Gusher, who has charge of the "Speeches and Addresses for All Occasions" department of Round About Chicago, has given her best effort to the preparation of speeches to be shot at the president during his stay. She completed her arduous task last night and the speeches were immediately put into cold storage.

They are carefully wrapped in tinfoil and while they should not be taken off the ice more than ten hours before the dinner at which they are to be used Miss Gusher cheerfully guarantees that, if handled carefully, they will keep sweet and fresh for a week at least. In case of a postponed game on account of unfavorable weather condition, they will still be found in a perfect state of preservation when finally required for use.

Miss Gusher has devoted her greatest effort to the clever handling of several questions which ordinarily cause Chicago orators considerable embarrassment. These are questions which can never be dodged, and yet for reasons understood thoroughly by all patriotic citizens can hardly be presented in detail to the guest of honor without causing much confusion and dismay. Miss Gusher has written the speeches in such a way that, while none of the speakers will evade any question that has to do with Chicago, no embarrassment will fall upon the local committees and our own fellow townsmen at the feasts when the president and his party are the guests of honor.

Miss Gusher's speech No. 7, for instance, which can be called any subject at the pleasure of the banquet committee, starts off with a glowing description of the magnificent parks and boulevards of Chicago. It then points with pride to the great office buildings of Chicago, our churches, theaters, and public buildings. The speaker then says: "And I would say, Mr. President, that you will find during your stay in our beautiful city that Chicago has neglected no opportunity for adding to the commercial supremacy of this marvelous metropolis, destined within a few years, Mr. President, to be the greatest city of the world with New York, Paris, and London batting in a bush league of their own. I say to you, Mr. President, we have left nothing undone, we have realized the fullest possibilities of every single one of the great resources that a kind and generous nature has placed within our grasp."

The speaker will kindly pause for applause at this point, which should last three minutes. Persons attending the banquet at which this speech is delivered will kindly note that the cue for three minutes of frenzied cheering is "placed within our grasp." When you hear those words "placed within our grasp" start something.

After the three minutes' applause has subsided the speaker will say:

"It has been charged cruelly, maliciously, and without warrant that Chicago has neglected to provide an outer harbor. It has been said that Chicago is neglecting its shipping interests and that it has declined with lightning rapidity from its former proud eminence as a maritime city."

Let no one be nervous at this point. This is all right, although it sounds threatening.

"Mr. President," the orator will continue, "I am not going to dodge the question relating to an outer harbor. We don't dodge in Chicago. I am going to tell you all about the outer harbor in the fullest detail. I will tell you not only of its beauty but its defects if defects there are, and you shall be the judge whether or not we have a right in this magnificent city of Chicago to be proud of our outer harbor."

At this point the toastmaster of the banquet will give a signal to the First Regiment band in the balcony, which will immediately play with great fervor the celebrated "Alexander's Rag Time Band," selected because it is noisier than anything else Miss Gusher could think of.

While the band plays its loudest the speaker will say as follows:

"O, a bla bla, a bla bla. Meenie, meenie, minie mo. Ca la la la, ca la la loo. O truffled grouse. O pate de foi gras. Holla balloo, holla balloo, holla balloo. Blim bling bloom. Take these papers to Gen. Grant and tell him I died for the old flag. O cream cheese and schmeerkase, bla ha, bla ha, bla ha. O fee fi fo fum, wow, wow, wow!"

If the band is not through with its selection by this time the orator can repeat this portion of his speech as long as the noise continues. As soon as the band concludes playing the orator will immediately say, in a loud and piercing voice:

"And what I have said, Mr. President, covers everything concerning the wonderful outer harbor of our glorious city."

After the applause has died down the orator will continue as follows:

"Mr. President and Gentlemen, it has been said that Chicago, while a great commercial city, is not a beautiful city. It has been claimed that soot and smoke and cinders and ashes from Illinois Central engines pollute our beautiful lake front and our Michigan boulevard. Now, then, regarding this cruel calumny I have only to say——"

At the cue words "I have only to say" all the Chicago patriots at the dinner will immediately begin to rattle their knives and forks. Those sitting close to the president will rattle loudest. Drop plates on the floor and cough with great vehemence.

The orator will then speak as follows:

"Toodle doodle doo. A bow wow wow. A zum zum zum; O, potatoes and onions, carrots and rutabagas. Oskey wow wow skinny wow wow. Pontiac reform school rah rah rah. The higher the fewer, but why should the spirit of mortal be proud? Give 'em the other barrel. Bang, bling bling bling set 'em up in the other alley. Silence, Mildred, remember 'twas I and not you that was driven from home. O, rotten! Ping Bodie has fanned out again. Boo, boo, boo. Stand back, men; give him air. Zowie."

At this point the orator will wipe his left ear with his handkerchief, which is a cue for the uproar to subside, and the speaker will then lean forward and say, impressively:

"And now that I have dealt in such a wealth of detail with the subject of dirt and cinders on the lake front, I will take up another and more delightful subject. Mr. President, you have been on this memorable journey of yours from sea to sea, in many states, I am sorry to say, where the serpent graft is found. You have been in states where legislators have sold for base dollars the power conferred upon them by the sovereign voters of their respective commonwealths. Bribery and corruption, I say with sorrow, have existed, Mr. President, in some of the glorious sections of our glorious country through which you have passed. But, Mr. President, in the proud state of Illinois, the state of Lincoln and Grant, I can say, sir, that as far as corruption of legislators and bribery and jackpots are concerned that——"

At this point the Chicago gentlemen at the tables will immediately drop plates, knives, and forks on the floor and then replace them on the table and shove them off again while a trusty messenger rushes up to the band in the gallery and shouts: "Now, boys, for your lives, blow the roof off!"

The orator will then speak as follows: "Ah, zounds, one, two, three, four, five, six, seven, eight, nine, ten, twenty, thirty, for shame you cowards to shoot that gray haired man he owes me 50 cents, a, b, c, d, e, f, g, killa, killoo, ha ha and ho ho. Yes, Evangeline, the horse must be taken out of the parlor at once, la, la, la, strike tuh, Pugley, you are a disgrace to your team you only gouged one eye out of their center rush when you knew perfectly well he had two, O bing also bloom, also rattle rattle who cares why, Billie, what are you doing, no, mother, never wow wow wow, what a silly story, what's the point, ding dong bell the cat's in the well."

At this point the speaker will spill a glass of wine on the head of the man sitting next to him, which is the cue for the dish breaking and band playing to stop.

Then the orator will say: "And that, Mr. President, is my reply to those who seek to cast obloquy upon the grand old state of Illinois."

Wedding a Poor Man.

[Copyright: 1911: By Laura Jean Libbey.]

MARRIAGE with a poor young man is not a hardship for the girl who truly loves him. She will find that she can give up cheerfully for her husband's sake many coveted fancies. She would have to make a solemn compact with herself and adhere to it strictly that she must not want too much, and not to expect to get the little she does want.

A poor man is a valuable prize in love's realm, inasmuch as he is never a target for the sirens who constantly flit across the path of the rich man, lured by and to lure his gold.

The poor man is contented with the wife he has chosen and whom he knows loves him for himself alone; his home is a paradise on earth to him; his one all absorbing desire is to make his loved ones happy, with the love of a good wife to light the fire of ambition, he is brave enough to climb to the topmost heights of fame, proud to lay the golden shekels he gathers at her feet.

The children of love unions such as these give the world men and women of noble prinsiples and high ideals—the most brilliant in the world's history.

The girl who weds a man for his wealth alone deserves no pity if he loses his fortune and she is obliged to face the world in poverty at last, yoked to a mate who no longer commands even her respect.

Fate plays strange pranks on those who wed for wealth instead of love. Wise parents promote a daughter's happiness in her marriage. This she will never secure unless wedded to a soulmate. True love outweighs all the wealth the world holds. Fortunes may fly away like the down of the thistle; love endures to the end of life.

I would rather marry a poor man with noble principles and a great, big loving heart if he hadn't a second coat to his back than wed a man rolling in gold who was a bankrupt in affection before I knew him. Happiness is everything in this world; riches without it are as a diamond in a setting of brass.

Are There Any Other Such Places?

"Dear Miss Libbey: The First Presbyterian church of Lake View, situated at the corner of Evanston and Addison avenues, is building a parish house, which will be finished early in December, perhaps late in November. We expect to keep it open every night in the week. Should your correspondents live near enough to it, both men and women, they will be very welcome to sit there and to enjoy its library, pool table, or any other of the things which we propose to have there. MRS. F. W. S.

The church is to be congratulated on taking up this much needed work. I wish there were hundreds of such meeting places in the city.

Claudia, Don't Be Foolish.

"Dear Miss Libbey: I am 15. I am not a flirt. I hate a flirt. But I have met one boy by flirting. I am sorry now. This boy asked me to write to him. Should I have written? I did not write. Is it correct for a girl of my age to go with nice boys as long as she does not act mushy? There is a boy in my room at school who is always looking at me. I don't think it is because he loves me. Why is it? I'm not so pretty. I'm strong against kissing. I don't think that a girl who thinks very much of herself will kiss a boy. CLAUDIA."

Claudia, don't be foolish. You are entirely too young to bother your head about the boys. At present the great thing for you to do is to try to study and improve your mind. You know school days won't last forever, and, unless you have taken advantage of your school time, you will find that you won't count for much in the big, busy world. I am so disappointed to hear that you have flirted! It is such a cheap, common, ordinary thing to do. You simply write all over yourself that you are not the right type of a girl when you do such a thing as flirt. No one has any respect for a flirt. Certainly, you should not have written to him. You are too young to go about with boys. I don't think the boy realizes that he is looking at you. His thoughts are probably not about you at all. I am afraid, unless you are careful, that you will be conceited. Don't be. It doesn't pay.

Lillian Russell's Beauty Secrets.

Large Ugly Joints.

BY LILLIAN RUSSELL.

[Copyright: 1911: By Lillian Russell.]

NOTE—Miss Russell will be glad to answer question pertaining to womanly beauty. [Miss] Libbey will reply to queries on social prob[lems]. Mrs. Eddington will give advice on house[keep]ing. Personal replies will be given if a sta[mped] and addressed envelope is inclosed.

COMING downtown the other day, my friend said to me: "Just look at that woman's feet." I looked and saw a well dressed woman with hair in perfect order, a tailor made frock that was trim and stylish, and, being in the mode, it was short and showed most awful looking feet.

"If that woman's feet feel as bad as they look," said my friend, "she must be in misery. I wonder if there is any help for such trouble?" she asked me.

"I am sure there is," I answered, "and I am going to consult my chiropodist about it."

"Any enlargement of the joints at the base of the great toe is popularly termed a bunion," said my foot doctor, "but this is a mistake. There are three distinct diseases of these joints, and the symptoms and appearance of them are so similar that most persons call them bunions and let it go at that. I have known cases where a patient had all three of these diseases of the foot at the same time and in the same joint, and the appearance was exactly like a bunion.

"Bunions, dislocated joints, and enlarged joints are all due primarily to ill fitting shoes, short stockings, pressure, heat, or friction. Rheumatic gout also enlarges the joints and dislocated joints are often due to accidental injury.

"A bunion is an inflammation of the bursa situated over the joint of the great toe. This bursa is a little subcutaneous sack which contains just enough fluid to lubricate its walls, and it protects the bone and the joint. Constant pressure, of course, causes inflammation with the attendant symptoms of redness, swelling, pain, and heat.

"The bunion proper is caused locally by the swelling of the flesh at the base of the great or little toe. The constant pressure of the shoe, if too short, too narrow, or too loose in the instep, so as to cause the toes to push forward when walking, will cause a swelling and the parts affected will become red and inflamed. As the swelling increases the pores on its surface begin to close and a hard, thick skin, studded with little hard corns about the size of a pinhead or larger, cover the bunion. These little points or grains of hard substance press down into the skin and against the nerves underneath and cause excruciating pain.

"The newest and best ideas on the subject of relieving this trouble, continued my chiropodist, "are to use a pad of some soft material that will take the pressure off the bunion. Of course it will be understood that not only your shoes but your stockings must be of the proper size and fit. Some chiropodists use layers of felt and other build medicated cotton up around the bunion and cover it with court plaster to hold it in place.

"In my own practice I use a rubber shield, first having made a plaster of paris cast for the foot and then fitting the rubber to the cast. The rubber is soft and pleasant to the foot and, besides, it has the effect of reducing swelling and inflammation more rapidly than any other thing I have ever used, as it acts as a mild poultice besides removing the pressure from the affected part. It is foolish to attempt to ameliorate the pain of a bunion oneself, and upon the first symptom the person should go immediately to a competent chiropodist and abide by his advice as to shoes, stockings, and treatment.

"The feet should be given a rest every day and a chance to get air and sunshine. When one is lying down to rest it is a good practice to undress the feet, and when lounging in one's room one may go barefooted for a short time each day with beneficial results. Especially is this recommended to those who have bunions and enlarged joints."

Remember: Healthy feet are absolutely necessary to an optimistic outlook on life.

Economical Housekeeping.

BY JANE EDDINGTON.

Tripe.

"WHAT a delicious smell!" remarked "Short," as he entered the inn of the Jolly Sandboys. Thomas Codlin, arriving earlier, see chapter 18 of "The Old Curiosity Shop," had received the reply in answer to his question as to what was in the cauldron, the delightful steam of which had so tickled his nostrils.

"'It's a stew of tripe,' said the landlord, smacking his lips, 'and cow-heel,' smacking them again, 'and bacon,' smacking them once more, 'and steak,' smacking them for the fourth time, 'and peas and cauliflowers, new potatoes and sparrow-grass, all working up together in one delicious gravy.'"

One does not have to search so very long and hard in literature for many such references to tripe, which is so universally and highly appreciated in European countries. At the first shrill notes of the Pied Piper of Hamelin, in that perhaps most popular poem Browning ever wrote, what was heard?

"I heard a sound as of scraping tripe,
And putting apples, wondrous ripe,
Into a cider press' gripe;
And a moving away the pick[le]-tub-boards

The French Jesuits, who came to America as missionaries in the seventeenth century, among other hardships often had little to eat save what they called "tripe de Roche," a species of lichen which, when boiled, resolved itself into a black glue, nauseous, but not devoid of nourishment.

I do not claim to know much about tripe, only just a little more than the man in the story who went fishing for tripe in Boston harbor. I believe, however, that following recipes are all reliable. At any rate, they have all been used by practical persons.

Stewed Tripe.—One and one-half pounds of fresh tripe, a good half pint of milk, one ounce of butter, a tablespoon of flour, a little chopped onion, pepper and salt. Parboil the tripe, then boil again in fresh water until very tender. Take from the saucepan and cut across the grain into long inch wide strips. Return to the liquor, which must barely cover the tripe, add the butter, milk (into which a little of the flour must be smoothly stirred), the chopped onion, pepper and salt. Simmer slowly until the onion is well done. Serve with finely chopped parsley sprinkled over it.

The author of this recipe adds: "Few people know how delicious this dish is and how rich in nourishing and digestive properties."

Pepper Pot, Old Virginia Style.—Two pounds of tripe, beef bone with meat scraps, and knuckle of veal—two pounds in all—one red pepper pod, six cloves, six allspice, salt to taste, one-third teaspoon browned flour, one onion. Clean tripe and boil twice to remove odor. Cook till tender. Put bones and meat scraps into pot and add five pints of cold water. When it boils skim, add pot herbs, spices, and onion. Simmer until tender. Remove from liquor and put aside. Drain tripe. Next day remove fat from liquor, heat to boiling point, add diced raw potatoes, meat, and tripe. Boil until potatoes are tender. Serve with dumplings.

Tripe à la Mode.—Soak one pound of nice pickled tripe for one-half hour in slightly salted water. Drain on soft cloth and sprinkle with one-fourth teaspoon of pepper. Dip in beaten egg and roll in finely powdered bread crumbs. Fry in one teaspoon of butter and two tablespoons of lard until golden brown. Garnish with parsley.

Tripe Lyonnaise.—Cut up half a pound of cold boiled tripe into neat squares. Put two tablespoons of butter and a tablespoon of chopped onion in a frying pan and fry to a delicate brown; add the tripe, a teaspoon of chopped parsley, and a little strong vinegar and cayenne. Stir to prevent burning. Serve on hot platter.

Appointments at Northwestern.

The board of trustees of Northwestern university yesterday at the Union League club made the following appointments: Dr. Robert Harvey Gault, assistant professor of psychology in the college of liberal arts; Prof. A. V. E. Young, member of board of graduate study, to succeed Prof. C. H. Page, resigned; Charles C. Hyde, Albert M. Kales, and Charles G. Little, professors of law in the law school. Adjustment was made of work in the office of secretary of the dental school to give Dr. C. R. E. Koch an opportunity to carry on his work in connection with his recent appointment to the office of adjutant general of the G. A. R.

Unions Block Tablet Dedication.

Difficulties between labor unions and the board of education has resulted from a piece of nonunion work said to have been authorized by two union engineers of the public schools. As a consequence the dedication of a memorial tablet at the Waters school of Thomas J. Waters, late chief engineer of the board of education, has been postponed twice.

The ceremonies were to have been held last night, but were postponed until Sunday afternoon. Following a protest by six union presidents to the buildings and grounds committee of the school board yesterday it was decided to declare a further postponement of two weeks.

The engineers who gave the contract for molding the $600 tablet to Julius Bercham, will be summoned before the Chicago Federation of Labor. They are Arthur McCracken and George McKenzie, chairman of the tablet committee of the School Engineers' union.

Plan Benefit for Night Schools.

Night schools conducted among Hungarian, Jewish, Italian, Bohemian, and Lithuanian girls by the Women's Trade Union league will receive the proceeds from the league Halloween dance which will be held tonight in Illinois hall, Ogden avenue and Madison street.

The dance will be given in celebration of the "ten hour victory," the enactment of the law which forbids the employment of women for more than ten hours a day. Women ticket agents employed by the elevated railroads will attend the dance in a body. These women were benefited by the law in that they get twelve hours' pay for ten hours' work.

DENEEN SHAKES UP HEALTH BOARD

DOWNSTATE TRIO SAFE.

Executive Will Appoint Only Men Who Do Not Seek Public Position.

Gov. Deneen has been busy several days hunting quietly for new members of the state board of health. Within a week or ten days, it is expected, he will announce his selections. Four of the seven members sent their resignations to Springfield immediately after a meeting of the board last Tuesday at the Great Northern hotel.

The four are:

DR. HENRY RICHINGS of Rockford.

DR. P. H. WESSELL of Moline.

DR. W. R. SCHUSSLER of Orland.

The resignation of President Webster was made public two days ago, but no hint was given out that others had also resigned. The governor has not asked the three members from southern Illinois to step aside and it is reported that these will continue in the public health work for some time at least.

This trio comprises Dr. J. A. Egan of Springfield, secretary of the board, Dr. Charles J. Boswell of Mounds, and Dr. R. E. Miedinghaus of Granite City.

Six Candidates Are Known.

For the four vacancies it is said that the governor will not appoint any one who is a candidate. He desires those whose professional standing and reputation does not need the added honor of being a member of the state board.

At present the governor has seven names under consideration, and it is believed that from this list he will appoint four. The names of six of these are known. The identity of the seventh, while known to be a Chicago surgeon, was not known yesterday.

The six are:

Dr. L. C. Taylor, for about ten years health commissioner of Springfield and active in the State Medical society, especially on the legislative committee. Graduated from Bellevue Hospital Medical college, New York, in 1875. He is the governor's private physician.

Dr. Hektoen Is Considered.

Dr. Ludwig Hektoen, professor of pathology of Rush Medical college. His text books are used in certain German cities. He was formerly coroner's physician and member of the state commission on occupational diseases. Graduated from the College of Medicine, University of Illinois, in 1887. Commissioned by John D. Rockefeller to find a specific for scarlet fever.

Dr. A. J. Ochsner, professor of surgery of the College of Medicine and surgeon for Augustana and St. Mary's hospitals. Author of a book on hospital construction, considered authoritative. Graduated from Rush Medical college in 1886.

Dr. Charles E. Kahlke, professor of surgery at Hahnemann Medical college, from which he was graduated in 1894. He has been president of the State Homeopathic Medical society and for years was secretary of the standing staff of Cook county hospital.

Dr. Arthur D. Bevan, professor of surgery of Rush Medical college and was formerly president of the Chicago Medical society. His reports to the American Medical association, as well as to its subsidiary bodies, have urged the elimination of fake and poorly equipped medical colleges. He graduated from Rush Medical college in 1885.

Dr. Albert E. Halstead, professor of clinical surgery of Northwestern University Medical school and surgeon at St. Luke's hospital. Former president of the American Surgical society. Graduated from Northwestern university medical school in 1890.

Of these six, medical men believe that Drs. Taylor, Bevan, Hektoen, and Halstead have the best chance of being selected. Among the local medical fraternity no criticisms of any of these men could be found yesterday. None of them, with the exception of Dr. Bevan, has been prominent in criticising conditions for which the state board has been held responsible.

In some quarters they were inclined to criticise Gov. Deneen for not having recognized the board earlier. The terms of office of all of the members of the board, with two exceptions, have expired at yearly intervals since 1906. The two exceptions are Dr. Schussler, whose term ends next December, and Dr. Boswell, who completes his term a year later.

The Illinois State Medical Journal, the official organ of the State Medical society, has contained a criticism of the state board almost monthly for four years. Most of the attacks have been directed at Secretary Egan, who has been the directing head of the board. He recently was placed under civil service as secretary, but his tenure as a member is subject to the pleasure of the governor.

Reports Were Criticised.

The most stubborn attack on the board was made in March, 1908. A committee of the State Medical society sent to the governor a number of charges. These were not proven to the governor's satisfaction.

The principal complaint of this committee was that diplomas were given by schools which could not properly teach medicine. They urged that the state board put these colleges out of operation.

This committee was not satisfied with the monthly bulletin of the board. They argued that it was not in a class with bulletins of other state boards. The annual reports also were criticised. They wanted the quacks and advertising physicians driven out, and they urged more original investigation by the state laboratory.

Friction Between Boards.

The handling of epidemics of typhoid fever, scarlet fever, and smallpox in the vicinity of Chicago were subjects of more complaints. The governor decided that the complainants had not submitted evidence supporting their contentions.

There has been friction between the Chicago health department and the state board for years. The opposition of the state board to pasteurization of milk and their position on the tuberculin testing of cows has prejudiced many Chicago physicians.

COURT FINES SLUGGER $100; ATTACKED NEWSBOY ON CAR.

Henry Dowd, a slugger, was found guilty before Judge Sabath of the Municipal court of assault and battery and fined $100 and costs. He was arrested on the complaint of a Greek newsboy, Nick Casaris, who testified at the hearing that as he was attempting to sell his papers on a west bound Forty-seventh street car last Wednesday morning Dowd struck the boy in the mouth, loosening his teeth on one side of his jaw. Dowd denied the assault, but upon evidence being introduced establishing that Dowd had formerly been convicted and imprisoned for robbery, and that he was within three hours after the assault upon Casaris put under peace bonds for a previous assault upon a TRIBUNE newsboy the court entered the finding of guilty.

A motion to vacate the judgment of the court was entered by Dowd's attorneys.

SIX SCHOOLS GET GOLD FROM JOHN D.

MANY MAKE APPLICATION

New York, Oct. 27.—Conditional appropriations aggregating $635,000 were granted to six colleges and universities by the board of trustees of the John D. Rockefeller fund for education—the General Education board—this afternoon.

Applications from twenty-four institutions were presented. From this list the board selected six, among which are distributed conditionally the available funds as follows:

To Bucknell university, Lewisburg, Pa.	$ 35,000
To Earlham college, Richmond, Ind.	75,000
To Furman university, Greenville, S. C.	25,000
To Grinnell college, Grinnell, Ia.	100,000
To Smith college, Northampton, Mass.	200,000
To Southern Methodist university, Dallas, Tex.	200,000

Has Given $7,625,000 in Two Years.

During the meeting attention was called to the fact that since Mr. Rockefeller made his first contribution to the board for the promotion of higher education in 1902, contributions have been made to ninety-one institutions, to an aggregate amount of $7,625,000, toward a total of $35,909,512.

Fifty-one institutions to which the board has made conditional contributions have completed the subscriptions for the supplemental sums required, and to these institutions the board has already paid $3,500,000 in cash.

It was pointed out that as a result of the campaigns made by these fifty-one institutions their assets have been increased by more than $19,000,000; the student body increased by 2,047.

One hundred and eighty-three new professors have been employed, and the annual payment to professors in these fifty-one institutions have been increased $421,712.

Promoting New High Schools.

In addition to this it was shown that the board is now paying the salaries and traveling expenses at twelve of the state universities of the southern states of professors of secondary education engaged in promoting the establishment of public high schools.

Since the beginning of this work five years ago 912 new public high schools have been established in the southern states, 824 teachers have been added to the schools that were already in existence, 656 new public high school buildings have been constructed at a cost of $9,000,000, and the funds for the annual support of high schools have been increased by $1,688,894.

The board has contributed between $600,000 and $700,000 to forty-one schools for negroes. It also has aided in fighting the boll weevil through farm demonstration in southern states, having contributed $400,000 for this purpose.

The salaries and expenses of 219 agents are paid by the board. These men are conducting demonstrations on 20,000 farms.

A NEW NOVEL OF RARE CHARM

A Safety Match

As clever as its title, "A Safety Match" is an English novel of the best type. While the plot revolves about Daphne and her husband, there is much byplay of a highly diverting order contributed by Daphne's brothers and sisters, a group of lively children.

Mr. Hay is an expert in describing the pranks and activities of precocious children. This feature serves as an admirable foil to the intensely interesting problem of the outcome of a "marriage of convenience" between two very natural, lovable and utterly distinctive natures.

SOCIAL CIRCULATION.

In opening the national civic and social center conference at Madison on Wednesday, Gov. Woodrow Wilson said:

The community cannot possibly govern itself while its parts are separated. Our greatest effort to produce popular government should be directed toward unifying the community first. Now our "residential" sections are separated from the rest of our cities, and are often the most useless. The people in the "residential" sections are those who dominate our big business interests. And yet they are out of the current of civilization. There is the atrophy in the body politic.

The physiological simile is a good one. You cannot have bodily health with an ill distributed circulation or an ill balanced vasomotor system. Nor can there be a thoroughly healthy body politic unless there is free and thorough circulation of thought and feeling. Regions of sluggishness, regions segregated from the warm and vitalizing tide of national thought, conviction, and aspiration, are regions of weakness and sources of social and political disease.

REJECTING SHAKSPEARE.

If we are to believe tidings from Hammond, Ind., the pupils in the high school of that town have approached the dramas and poems of Shakspeare in a challenging rather than an acceptive spirit, and as the result of an investigation, unhampered by respect or awe for the judgment of other generations, have requested the school authorities to give them large measures of Ibsen and Shaw and none of the Elizabethan.

It is not to be understood, we gather, that Shakspeare is set aside as wholly negligible and unworthy. If his writings had been guided by a more wholesome community spirit, and if his dramas had been intended for a more cultured public, it would be possible for them to command the respect of a modern high school pupil. And it is not to be understood that the pupils are hasty in laying the burden of obvious and manifest faults on Shakspeare personally. His times demanded much that was cheap and tolerated much that was coarse. A Drama league could not have indorsed his works wholeheartedly and a conscientious police censor would have made trouble for the producer in some instances.

As we understand the protest of the high school pupils, what there is of merit in Shakspeare is so mixed with trash as to make it unwise to continue the study of his writings. The modernism of high school and even grammar school pupils brings apprehension to the adult mind. A distinct restlessness can be noted in the juvenile disposition to inquire rather than accept.

It may lead to much good, but it is impossible to resist the thought that the Hammond pupils have been too hasty. They have dismissed Shakspeare too precipitately.

ALASKA AND ITS PROBLEMS.

Secretary Fisher's address before the mining congress last night is presented as a general but authoritative statement on behalf of not only the secretary of the interior but of the president and his administration. Based upon a personal visit to Alaska and a thorough investigation of the situation there, it is the most important public utterance yet made upon the vexed questions and grave problems of that great domain.

As a firm friend of conservation, as an enlightened progressive, Secretary Fisher's report, furthermore, will carry especial weight with a public thoroughly aroused by the deplorable and dubious Ballinger episode, and determined not to permit the exploitation of the territory's natural resources for the selfish and inordinate profit of a few.

Secretary Fisher's description of conditions, of coal and other values, of the railroad and harbor situation, need not be epitomized here. They should be read at length, for they will serve as a reliable basis for public opinion when constructive legislation is sought. It seems evident that earlier estimates of coal values were exaggerated, yet that a great future, not only in mining but in agriculture, awaits the territory. What is needed is wise, far sighted but speedy development.

Secretary Fisher decides emphatically for a leasing system of coal land development, and in this he has and will have the approval of disinterested expert mining operators. A more radical proposal is that of a government railroad, which Secretary Fisher strongly urges on practical grounds as well as defends upon legal and constitutional grounds. And he adds the interesting suggestion:

If we may assume that some of the coal claims which have been entered in Alaska in either the Matanuska or the Bering fields have complied with the law and should be allowed, the suggestions I have made will enable us to compare in practical operation the development of coal under private ownership, under government leasehold, and under the direct operation of the government itself. We shall have an important railroad under private ownership, with governmental regulation, to compare with one under public ownership, and these two railroads will operate in separate fields where they will not directly conflict, but where each may serve as a check upon the other, and the advocates of both methods will doubtless come to appreciate more fully and more fairly both the difficulties and the advantages of the railroad as a governmental agent.

It is to be hoped that, with a wise and patriotic program determined upon, the administration will be able to put Alaska, without further delay, in the path of rational development and prosperity. The chief danger now is peanut politics. If opponents of the administration in and out of the party will waive personal or partisan tactics and consider only Alaska's welfare, we shall have a prompt and patriotic solution of her troubles, and the national domain will be enlarged by another strong, progressive, and prosperous commonwealth.

THE MELON.

Gov. Deneen is disposed to acknowledge defeat, it is reported from Springfield, and to concede that with the house of representatives composed and organized as it is at present there is little or no hope of obtaining waterway and water power legislation.

Through the regular and special sessions of two assemblies three motives have governed the opposition. One has been the desire to have the spending of the authorized $20,000,000 controlled by another faction in the Republican party; the second has been the desire to prevent Deneen from carrying out a project of such importance to the state; the third has been the desire to prevent the state from developing resources which private interests want for their own use.

With three motives so compelling the opposition has maintained its strength and has been successful in blocking the state project. The authorization of an expenditure of $20,000,000 for a waterway will be ready to the hand of the next legislature, or the next after that, or any assembly which, organized as the present house of representatives, finds itself in harmony with the executive office and not in conflict with it.

A ripe, fat melon hangs temptingly before the worst elements in Illinois politics. If they can capture the state and control it they have the spending of $20,000,000, and the water course which their plans will contemplate will create no disturbance for the private interests in the valley and will offer no revenue to the state.

There is as tempting an opportunity for plunder as ever was hung up for the delight of shrewd manipulators of political affairs in Illinois. If there are citizens even mildly interested in the subject they will find it profitable to watch the future of the waterway project—if Deneen gives up the fight and if his enemies finally secure control.

There will be no objection to building a waterway then. It will have little, if anything, to do with the development of water power. Its plans will be so designed as to give as little annoyance as possible to private interests—if not to increase the value of their property—and to give its promoters the spending of the large fund.

The melon is worth getting. In politics it has justified the long struggle which the governor's enemies have made to prevent the carrying out of plans which might benefit the state.

If the opposition be successful in Illinois the people will discover to their surprise that the waterway is not as dead as it looks. It will get new life—and new purposes.

ANOTHER TITAN ATTACKED.

The government suit against the United States Steel corporation was a foregone conclusion, especially after the official statement of Messrs. Morgan and Gary that no negotiations for dissolution were contemplated. The administration could not accept the corporation's assertion that it was legal, as the report of Herbert Knox Smith raised a number of serious questions and criticised several phases of the corporation's makeup and history.

Whether this suit foreshadows a general campaign of prosecution against the principal "trusts" or great industrial combinations is undoubtedly the anxious interrogatory of the financial world now. The administration has shown its courage and its determination to enforce the law against the vastest of the interests, and no one need doubt that it intends to respect its oath of office and do its whole duty.

But whether this includes negotiations out of court, such as were reported in the case of the International Harvester company and some others, with settlement in the form of an agreed decree approved by a federal court, remains to be seen.

The general uncertainty remains unrelieved, and further emphasizes the need for some method less harassing to legitimate business than the present form of adjustment by litigation.

WE invite the attention of our distinguished visitor to the improved appearance of Madison street. In the downtown portion of it, at any rate, there is not a mountain in sight.

THE lesson of this suit against the steel trust is that big business, as well as little business, must be carried on in accordance with the law.

AGAIN, in view of the fact that the elevated loop has been ornamented with fresh paint, at an expense of several hundred dollars, it would be almost an act of vandalism to tear it down.

CHICAGO still entertains hopes that a time will come when it will have a commodious and magnificent harbor to exhibit to its illustrious guests.

IN welcoming the president of the United States to our fair city please omit all unseemly college yells.

HEALTH IS WEALTH

Readers are requested to ask questions, which will be printed with the answers. Dr. Evans will not prescribe.

ON REPORTING CONTAGIOUS DISEASES.

CONTAGIOUS diseases are preventable. They cannot be prevented after they have occurred, though a lot of people mistakenly think so. When a physician is called in at the onset of typhoid fever or scariatina he is often asked, "Can't you give some medicine to stop it?" Once a disease, particularly a contagious disease, has set in, it will run its course. It will not only run its course, but it will infect others and cause the same disease in them—unless its spread is checked.

Before anything can be done to stop the spread of contagious diseases the health authorities must know where the cases now existing are. Without such knowledge nothing can be done.

The city ordinances require that the physician in attendance, parent, guardian, or the owner of the house where such a case exists, shall report same to the health department. This is to be done just as soon as the diagnosis is made, by telephone, and within twenty-four hours in writing.

The following diseases are to be thus reported: Smallpox, diphtheria, scarlet fever, typhoid fever, tuberculosis, measles, whooping cough, chicken pox, infantile paralysis, meningitis, erysipelas, typhus, pneumonia, mumps and any other disease of a contagious character. The penalty for not reporting cases of contagious diseases to the proper authorities is from $10 to $200.

The prime importance of reporting contagious diseases was recognized and enforced by legal enactment many years ago, even before their contagious character was scientifically proven. In 1782 a law was passed in Naples fining any physician 300 ducats for the first offense, in a case of consumption. If the offense was repeated he was to be banished from the country for ten years. About the same time similar laws were passed in Spain and Portugal, making failure to report such cases on the part of physician or family punishable by fine and imprisonment.

If all cases of contagious diseases occurring in Chicago were reported the matter would not need to be written about. The fact is that many of the most serious cases of diphtheria, scarlet fever, consumption, and typhoid go unreported. Of the milder contagions, such as measles, whooping cough, chicken pox, and mumps, probably not more than one-fourth are reported.

The harm done by the unreported cases is incalculable. Each case not reported and not properly cared for is the starting point for several other cases. Much illness and many deaths are due to this one factor. Most doctors do their duty in this respect—all of them would like to do it.

The discharge from the family's service of an able, honest physician for no other reason than that of having reported a case of contagious disease in the family is an everyday occurrence. The less dutiful and usually the less able physician is called in.

We know of many physicians who have gained notoriety and patronage because of the fact that they do not report cases of contagious diseases. The inconvenience of quarantine in most cases and perhaps some interference with business in others constitute the objection on the part of narrow-minded, ignorant people to having cases occurring in their families reported. Thus they sow the wind, and the community reaps the whirlwind.

Stringent application of existing ordinances, sufficient hospitalization facilities for all contagious diseases, and the education of the public are the remedies.

ADAPTABLE CLOTHING.

E. M. writes: "I work in a steam heated office building, and our house is always warm. Is not the ordinary summer underwear enough to wear in winter, providing I wear heavier dresses and furs outside? Many girls do it, and it doesn't seem to make any difference to them, but I have always been used to wearing heavier underwear in winter, and hesitated to change."

REPLY.

It is better to wear heavy dresses and light underwear than heavy underwear and light dresses. There is so much difference in the temperature from day to day and between outside and inside that clothing should be changeable. Therefore, it is better to keep warm with adaptable outer wraps than it is with heavier underwear the weight of which remains the same throughout the winter.

BATHING BRACING PRACTICE.

D. H. writes: "At what temperature of the water do you consider it dangerous to swim in Lake Michigan? I have been going into the lake since the middle of the summer, when the temperature of the water was about 70 degrees. It is now about 54 degrees and going down about 2 degrees each week. By continuing to go into the lake am I doing something dangerous, or is it a good thing for me? I have normal health and do not feel chilled after coming from the water."

REPLY.

Daily bathing in the lake, after rising, by the young and robust is one of the most bracing practices and is greatly conducive to ward off colds and catarrhs.

The minimum temperature at which lake bathing is permissible depends greatly on the constitution of the bather and the amount of "hardening" he has undergone. The exact minimum temperature will vary in different persons. One must rather depend on the physiological reactions.

If the reaction—that is, the rush of blood back to the capillaries of the skin after emerging from the water—and a pleasant, glowing sensation accompanying it, are present, the bathing is not harmful. If the sensation of chilliness and blueness of the lips and finger nails are noticed, with the reaction delayed or absent, then the water is manifestly too cold.

HAVE SAME MEANING.

L. W. B. writes: "Please explain if the words 'tubercular' and 'tuberculous' are used interchangeably; is it correct to say 'tubercular' meningitis and a 'tuberculous' lung? Also are the words 'sanatorium' and 'sanatoria' restricted to the name of a place or places where tuberculosis only is treated, and the words 'sanitarium' and 'sanitaria' applied to retreats or hospitals for other diseases?"

REPLY.

"Tubercular" and "tuberculous" are, in common usage, synonymously used as adjectives. The same is true of "sanitarium" and "sanatorium." It is necessary to designate what kind of sanatorium or sanitarium is meant; for example, tuberculosis sanatorium, nervous diseases sanitarium, etc.

CAUSE OF DREAMS.

H. G. B. writes: "Can you tell me what causes a person to dream after retiring at night?"

REPLY.

Lock the doors to your brain when going to bed. The nerves are the doors through which impressions reach the brain and disturb sleep. These disturbing impressions may come from outside, such as noises, cold, uncomfortable bed, etc. They may come from within in the nature of pains of various kinds, disturbing thoughts, worry, or mental excitement.

If the sleep disturbing impressions are strong enough to unlock the doors to your brain against your will, they may be due to some underlying organic disease.

Often the stomach gets in between the door and will not allow it to lock. In such instances it is well to let the stomach go to bed empty, in order that the brain may not be rocked and disturbed by dream thoughts.

[Copyright, 1911: By the Brentwood Company.]

So much has been made by the friends and relatives of the former Miss Anita Stewart of the illustrious ties of relationship which she had formed through her marriage to Dom Miguel of Braganza that she must have felt cruelly the slight placed upon her by the neglect to invite either her husband or herself to the wedding of Princess Zita of Parma-Bourbon to the young Archduke Charles Frances, destined to become one day the ruler of the dual monarchy.

Dom Miguel, who now is connected with a stockbroking firm in London, is a first cousin of the bride, and both the widowed Duchess of Parma—that is to say, the mother of the bride—and also the Archduchess Maria Thérèse of Austria are his aunts. In fact, the imperial wedding at Schwarzau was the principal gathering of all his royal and imperial relatives that has taken place since he became the husband of Miss Anita Stewart.

When, however, he led her to the altar, in Scotland, he was obliged to surrender all his rights and prerogatives as a prince of the blood and as a royal personage. This cut him adrift from his family from a social point of view. Besides, the neglect to effect a full settlement of his liabilities in Austria, either by his mother-in-law or himself, since his marriage—a settlement which was not only looked for by his relatives, but even so they assert, promised to them—has still further embittered them against his marriage, and has, moreover, rendered sojourns by him in Austria and in Hungary altogether impracticable.

The fact of the matter is that his debts in Austria have not been settled, and that his wife has not been presented either at the court of Vienna or to the large circle of his royal and imperial kinsfolk in Austria.

Cannons are fired, church bells ring merrily, and the streets and houses are adorned with greenery and bunting, the inhabitants don holiday attire, the music of military bands fills the air, and troops line the streets when a sovereign makes his first entry into his capital after his accession to the throne.

Pathetic by way of contrast was the secret and almost stealthy arrival of Grand Duke William of Luxemburg in his dominions and in his principal city for the first time since his accession. He succeeded to the crown in 1905, but was so ill at the time that it was impossible to move him from his castle of Hohenberg, in Upper Bavaria. There he remained, his departure from Luxemburg being put off month by month and year by year, in the vain hope that there might be an improvement in his condition.

This expectation has been disappointed. There is no possibility of any amelioration of his state, which is one of almost complete paralysis and imbecility, rendered all the more pitiable by his enormous girth, and if he has at length been moved to the palace of Colmar-Berg, on the outskirts of Luxemburg, it is because it is considered best, from a dynastic point of view, that when the end comes he should die in his dominions and among his people; also because the inhabitants of Luxemburg wish to have the grand duchess, who is the regent, and her daughter, the 17 year old crown princess, among them, and that neither the grand duchess nor her daughters wish to separate themselves from their sorely afflicted husband and father.

The grand duchess' regency, which she has exercised with the utmost sagacity, will come to an end when she loses her husband. Her eldest daughter has already attained her legal majority, and will, on her father's death, become reigning grand duchess in her own right, with full powers.

Prince Alphonse de Bourbon, son of the Infanta Eulalie, is lying dangerously ill with enteric fever in the military hospital at Melilla, and, his campaigning against the Moors cut short, he will, if he survives, be invalided home as soon as he is able to travel.

It may be recalled that when the military operations at Melilla became serious, in the summer of 1909, Prince Alphonse received orders from King Alfonso, who is his first cousin, to proceed to the front. The young monarch knew that the prince was deeply attached to Princess Beatrice of Great Britain and Saxe-Coburg, was aware, too, that there were obstacles in the way of a marriage, owing to the fact that the princess, who is a Protestant, refused to become a convert to Roman Catholicism, and hoped that, if the prince distinguished himself in the war against the Moors at Melilla, it might be possible to overcome the objections to the marriage.

On receiving his orders the prince, instead of joining the regiment to which he had been assigned and sailing for Melilla, left Spain, proceeded to France, and from thence to Coburg, where he married, without the consent of King Alfonso and without the sanction of his father, Princess Beatrice, both leaving immediately afterwards for the Bavarian highlands, where the honeymoon was spent.

Naturally there was much indignation, not only at the court of Madrid, but also in official and military circles in Spain. It was not alone that, although a Spanish officer and a Spanish prince of the blood, he had married without the consent of the crown and government a Protestant princess; but, what was infinitely worse, that he had rendered himself virtually guilty of the military crime of desertion when ordered to proceed to join his regiment at the seat of war.

Despite the close relationship between the king and the prince, and the equally close ties of blood between Queen Ena and the princess, and their intimacy as the closest friends, the Infanta Eulalie's son was deprived of his commission in the Spanish army, of his Spanish orders and dignities, and was banished from the country.

Ever since then mutual relatives have been endeavoring to effect a reconciliation between the prince and the king, and to secure from the latter the rehabilitation of the former. More friendly relations were restored at the time of the birth of a son to the young couple at Coburg last year, and last summer, during the visit to England of the King and Queen of Spain for the Cowes yacht races, the prince was restored to rank in the Spanish army as lieutenant of the First regiment of the guard, received back his Order of the Golden Fleece, and was permitted to join the troops operating against the Moorish rebels around Melilla.

Within a fortnight of his arrival there he was laid low by enteric fever, brought on, as in so many other cases, by the drinking of contaminated water. At any rate, he has received his "baptism of fire," and has repaired, from a military point of view, the grave offense which he committed in 1909; and, if he recovers, there is no doubt that this will be taken into account, and that both he and his wife will be welcomed to the court of Spain.

PHONE GIRLS' WAGES LOW?

Chicago, Sept. 26.—[To the Friend of the People.]—It is an absolute fact that the Chicago Telephone company is doing everything in its power with its present equipment and operators to satisfy the subscribers to its service, and any one with a complaint will find that it is given prompt attention if there is a possibility of correcting it. Nevertheless, the reports of poor service have in many instances justification.

Speaking from experience gained as an evening manager and being in close touch with the actual operating of exchanges, and from hearing the opinions of chief operators with years of experience behind them, I feel that the fundamental difficulty underlying the generally poor service is the fact that while the operation of a switchboard requires a great deal of skill and constant attention, this is not being secured for the reason that many of the operators are too young to realize their responsibilities or are of inferior ability. The reason is plain. During recent years a great increase in openings for girls in commercial work has occurred. Consequently almost any girl can secure a position in an office where she can earn at least $5 a week to commence, and a girl of higher ability can get more. On this account few girls of real ability — going to be attracted by a position paying 11 cents an hour, requiring hard study, and necessitating working evenings for two to six months, as well as every other Sunday. The girls that do accept such positions are generally young, barely 16, or are girls whose ability is not sufficient to enable them to hold other positions. While there are girls in the telephone employ who are as bright as any one could wish, they are the exception.

Telephone work is nerve racking, exasperating, and it is easy to make errors which are unsympathetically dealt with by an impatient public. Successful operation of a switchboard requires quick action, quick thinking, accuracy, and an amount of patience not possessed by many. Operators are highly skilled workers, or should be. The great trouble the telephone company has is to hold its girls. The frequent errors for which they are reprimanded, the strain of the work, the abuse and impolite treatment by subscribers whom they are forced to serve with unfailing courtesy despite what may be said to them, causes many of the girls to leave because the pay is not sufficient to warrant standing it. They find office positions where ordinary consideration is given them and their wages are as large or larger.

The telephone company cannot better its service under present conditions. It is admitted by chief operators that the girls today employed are younger than those of a few years ago. These little girls do the best they can, but the demands put upon them are too great. To permanently improve its service the company will have to cut down its dividends and pay its operators more, thus securing older girls, girls of higher ability, and retaining operators when they once become experienced and thoroughly competent, which does not come until they have been out of the telephone school and in the work for months.

In the meanwhile, if the telephone user would have a little more feeling for the operator, would not be so hasty to blindly blame her for everything, he would find the girls more ready to get the desired number and would not simply make them more nervous than ever, or scare the life out of them as sometimes occurs when a little 16 year old operator is sworn at outrageously by some big, burly man, or some little "shrimp" with a deep voice.

S. HOYT WILLIAMS 3907 Sheridan road.

Chicago, Oct. 19.—[To the Friend of the People.]—Of late I have read complaints about the telephone service. The trouble is caused by inexperienced operators, young girls in short dresses just out of school and with little or no practical experience. The reason the company cannot keep good operators is because they do not pay enough to keep good girls. The average wages of operators employed by the Chicago Telephone company is $31.69 per month per eight hour day (U. S. senate document 380, page 96), and this is not enough for a girl to properly feed, house, and clothe herself as young ladies like and ought to do.

Give the girls a raise in wages enough to make it worth while for them to remain in the company's employ and the service will improve within a short time. Lord knows the work is hard and nerve wrecking and the public often cross and intolerant, and for these reasons girls leave as soon as they can find other situations.

EX-TELEPHONE OPERATOR.

The Chicago Telephone company does not employ any young women under the age of 16, the majority of the applicants accepted being between 17 and 21 years old. The company prefers applicants at these ages, as they learn the work more readily, are quicker, more adaptable, and make more efficient operators than when the operating training is started at a later age.

A school is maintained for the training of operators, none being placed at any exchange switchboard without having finished the school course and graduated. While in the school the students are paid $5 per week, and in addition luncheons are furnished to them without cost. Before employing an applicant she must undergo not only the ordinary quiz regarding herself, furnish proper references, which are carefully investigated, but must also pass a medical examination conducted by a woman physician.

Probably over 90 per cent of our operating employés in the city are home girls, preference in selection being given to those living at home.

Operators are paid up to $49 per month, supervisors as high as $36 a month, the salary being graded according to the efficiency of the individual, with frequent advances as efficiency increases. Every operating employé has opportunity of advancing herself from the position of operator to that of supervisor, with still further opportunities of being promoted to the position of senior supervisor, assistant chief operator, or chief operator, where they show the proper qualifications for the higher positions. These executive positions are more difficult to fill and there is abundant opportunity for conscientious, energetic, and ambitious young women to advance to such positions, where the salary ranges from about $800 a year to over $1,800 a year.

Telephone work, I believe, is exceptional in that the employé is not only taught a profession but is paid while in school learning the work.

In every telephone exchange a portion of the building is devoted to rest, luncheon, recreation, and retiring rooms for the operating employés. Matrons are in attendance who serve each operating employé luncheon (without expense to the employé), and are also on hand to care for a young woman if taken ill. Comfortable chairs, couches, etc., are provided; daily newspapers and magazines, also circulating libraries. A number of exchanges are distributing stations for the city public library. Many exchanges have gardens, and in others, where space makes it impracticable, roof gardens are provided, thus insuring the young ladies ample opportunity of recreation in the open air.

The hours of working are so arranged that employés are not at the switchboard for periods exceeding two hours, a recess being given both morning and afternoon, in addition to the luncheon period.

I would again like to urge our Chicago public to visit our telephone exchanges, located in the various parts of the city, and observe the working conditions under which telephone service is rendered not only as regards the methods and practices in the operating room but also the conveniences and helps afforded the operating employés during the time they are on the company's premises and off duty.

VOICE OF THE PEOPLE.

HE LOVES SPARROWS.

Chicago, Oct. 27.—[Editor of The Tribune.]—The advice published in THE TRIBUNE by a recent correspondent regarding the best means for the purpose of exterminating the poor little sparrow is, to my mind, both revolting and cruel. His method was to put grains of wheat in a solution of strychnine for the purpose of alluring the little creatures into his back yard, and then to gloat over their death by tetanic convulsions "Try it," he said; "it's fine." I cannot here express my contempt.

Why this painful method of destruction of the sparrows? I was talking recently with a gardener who had many acres under cultivation, who had built on his property shelters and coops in order to attract the birds to remain and make their nests and raise their young, because they cooperated with him in keeping the garden clear of insects, especially the larvæ of the white butterfly, which were the cause of a loss of many hundred dollars before the advent of the sparrows.

It is true that they do not sing, but it is not their fault, for after our singing birds have migrated to summer climes the sparrow will remain with us, "even in the winter of our discontent," and, as for myself, I love to hear their tweak and twitter at the casement of my window on a winter's morning, and while I am able to provide a breakfast at my own table I shall see to it that they get theirs.

CALL DEEP WATERWAY FOOLISH.

Deerfield, Ill., Oct. 24.—[Editor of The Tribune.]—I have always looked upon the lakes to the gulf deep waterway as a huge joke, and thought it a nice scheme for Mr. Lorimer to make himself popular among a lot of people who have no buttons on their clothes. About fifteen or twenty years ago the whole of northern Illinois and eastern Iowa was up in arms for the Hennepin canal. Speakers were employed, and said that if they could persuade "Uncle Sam" to build the canal from Hennepin to Rock Island it would enhance the value of all property along the route, bring the railroads to time, and they would get better prices for all farm produce.

Now, what is the result? The government was persuaded and built the canal. There are thirty-two locks between Hennepin and Rock Island, or the Mississippi river. What is it good for? I cross it about once a month, either with buggy or on the train. I never have seen but one cargo of gravel on it. There is a legend that one man bought a cargo of corn, shipped it to Peoria via Hennepin, and by the time it reached Peoria the price had gone down, so he never tried the trick again. I am sure there is not enough business on that canal to pay one out of the thirty-two lock keepers on the canal.

Now, with this total failure just think of the gigantic scheme of deepening the drainage channel to Joliet and making the Illinois river navigable from Joliet to the Mississippi, deepening the Mississippi from Alton to New Orleans, with the ever shifting sand that comes down from the Missouri and changes the channel in the Mississippi over night. The thing looks so preposterous that I am surprised it has gone so far. JOHN A. REICHELT.

NEGRO VOTING.

Chicago, Oct. 20.—[Editor of The Tribune.]—Your reply in yesterday's TRIBUNE to the question of a reader, "Can Indians and negroes vote and in what states?" admits of question as to negroes.

While the fifteenth amendment qualifies them equally with the white man and pledges the power of congress in the enforcement of this right, the local and state governments of nearly every state south practically debar them.

There are not a dozen members in congress from the south who do not owe their election in part to a fraudulent count of or suppression of the colored vote. Senators Tillman, Vardaman, and Graves laugh to scorn the elective rights of the black man.

C. H. COOK, Morrison hotel.

DEFENDS DORSEY FROM DILLON.

Chicago, Oct. 23.—[Editor of The Tribune.]—I, too, have read with deep interest, profit, and pleasure all Prof. Dorsey's letters. So thoughtful, discriminating, and informing have they been, I have preserved them. I have never given a thought to his grammar or his spelling or the accuracy of his quotations. But his racial, economic, sociological comments are fresh, invaluable, and mark him as a deep thinker.

But Mr. Dillon, a classical scholar (I assume), is horrified to find he has butchered Virgil and Latin grammar. Well, this is a generation in which both have been pretty well butchered already. The beginning was when the weeny, weedy, weaky pronunciation took the life blood out of all Latin stuff. Prof. Dorsey's sin consists in using a superfluous "est"; also in what is evidently a typographical and most common mistake, "u" for "v."

Mr. Dillon seems to think there is but one reading to this "easy descent" passage. What he studied was apparently facilis descensus Averno. What would he say to "discensus Averno"? What to "Facilis descensus Averno est"? A purist like Mr. Dillon ought to know that the scholiasts, not editors, are authority on texts; they collate MSS., but rarely write books for school diversion.

I am surprised that such hypercriticism and poor taste should be exhibited in commenting on so trivial an error.

To value good work, to overlook trivial mistakes, to be aware how weak and treacherous memory is at its best, "Hic labor, hoc opus est." A LOVER OF VIRGIL.

OUTLINES PLANS OF OUTER HARBOR

WOULD HAVE 4 DISTRICTS.

Bond Issue Not to Exceed $10,000,000, Scheme Suggested for Financing Project.

Chicago's outer harbor will be begun north of the mouth of the river, if the opinion of a committee of seven aldermen who have been studying the subject since last spring is adopted by the city council.

The subcommittee of the committee on harbors, wharves, and bridges, of which Ald. Theodore K. Long is chairman, completed its report yesterday and it probably will be sent to the council Monday evening. A meeting of the entire harbor committee will be held Monday afternoon. If its approval is given the report it will go to the council accompanied by ordinances that will carry the recommendations into effect.

The subcommittee was unanimous in finding the pier development should begin on the north side, and Mayor Harrison has given his informal sanction to this suggestion.

Chief Plans of Committee.

Summarized, the recommendations were:

That the city council create four harbor districts, the first of which shall include the lake front from the river mouth to Chicago avenue.

That the city council create a harbor commission of five persons, one to be the chairman of the committee on harbors, wharves, and bridges, and the other four to be appointed by the mayor.

That this commission proceed at once with plans to construct at least one pier not less than 200 feet wide and 1,000 feet long in harbor district No. 1.

That provision be made for financing the harbor by a bond issue not to exceed $10,000,000.

That the council create an interlakes traffic commission of five persons, at least two of whom shall be members of the city council, to be appointed by the mayor to encourage harbor development on the great lakes.

That the Chicago river be straightened and widened to 250 feet from its mouth to the junction with the north branch.

That sanitation ordinances be passed protecting the Chicago harbor.

That the aid of the federal government be sought for the construction of a breakwater from Diversey boulevard to South Chicago and for the improvement of the river.

That the harbor commission proceed toward the construction of recreation piers at Twenty-second street and Fifty-first street.

How Decision Was Reached.

In reaching its conclusion on the location of the initial harbor the subcommittee said:

"Among all the several advocates for different harbor schemes and locations there is a remarkable unanimity of opinion in one respect—namely: in the immediate need of better harbor facilities at or near the mouth of the Chicago river to accommodate the present package, fruit, and passenger traffic. It being generally admitted that the construction of a commodious pier at the mouth of the river for persent needs would form an important unit in any further harbor development the future may demand, whether that development be south of Grant park, adjacent to the river's mouth, or within the river's confines.

"The subcommittee has therefore, for the purpose of making a substantial start, rejected as untenable all schemes for immediate development which contemplate any radical variance from the foregoing, believing if changes come as to harbor development they should be gradual rather than revolutionary."

Would Create Three Other Districts.

The reservation of other space for future development in addition to that north of the river mouth is covered by the creation of three other districts, the second being from the river mouth to Randolph street, the third from the south end of Grant park to Thirty-first street, and the fourth including all the Calumet river and Lake Calumet. The districts along the shore of Lake Michigan extend outward for a distance of one mile.

RICH JURORS LEARN OF MISERY

CALL IT A GREAT LESSON.

Send 33 to Asylums After Hearing Stories of Wrecked Lives.

County Judge Owens opened his school for business men yesterday. The first class in "How the Other Half Lives" held its first session. Ten Chicago financiers, sitting as jurors in Judge Owens' court, passed upon thirty-three cases of insanity and sent thirty-three men and women to insane asylums. Next Friday the judge will give the second lession to a "class" of ten merchants and professional men.

The session yesterday lasted only through the morning hours, but in that period the ten learned enough about human misery to keep them thinking for some time.

"I never realized before," said one of the jurors afterward, "there were so many horrors in the world. It was frightful. The most morbid story I ever read never even approached the stories we heard today."

After they had been told their duties were ended the jurors were invited to go on a tour of inspection of the county hospital.

List of Jurors Who Served.

The ten jurors were called to serve Thursday following a conference between Judge Owens and John J. Mitchell, president of the Illinois Trust and Savings bank, who was on the regular venire of the court last week. The business men serving besides Mr. Mitchell are:

James M. Hurst assistant cashier of the National Bank of the Republic.

Calls It Great Lesson.

Sons and daughters appeared before the ten men, divided into two juries, asking for the consignment of parents to asylums. There were recitals of intemperance and more unwholesome tales, all with an invariable admixture of pauperism.

"I never spent such a morning in my life," asserted Mr. Hanson "I can't say I enjoyed it, but believe it was an experience that will do me good. I think any man will profit by such jury service. You see conditions of misery and depravity that are unbelievable —case after case.

"I was more than impressed by the thorough examination. Any one who imagines these poor people are railroaded to asylums are mistaken. If there is the slightest trace of a shadow in any hearing Judge Owens persists in questioning until he reaches the truth."

Sees Minds Wrecked by Grief.

Juror Mitchell said if the youth of Chicago would attend the Friday trials at the "insane court" many downward careers would be checked.

"I was more than astonished at the number of men and women who lose their minds because of grief and worry, and a few by heredity. The court teaches a great lesson."

Developments Convince Them That the Death of Woman Physician Was Caused by Another Person.

ORDER HUNTER TO REINSTATE 7 MEN

Municipal Judges Uphold the Charge Deputies Were Discharged for Politics.

FACES JAIL IF HE BALKS.

Chief Bailiff Plans to Take Them Back, but Says They Will Do No Work for the City.

By unanimous vote judges of the Municipal court ordered Bailiff Thomas M. Hunter yesterday to reinstate seven of the ten deputies he has discharged since July 1. The removed employés charged they had been ousted solely for political reasons. The action of the judges in effect indorses this opinion.

The form of the order was approved by the judges and will be entered of record by Chief Justice Olson after it has been signed by the majority of the members of the bench. This technical procedure was taken so Chief Bailiff Hunter can be thrown into jail for contempt if he evades or otherwise fails to obey the wish of the judges. A committee of Judges Gemmill, Wells, Himes, and Uhlir recommended the reinstatement.

Consideration of the cases of the remaining three ousted deputies will be continued by a trial committee composed of Judges Uhlir, Rooney, and Fry. The names of these are: John J. McKeone, William C. Petrow, and Emil C. Christensen.

Hunter Finally Makes Charges.

Although Mr. Hunter declined at the hearing of these men to present formal charges, he has since verbally told the judges charges of drunkenness, insubordination, and use of abusive language could be made against the three deputies.

Some of these have asserted they were discharged because they did not become members of the Lorimer-Lincoln league at the request of Bailiff Hunter.

Mr. Hunter privately has asserted he will not oppose the action of the judges, but will decline to give the reinstated men any work.

Give Bailiff Ten More Deputies.

The judges also added ten deputies to the regular force of the bailiff's office. Judge Gemmill said the bailiff's office does three times the work in serving processes done by the sheriff's office, and that the twenty-eight judges on the County building side have 104 court bailiffs, as against thirty-nine bailiffs assigned to the same number of judges in Municipal court. Homer Galpin, clerk of the court, was given three additional employés.

Several new rules were adopted by the court. The most important is the issuance of summons instead of warrants for violations of a number of city ordinances.

"The new rules will reduce the number of arrests in Chicago by 12,000 to 15,000 annually," said Judge Gemmill. "They also will prevent the detention and imprisonment annually of from 30,000 to 35,000 persons. The rule governing bail bonds will save at least $200 000 annually heretofore paid to professional bondsmen."

Physician Sued for Damages.

Mrs. Edna Grace Weinberger asks for damages of $10,000 in a suit filed yesterday in the Superior court against Dr. J. S. McNeill because of his alleged failure to give her proper medical treatment last February.

A FINELY told story of New York life. The author's style will captivate the reader as completely as if he were reading Dickens

HIS RISE TO POWER

As Great a Novel as THE MAN HIGHER UP, and by the same author

By the Author of THE MAN HIGHER UP

HENRY RUSSELL MILLER

A Young American, of good fighting blood and hard fixed ideals, sets out to smash the political machine of his State, without compromise with evil. The great moment of his life comes when he must sacrifice his clean hands or ruin the father of the girl he loves. The creative genius and large power of the author are even more notable than in The Man Higher Up, Mr. Miller's preceding novel.

WESTERN ELEVENS PLAY 3 BIG GAMES

BROWN MEETS HARVARD.

BY WALTER H. ECKERSALL.

Northwestern will meet Wisconsin at Evanston, Iowa will give battle to Minnesota at Minneapolis, and Michigan will take on Vanderbilt at Ann Arbor in the most important football contests in the west today. In the east the Harvard-Brown struggle at Cambridge will take precedence over other games.

Thus four elevens which still have chances for the conference title will clash, and by sundown the 1911 hopes of two of these teams will be shattered. Although Iowa was beaten last Saturday by Cornell college, the Hawkeyes still have a chance, but it is not a bright one. The heavy Gophers should experience little difficulty in winning by a comfortable margin, thus keeping their slate clean for the Chicago game next Saturday.

Local Interest at Evanston.

The Northwestern-Wisconsin game will command local attention because of the showing made by the Purple eleven this year. The Evanstonians have won three contests, one of which was a conference battle. Although Wisconsin also has won all its struggles, the Badgers still have to beat a conference team. Playing on its own field and with its own rooters in the stand, Northwestern is sure to give Wisconsin a hard fight, especially in the early stages.

Those in charge of the football situation at both universities are working for a successful season to redeem poor showings of recent years. The coaches have had their handicaps and have done wonderfully well in developing the teams which will represent these universities today. Wisconsin arrived in Chicago last night and the men have the appearance of football players.

Michigan will meet its old foe, Vanderbilt, in a game which will have an important bearing in the comparison of football as played in the central west and south. Yost's eleven has been slow in rounding into form this year, although the great mentor may be holding back intentionally in order to have it on edge for the Penn and Cornell games. Vanderbilt has reigned supreme in southern football circles. Since Dan McGuigan, former Michigan guard, assumed charge of the situation, since the elevens have been meeting, the Wolverines have had some mighty close calls.

Unlucky Purdue will play De Pauw at Lafayette in a contest which will have an important bearing on the ranking of the teams in Indiana. Under the able coaching of Cotton Berndt, the former University of Indiana end, De Pauw has a stronger eleven than usual, and it should make the Boilermakers play football all the time to win.

Indiana, after its unexpected defeat by Northwestern, will play Washington university of St. Louis at Bloomington. The Hoosiers, although they have played good football in spots, have not worked together at critical points of the games, a fault which has marred their play all season. As Indiana has several important games yet to play the team should get together and fight to make as good a showing as possible.

Notre Dame, which has been coming along in every game, has a comparatively easy contest with Loyola. The Catholics have not played the hard teams of other years, but their contests from now on will be important.

Real Test for Harvard.

When Harvard lines up against the doughty Brown eleven at Cambridge the Crimson will receive its first hard test of the year. It must be admitted that Harvard has not met the strong teams which some of the eastern elevens have played, and the Cambridge aggregation will have to fight all the time to keep the Providence players from crossing the goal line and the ball out of range of Capt. Sprackling's foot. Brown downed Penn last week, and the players will try to repeat against Harvard today.

Urbana, Ill., Oct. 27.—[Special.]—Otto E. Seiler, whose drop kicking was a feature of the western football campaign last season, and who was expected to distinguish himself this season, is out of the game for the remainder of the season. In the practice on Illinois field this afternoon Seiler went down the field under an onside kick and falling on the ball broke his right shoulder blade. As this is Seiler's last year in athletics it means that his football career is ended.

Seiler played against Chicago last week, but was unable to score on the Maroons. In each of the two previous games he had played against Chicago he had scored drop kicks. Last fall his kicking won from Chicago, Indiana, and Syracuse. The loss of the quarter back is a serious blow to Illinois.

At Indiana.

Bloomington, Ind., Oct. 27.—[Special.]—On the eve of the game with Washington university of St. Louis tomorrow, Coach Sheldon did not allow his regulars to engage in scrimmage work, taking no chances on possible injuries. The gates were locked and secret signal drill was held. Several new plays have been practiced to be used on Cayou's men.

At Michigan.

Ann Arbor, Mich., Oct. 27.—[Special.]—The Vanderbilt and Michigan teams had their last workouts before the game today on Ferry field. Both ran through snappy signal drills, and the coaches reported their men were in the best possible shape. Stan Wells, the Wolverine end, who was hurt in practice on Wednesday, will be in the game, as will Pontius and Thomson, who have been out all week.

MAROONS TAKE GAME, 41 TO 10

Down Freshmen by Large Score, but Stagg Is Not Satisfied with Tackling or Offense.

The Maroon squad was put through another scrimmage with the freshmen yesterday. The result was 41 to 10 for the varsity. Coach Stagg was not particularly encouraged by the result. Stagg's pessimism as to the outcome of the game with Minnesota has increased a great deal, and he says unless the tackling and offense are materially improved by Tuesday, the chances for a victory are slim. The team will practice formations this morning and this afternoon the entire squad will go to Evanston to see the Northwestern-Wisconsin game.

DE PAUL SET FOR BIG GAME.

Team Is in Excellent Shape for Struggle with Marquette University This Afternoon.

Players of De Paul university are in excellent shape for the game with Marquette at the north side gridiron this afternoon. The Milwaukee team has a slight shade in the weight, but Coach Parry hopes to offset this little handicap with speed. Marquette arrived in town last night. Three hundred rooters accompanied the team. The De Paul players indulged in light practice last night, to keep the players on edge. Coach Perry declined to make any prediction as to the outcome of the game, but Coach Juneau said a victory by a close score would satisfy Marquette.

Majors, 53; Minors, 27.

The Englewood High school major basketball team defeated the minors yesterday in the high school gymnasium, 53 to 27. Scotford injured his right knee so severely that he may not be able to compete for several weeks. Evans starred on offense, shooting thirteen baskets.

OUT OF HIS MIND.

PURPLE READY FOR BADGERS

WISCONSIN SQUAD ON SCENE.

Richards Brings "Bear" Story of Injuries Desolating Camp.

BY FORWARD PASS.

For the second time this year Northwestern university football warriors will be put to the test when they face the strong Wisconsin eleven at Evanston today. The Purple aggregation, which is exceptionally strong as compared with elevens of late years, defeated Indiana last Saturday, 5 to 0, and overcame the first obstacle in its race for the conference title.

As coaches and players at Evanston realize the team will be in the running for the championship if the Badgers are defeated, nothing has been left undone at the Methodist camp to bring about this result. If the team is victorious today it will have two weeks in which to rest up before meeting Chicago on Nov. 11.

More interest is being manifested in this contest at the north shore institution than in any struggle since the Chicago-Northwestern contest of 1905. Although optimistic as to the result, the students are covering all the Wisconsin money in sight, and the best the Purple rooters can get is even money. Because of the marked improvement of this year's team over last season's eleven, which held Wisconsin to a 0 to 0 tie, Purple enthusiasts will turn out in large numbers to see the contest.

Purple Fit for Battle.

Coach Hammett said last night his players are in good shape and they will fight hard for victory. All the men who had been injured in practice this week have recovered and are in condition. The contest will be called at 2:30 o'clock.

Coach Richards and thirty-one Badgers invaded Evanston last night. They are dubious as to the outcome of the first conference quarrel for Wisconsin. Coaches Richards and Driver wore long faces as a result of favorable reports from Hammett's camp, while the experienced players were anything but optimistic.

Coach Richards says injuries had so desolated his camp he feared the Purple aggregation. "I have a fine bunch of scrappers," he declared, "but some of the greener men are overconfident and talk more of the size of the score than of beating the Evanstonians. My choice of a team depends considerably upon the condition of the field. I am not certain of the lineup against Northwestern, but one thing can be depended upon, Hammett's men will encounter the heaviest team which has represented Wisconsin since the days of Larsen, Driver, and Bush. Any kind of weather will suit me. My men are prepared for anything."

Urbana, Ill., Oct. 27.—[Special.]—The registration of Perry McGillivray of Chicago as a student in the University of Illinois finds another of the world's noted amateur swimmers enrolled. In another year, if the present Illinois swimmers are in college and eligible, Coach Norris will have one of the best college swimming teams ever brought together. McGillivray is a long distance swimmer, holding several records.

University High at Crane.
Bowen at Lake.
Lake View at Lane.

OTHER GAMES.

St. Viators at Morgan Park academy.
West Aurora at Lake Forest academy.

BY PREP.

For the first time this season all the Cook County High school football teams will be in action today. Three games are scheduled in the major division and four in the minor section. In both divisions contests are listed which will have a direct bearing on the championship.

The initial double header of the year will be staged at Marshall field this afternoon, University High meeting Wendell Phillips and Lane tackling Hyde Park in the second contest. The loser of the latter game practically will be eliminated from the running and the victor probably will meet Oak Park for the championship later in the season.

Delaney, the Lane right tackle, who was injured in scrimmage this week, will be replaced by Knight, who showed well in recent games. Apelt, who was also hurt, probably will be back in the game, but Kobb may take his job at end at the last moment. Stenhouse, the Hyde Park full back, who was declared ineligible because of low grades, took an examination in geometry yesterday and made up the deficiency, but will not start the game. Coach Morrison is satisfied with the remodeled arrangements and will continue to play Leslie Hart.

Capt. Thorpe of Englewood, who cut an artery in his right hand during a practice game earlier in the year, will not be in the Oak Park game at Phipps field. Either Shortall or Anderson will replace him. Despite the loss, Englewood will be in better shape than it has been at any time this year. The line has been strengthened and the new plays have worked well in practice.

Crane and University High meet in the feature game of the lightweight section. Neither team has met defeat and, as in the major division, the losing team may be eliminated. Crane has won three games, while University High has won two. The winner probably will meet Bowen for the title.

Lake View will enter the game against Lane at the north shore grounds in better shape than at any time this year. Gilbert and Peterson, who were out because of failure to make the passing grades, have passed special examination. Frink, who was hurt in the Oak Park game, also will be back. Lake and Bowen will clash at Sherman, and while Oak Park and St. Phillips will furnish the sport at the West End ball park.

SPORTING NEWS NOTES.

The Quincy Indians are seeking football games with teams averaging 80 to 90 pounds, games to be played on their own grounds. E. Calmeyn, 2620, is manager.

Harry Forbes, the "come back" champion, will leave tomorrow for New York, where he has been promised fights by Promoters O'Rourke and Gibson. "Kid" Howard, Forbes' manager, will accompany him.

Sixty motorcyclists will compete in the annual closed run of the North Shore Motorcycling club to Milwaukee tomorrow. The entry list closed last night. The pilots are scheduled to start the run at 6:30 in the morning. Riders of the Kenosha club will join the Chicago riders at Kenosha and make part of the trip. The official rate of speed will be 18 miles an hour and checkers will be stationed along the route to keep tab on the contestants.

Christie and Zanders Draw.

Madison, Wis., Oct. 27.—[Special.]—Gus Christie of Milwaukee and Eddie Zanders of Chicago boxed a ten round draw before the Madison A. C. tonight. Christie tried hard to put Zanders away, but the Chicago man was too clever. Both were fighting hard when the final bell rang. "Young" McGann of Madison and Scotty McFarland of Milwaukee went six rounds to a draw.

BY JOHN G. DE LONG.

Indianapolis, Ind., Oct. 27.—[Special.]—At the finish of the first day's run of 224 miles to this city on the initial leg of the Chicago Motor club's 1,400 mile reliability test, sixteen cars of the seventeen contestants were credited with perfect scores after the officials had completed their work of checking up.

Considering the length of the trip and the fact that several stretches of bad roads were encountered, the showing made is remarkable and indicates that the entire run of seven days is likely to be made with few penalizations. The only machine to draw a demerit today was the National No. 106, entered in the roaster class and driven by its owner, Paul Strauss. The car encountered carburetor trouble at the start of the run from Chicago and Strauss met with the same difficulty on another occasion before reaching this city. Tire trouble also delayed the National driver, whose observer turned in a report that showed a penalization of three points.

Cars Encounter Tire Trouble.

Other machines that met with tire troubles were No. 5 Halliday and No. 8 Abbott-Detroit, but neither of the drivers exceeded the time allowed by the rules for such repairs, and both machines retained their perfect marks.

The run to this place was supposed to be 220 miles, but the distance was stretched four miles in order to avoid a new and almost impassable piece of road. At the southeast corner of the old Cobe cup course near Crown Point the tour turned west to a point near Lowell, and then ran through Shelby and Thayer. Even at that some of the spots were of bottomless mud that nearly proved the undoing of several contestants. Aside from the one stretch the roads were fine and all the drivers were enabled to make up all lost time and get into the control according to schedule.

Easily the feature of the run was the stop for luncheon at Hazleden, George Ade's farm, which was the official noon control. The playwright acted as master of ceremonies and "head waiter" at a chicken dinner served in his home. He also mixed warming concoctions for the blue nosed and stiff limbed motorists who had made the trip of over 100 miles in the teeth of a chilling wind.

Two Extremes in Meals.

The motorists met with two extremes at today's meals. At the Ade function the motorists were served by daughters of Ruth, while at tonight's dinner at the official headquarters in the Claypool we were served by sons of Ham. The Ade brand made the biggest hit and the pilots tonight are closely guarded by officials to prevent their possible return to Hazleden farm for breakfast.

At a meeting of officials, drivers, and observers, resolutions of thanks were wired back to Ade and a message of condolence was sent to the American Automobile association, whose chairman of the contest board was killed during the Glidden tour.

Tomorrow's run will be of 178 miles to Louisville, where the motorists will spend Sunday.

Emil Thiry, manager of Packey McFarland, has taken over the management of Johnny Coulon, the bantamweight champion. Since the death of his father Emil Coulon, who guided the fortunes of his son to the top of his class, Johnny has been swamped with offers by men who wanted to handle his affairs. Coulon gave the matter a lot of thought and finally selected Thiry. Coulon and McFarland will train together and each should be of benefit to the other. Coulon will open a week's theatrical engagement at a local theater tomorrow.

ATHLETICS EARN RIGHT TO TITLE

BY TY COBB.

[Copyright: 1911: For The Tribune.]

Philadelphia, Pa., Oct. 27.—[Special.]—The Philadelphia Athletics had the superior team in the world's series of 1911, and that is the primary reason they defeated the New York Giants and for the second time are world's champions.

As I predicted before the series, the Giants were unable to overcome the wonderful offensive power of the Athletics. Base running is a big asset to a ball club, but you have to get on the sacks before you can steal. Therefore the Giants' base running reputation did not get much of a test.

I also said that pitching would decide the series, and so it proved. Had Mathewson, the one hope of Manager McGraw, been able to keep up the effective twirling he showed on the first day in New York, the Giants might have had a chance. While I still thought the Athletics would eventually win, even after the Giants took that first game, I must say that Matty showed some curves which fairly creaked as they "broke over" the plate, and his "fall-away" always was puzzling. I never saw a better pitched game, and the New York star did not have so much on Bender, at that.

Task Too Great for Matty.

But the strain was too much for Mathewson. Had he been able to rest for six days, he might have gone back and duplicated; but with a rest of only three days he did not have sufficient chance to recuperate. I have featured Mathewson because I believe Philadelphia may be thankful that Mathewson could not "come back." I do not wish to detract from the glorious victory won by the Athletics, but merely desire to pay tribute to a great pitcher.

To Bender of the Athletics belong the pitching honors for the 1911 series. I say that because it was the "Chief" who stepped into the breach on Thursday and won the deciding game, the one which meant so much to the two teams. Had Bender not won Thursday's game I do not care to say much about what might have happened, except that Manager Mack had only Plank, Krause, Morgan, and two recruits to send against the Giants in a deciding game had it been necessary.

The Athletics did not expect Bender to pitch on Thursday. They believed he would wait another day and if necessary twirl the seventh contest. But the Indian warmed up, found he had the "stuff," and went to Manager Mack, saying: 'I'm right; I'll pitch today." Manager Mack and his men showed how much confidence they have in Bender by taking his word for it and pinning their faith in him to end the series then and there.

Eddie Plank pitched beautiful ball in the second game and deserved the victory. I never saw the nervous southpaw more steady than he was that day. He had everything, and when his cross fire is working and his support is good he's about as classy as they come. Jack Coombs showed his 1910 form when he won the third game in New York. Had he not strained his leg I believe he would have decided the series on Wednesday.

Giants Overlook One Weakness.

One of the big mistakes of the series, in my opinion, was the failure of New York pitchers to discover the one great weakness of the Athletics. Since the world's championship is decided I am free to say that I am certain the Athletics would not have been so successful against a slow ball pitcher.

Those of you who saw or read of the series may remember how several Athletic hitters swung wildly, some throwing their bats when hitting at slow balls. Crandall with his slow ball was effective during the short time he pitched. Matty's "fade-away," which is slower than the rest of his assortment, had the American leaguers guessing. I don't consider the "fall-away" the real reason. It was the change of speed which did the trick.

At some time during the series, every one of the Athletics delivered a hit in time of need. Baker's two home runs came at a time when they were needed. The Athletics were not playing their usual confident game, and it required just such a home run punch as Baker delivered to awaken the fighting spirit and fill them with that determination which refused to be downed.

Mackmen Come from Behind.

Throughout the series the Giants had the jump on the Athletics most of the time. That is, New York scored first and the Mackmen had to "come from behind" and win. That shows the true mettle of a team and the Athletics should be proud of such a record. It seemed that they did not begin to fight until they were awakened by runs scored by the Giants.

In conclusion, let me say that the Athletics deserved to win the 1911 series. In only one game did New York show superiority. That was the one played on Wednesday in New York. And I must say that in the ninth and tenth innings of that contest the Giants showed that they could fight to a finish.

The 1911 series, as I predicted, was wonderful offensive power against aggressiveness. The sluggers won it, as they deserved. Nobody has any excuses to offer. There are no chances for "might have beens." The better team won.

MANY BANQUETS FOR MACKMEN

Philadelphia, Pa., Oct. 27.—[Special.]—The fans of Philadelphia are to show their appreciation of the Athletics' victory. Hardly had the ringing of the bats at Shibe park died away when plans were formed to honor the White Elephants and Connie Mack. A monster parade on Broad street is planned. The ball players and sporting writers will appear at a banquet on Thursday given by the management of the Athletic club.

On Monday night the entire Athletic team will be dined at the Hotel Walton by the fans. At first the Maryland club invited Frank Baker, who comes from the old line state, to be the guest of honor, but it was proposed and passed that the White Elephants as a body be fêted. Capt. Davis accepted the invitation on the part of the team. Other banquets and dinners will follow quickly.

Twenty-one pink checks, each one bearing the figures $3,654.58, were distributed today by Connie Mack. It took Connie the entire morning to dispose of his ball team, their salaries, and their share in the receipts. While he was passing out the checks a stack of telegrams and letters on his desk was constantly growing. Messenger boys around Shibe park this morning were almost as thick as fans yesterday.

One Indian and two men who are real bears started for Broadway this morning. The Indian was Chief Bender, artistic slabman, and his two cronies were "Cy" Morgan and Rube Oldring. All have theatrical engagements for this winter.

PROBE FOR TICKET SCANDAL.

Ban Johnson Says He Has Name of Person Who Aided Speculators to Get Pasteboard.

New York, Oct. 27.—Ban Johnson, president of the American league, is anxious for an official probing of the ticket scandal in connection with the world's championship games here. He says he has evidence that will throw light on the muddle and is willing to tell the name of a person who helped speculators to get hold of many tickets. In his opinion John T. Brush, president of the Giants, has been kept in ignorance of the facts.

"Mr. Brush had no part in the sale of tickets to scalpers," said Johnson. "He knew nothing about the way matters were handled by a certain person, who for the present shall remain unknown.

"I promise you to probe the ticket scandal to the bottom provided August Herrmann and Thomas J. Lynch, the other members of the commission, will sanction an official investigation."

Friends of Johnson say private detectives employed by him have discovered proof that the most prominent ticket speculators secured 8,000 grand stand seats at $1 advance over the regular price. So far Herrmann has pooh-poohed the matter with the statement it is greatly exaggerated, while Lynch has maintained a discreet silence.

'TIS WELL.

Contesting each point in vociferous way;
Assailing the umpires in language excessive,
Inspiring the bugs to the sinister play.

It may make a study of intimidation;
It may be adept at the "goat getting" art;
It may make the most of a tense situation

Its men may be practiced in billingsgate chatter

They may have the rotten stuff best calculated
Enlisting its help when an ump's to be baited

They may be past masters at beaning and spiking,
At using the elbow, the shoulder and knee;
The rough toss attack may be more to their liking
Than playing the game we are paying to see.

But, comforting thought! All this gouging and biting

QUITE SO, JOEY.

I say, old chap, if the New Yorks are the Giants are not the Athletics the Brobdignags? JOEY D.

C. L. S.—Don't you think yourself that the "under dog" has been quite cloyed with sympathy, as 'twere?

Not to decide a bet, of course, A. J. S., wants to know "Which of the following guesses is nearest to 13 to 2: Twelve to 3, 8 to 4, or 7 to 2?" Why, 12 to 3 is, obviously. How can one account for such stupidity?

A 1,400 mile motor run at this season of the year is as good a test for the reliability of the human machine as it is for the other thing. It will take a pretty stout constitution to go through with it and check in with a "perfect score." We fear us much that many of those hardy enthusiasts will be penalized for lung trouble.

When an expert through study or caprice makes up his mind that he cannot "see" a certain player or club then he never can "see" that player or club no matter what that player or club may accomplish. But he keeps on experting just the same.

The attitude of a baseball prognosticator is sui generis. If the thing predicted to happen doesn't happen then it should have happened, and that is just as convincing as if it had.

Captain and First Baseman of the Athletics Attaches Name to Cleveland Contract for 1912.

Cleveland, O., Oct. 27.—Harry H. Davis, first baseman of the world's champion Athletics and lieutenant of Connie Mack, their manager, today signed a contract to manage the Cleveland team of the American league in 1912. He arrived here this morning from Philadelphia and immediately went into conference with President Charles Somers and Vice President E. S. Barnard of the Cleveland club.

No announcement as to the nature of the contract was made. It is understood, however, Davis will have entire control of the club, including the purchase and trading of players.

Davis said he would remain until tomorrow in order to arrange for his coming residence in Cleveland. He will establish a home here some time this winter.

Davis succeeds George Stovall as manager of the team. The latter probably will be traded or sold to some other club. He has been manager since last spring, taking the place of Jim McGuire, who resigned three weeks after the season started because of the club's poor showing. Stovall produced good results immediately, bringing the club from sixth position in the pennant race to third, where it finished.

About to Board Train, Secretary Learns of Giants' Victory and Is Forced to Remain East.

Secretary Robert B. McRoy of the American league who on Jan. 1 becomes one of the new owners of the Boston club, returned from the world's series yesterday one day in advance of President Johnson. McRoy came near returning two days in advance of Mr. Johnson, which would have been embarrassing, as he was one of the business representatives of the national commission. McRoy took his suitcase with him to the Polo grounds on Wednesday, and with the score 3 to 1 in favor of Philadelphia in the eighth, hailed a taxi and was driven to the depot to take an afternoon train for home. As the taxi neared the depot McRoy saw a group in front of a bulletin board cheering. An urchin, asked for the score, said: "The Jints win in de tenth." "Drive me to the hotel," said McRoy to the man at the wheel.

AT THE BILLIARD ROOMS.

Stanley defeated Tredick, 50 to 48, in the three cushion tournament at Mussey's last night and now is tied with Lauben and Becker for fourth place.

Becker and Sayles [47] won their fifth straight game in the three cushion tournament at Weegham's last night, defeating Stewart and C. Goodman [36], 47 to 32. Sayles ran seven, the best mark of the tournament.

Alfredo De Oro, the three cushion champion, arrived yesterday and completed arrangements for the championship match with George Wheeler, the Flenner expert. The contest will be staged at Recital hall, Nov. 7, 8, and 9, the men playing 50 points each night. Joe Carney, the San Francisco professional, has challenged and is next in line to meet the winner of the coming match.

In the three cushion tournament at Stillson's Wood [50] defeated Holly [43], 50 to 38, and Berry [49] defeated Werd [47], 49 to 43.

Dean Demarest was ill and unable to play in the pocket billiard championship at Hemmer's. He will play Hagan on Monday night.

BY THE MARQUIS OF QUEENSBERRY

With baseball over for the year, and with football having only another month to run, I am interested to see what kind of winter sports Americans go in for. On our side of the water football lasts all through the winter, as we have not your severe winter to contend with.

When at the University of Illinois several weeks ago I asked whether they went in for Badminton, but no one seemed to know the game. It is a fine one, simple perhaps, but splendid exercise. Many of our jockeys keep in condition by playing in winter when other sports are impossible.

Badminton is merely the old game of battledore and shuttlecock, played over a net rather higher than tennis net. Any big hall or barn makes a good playground. It is equally good for ladies.

Badminton was really the pioneer of lawn tennis, and it was only the extraordinary popularity of tennis which made people forget it and abandon the much older game. It has revived greatly in Britain, however, and championship games are played and it evokes a lot of interest.

Then there is the game of "real tennis," pure and simple, the oldest game of all, played in a covered court. It was at one time the royal game of France, but nowadays there are only a few courts, mostly private ones. I understand the Chicago Athletic association has a court and that you call it "court tennis."

This is the game that young Jay Gould came over to England to play, and handsomely beat all our cracks. It is most scientific and very interesting to watch. Mr. Gould learned the game at home and quite astonished us all by his brilliant play.

We are, of course, better off for winter sports than you are, owing to climatic conditions. For instance, our steeplechasing season begins about the last week of November, just after our Manchester November handicap, which is the last big English flat race, a race which has always created great rivalry between northern and southern trainers. In France, as soon as winter sets in, about Dec. 1, the whole venue is changed to the Riviera, and the horses all go down to race at Pau, Biarritz, Nice, Marseilles, etc.

Nice is the greatest of all, some of the prizes being as high as $25,000. Most of the racing in the south, and all the racing at Nice, is hurdle and steeplechasing, and large crowds attend the races, many coming from Monte Carlo.

In Monte Carlo there is no racing. The principal outdoor sport, if sport you can call it, is pigeon shooting, and there the largest pigeon shooting prize is given, amounting to some $20,000.

But we were never strong for pigeon shooting. There is much that a real sportsman despises in it, and it has practically died out in England, except at one or two second rate clubs.

PLAY ON FOUR GOLF COURSES.

Several events scheduled at local golf clubs, postponed on account of rain last Saturday, will be played this afternoon. The Glen View club will hold its annual election tonight, a class handicap being carded for the afternoon. Other events today are: South Shore—Play for club championship and flights and two ball sweepstakes. Ridge—Finals for directors' cups and inter-Ridge team match. Westward Ho—Four ball foursome and two ball sweepstakes.

Windsor—Semi-finals Boyden medal and Buchan cup; medal handicap.

Soccer Games Today.

The University of Chicago soccer team will play the Campbell Rover Juniors at Washington park this afternoon at 2:30. Ogden Park and Palmer Park will meet in the south parks championship series at Palmer park at 2:45 o'clock. The Over-Seas eleven are billed to play the Cubs at Grant park at 2:45. The Uniteds will play the Campbell Rovers A. team at Lawndale park, Fortieth and Ogden avenues, at 2:45.

LATONIA RACE RESULTS.

First race, 2 year old maidens, ¾ mile—El Toro, 109 [Koerner], $4.20, $3.50, $2.90, won; Miss Thorpe, 100 Allen], $24.40, $9.60, second; Cheer Up, 109 [Kennedy], $3.80, third. Time, 1:14 2-5. Mandy Zane, Merry Beau, Stealaway, Con Curran, Beautiful, Zim, Pierre Dumas, Wolf's Paths, and Nancy Grater ran.

Second race, 2 year olds, ¾ mile—Joe Deibold, 109 [Koerner], $8.60, $6.50, $4.10, won; Ganadora, 105 [Brannon], $61, $20.80, second; Working Lad, 112 [Henry], $5.10, third. Time, 1:14 1-5. Brosseau, Frogeye, Oreen, Ursula Emma, Ethel Samson, Wheelwright, and Coy Lad ran.

Third race, 1 mile—Cliftonian, 102 [Wrispen], $18.90, $7.10, $5.60, won; Camel, 109 [Skirvin], $4, $3.80, second; Stickpin, 102 [Quillen], $7.70, third. Time, 1:40 3-5. Beach Sand, Haldeman, Discontent, Tom Hayward, Montclear, Gilpin, Ida May, Woolwinder, Sandrian ran.

Fourth race, 4 year olds, handicap, 1 mile and 70 yards—Princess Calloway, 107 [Turner], $10.60, $4, $2.50, won; Leamence, 107 [Koerner], $2.70, $2.20, second; Mary Davis, 104 [Goose], $2.40, third. Time, 1:42. Bettie Sue, Jack Parker ran.

Fifth race, 1 mile—Turret, 111 [Kennedy], $3.90, $3.40, $2.90, won; J. H. Reed, 111 [Koerner], $5.90, $3.60, second; Sea Cliff, 111 [Henry], $3, third. Time, 1:40 1-5. Knight Thought, Detect, Apple Prince, Judge Walton, Roseburg II., Wander, Otilo, and Wishing Ring ran. [Substitute for regular fifth race.]

FUTURES DECLINE IN GRAIN MARKETS

December Wheat Under Heavy Pressure, as Longs Liquidate Big Lines.

The slump in securities occasioned by the government action against the Steel corporation was reflected in an unsettled feeling in the grain markets. Moreover, the rumors yesterday and the day before that the government agents were investigating wheat conditions had considerable effect on sentiment, although they were too vague to be given much credence. However, sentiment was affected adversely by the recent developments and there was a general rush to sell out long wheat.

Right from the start there was long wheat on sale, and stop loss orders were reached every ⅛c down. The moderate volume of selling early grew into a deluge of long wheat later and prices were making new low points every few minutes. The close was weak, with values for the day 1⅝c to 2⅞@2½c lower, December leading in the decline.

East Sells Out Wheat.

Wall street was credited with selling out wheat on the break, and there was a stream of selling orders pouring into the pit all day long. Aside from the more sentimental reasons for the deluge, the cash market was reported heavy with a slow demand, and foreign markets again were weak. Moreover, receipts at all the leading winter wheat points were liberal, while there were no signs of a let up in the northwestern offerings.

On the extreme decline there was fair commission house buying, wire houses taking the wheat on resting orders, but in spite of the covering by shorts offerings up to the close were heavy enough to preclude any rally. Outside buying was practically nil, the only buying support coming from shorts. Rankin, Barrett, and other local bears helped along the decline.

Cash Demand Continues Slow.

Cash sales here were only 45,000 bu, part No. 2 red and part spring wheat. Foreign cables were weak. Liverpool was ⅛d lower on the weakness on this side and the continued favorable Argentine reports. Drought continues in Australia, but with Argentine conditions good for the new crop, sentiment abroad is bearish. Paris was unchanged to ⅛c off; Antwerp unchanged; Berlin ⅛c off, and Budapest ⅝c lower.

Primary receipts here were 1,149,000 bu, against 942,000 bu a year ago, and local receipts 105 cars, with 74 cars for today estimated. Northwest receipts were 547 cars, against 490 a year ago; Winnipeg cars, 797, against 601 last year. World's shipments were estimated at 10,600,000 bu. Last year they were 15,424,000 bu. Minneapolis stocks increased 785,000 bu for the week. Duluth stocks gained 500,000 bu. Clearances for the day were liberal at 537,00 bu wheat and flour.

Corn Holds Fairly Well.

Considering the weakness in wheat corn held fairly well. Last quotations for the day were ⅛@¼c to ⅝c lower. Considerable pressure was on the market early but later there was continued buying by commission houses. Weather conditions were a little unfavorable, but predictions were for more satisfactory weather. Receipts were small at 137 cars, with 183 cars expected today. Country offerings were moderate. Cash market was unchanged to ½c off, with sales of 125,000 bu.

Outside cash markets were comparatively steady. Quite a few cars of new corn were received here, grading No. 3 and No. 4. Seaboard reports said there was no inquiry from the other side. Receipts in the west were 478,000 bu, against 411,000 bu a year ago. Clearances for the week were 526,000 bu, against 507,000 bu a year ago. Cables were ⅛@¼d lower.

Oats Get Support on Dip.

Oats finished ⅜@½c lower, being influenced by the break in wheat. Commission houses were good buyers of the May on the break. Local traders led the selling. Cash demand was fair with sample prices unchanged to ¼c off and sales of 125,000 bu. Receipts were 149 cars with 164 cars for today promised. Primary arrivals were 513,000 bu, compared to 437,000 bu a year ago.

Rye Market Eases Off.

Rye closed at a decline of ½@1c. No. 2 sold at 96@96½c; No. 3, 94½@95c; sample grade, 80c. No. 4 closed at 88@91c. Receipts were estimated at 5 cars.

Barley held on a strong basis. Malting, $1.00@1.26; feed, 75@95c; screenings, 40@70c. Receipts, 69 cars.

Timothy was quiet, with cash lots at $13.00@15.50. Cloverseed held steady at $20.50 nominal for October and $14.00@19.50 for country lots.

Duluth flax was 2⅛@3⅛c lower. October and cash closed at $2.25; November, $2.24; December, $2.20½; May, $2.18½. Receipts, 62 cars. Minneapolis flax was 1c lower at $2.24 for cash on track. Receipts, 87 cars.

NEWS AND GOSSIP OF BOARD OF TRADE.

Liquidation of long wheat was on a tremendous scale yesterday and it was the general belief of wheat traders that easterners who bought freely on the upturn last week were the losers by the big break in prices. From the top scored about a week ago December broke 4⅛c, and stop loss selling was going on right up to the close. Clement-Curtis and King-Farnum were heavy sellers early, supposedly of wheat that was bought much higher, and there was general selling by commission, Bartlett-Frazier, Logan-Bryan, and Shearson-Hammill being conspicuous on the selling side.

Longs were made uneasy by rumors of federal investigation of the cash wheat situation, the government action against the Steel corporation, and the heavy selling of coarse grains by leading operators recently. With the unsettling news of a bearish character disturbing the market, there was not the buying support there would otherwise have been. Cash sales were not much larger on the break than they were higher up. Millers, however, generally do not buy freely on a declining market until it shows signs of steadying.

Cash sales of wheat here were only 40,000 bu, 20,000 bu spring and 20,000 bu No. 2 red. Cash prices relatively were firm, but there was a tendency to widen out the discount of December under the May. Cash men were predicting the May would go to a premium of 7c or 8c unless there was a quick change in the cash situation. In the southwest there were fair sales, Kansas City reporting 145,000 bu No. 2 hard taken by mills at the highest premium on the crop. Northwest markets were firm. Cash corn was unchanged to ½c off and there were sales of 125,000 bu, including a sale of 20,000 bu old No. 2 corn at 77½c c. i. f. Montreal. Reports from the seaboard to local brokers said there was no demand for either wheat or corn. Oats were steady to ¼c lower, with sales of 125,000 bu. Country offerings of corn were moderate and only fair of oats.

Sentiment in corn was a little more friendly to the long side, but the weakness in wheat was against the market. Some of the receivers reported more liberal offerings of corn from the country, but there was not much presure to sell either old or new corn here, and prices in the sample market were unchanged to ½c off. Peoria and southwestern markets were not especially weak and there was not much decline in prices. Bears are not disposed to become aggressive until the weather settles and there is a fair prospect for heavier receipts. Stocks are so light at the present time that it will take a comparatively heavy run for some time to come to increase stocks to a point where the December bulls would be worried.

"Fear now has the strangle and toe hold upon reason, and until this is broken it is useless to talk logic, but think it not amiss to mention the fact that selling of wheat below 99½c has been of a more reckless character than buying was above $1.02, as weak longs have been thoroughly shaken out," says W. E. White of Bargell & Co. "No matter what may be the outcome of the present war against industry, the 90,000,000 people will continue to consume just so much bread daily. Figures show that our supplies east of the Rockies are far from burdensome, and unless the government, in my opinion, takes action against the human digestive plants, present prices will look cheap before we produce another crop."

Argentine shipments of wheat this week decreased 224,000 bu, and were 568,000 bu short of those of a year ago. There was no corn shipped from that port. Flaxseed shipments decreased 151,000 bu. Comparative totals follow:

	Wheat.	Corn.	Flaxseed.
Since Jan. 1	88,154,000	3,020,000	16,206,000

Bradstreet's reported exports of wheat and flour from both coasts this week at 3,780,000 bu, an increase of 1,238,000 bu. Corn exports, 526,000 bu, a decrease of 105,000 bu. Totals, with comparisons, follow:

	Wheat and flour.	Corn.
Last year	3,427,000	507,000
Since July 1	50,369,000	10,032,000
Last year	81,428,000	6,057,000

Officials of the board of trade knew nothing yesterday of any federal investigation of wheat trade conditions, particularly in regard to the cash wheat conditions now prevailing. It was also stated on good authority that local representatives of the department of justice denied having any knowledge of any such investigation. It was the general opinion of grain traders that there is little to investigate at the present time in the grain situation.

Indian shipments of wheat this week totaled 680,000 bu, against 344,000 bu last week and 536,000 bu a year ago. Australian shipments were 696,000 bu, against 912,000 bu last week and 648,000 bu last year.

Minneapolis stocks increased 785,000 bu for the week and Duluth gained 500,000 bu. A year ago stocks at the two places decreased 275,000 bu.

Bids on the call for wheat to arrive were 2⅛c lower; corn, steady to 1½c lower; oats, ¼c to ⅜c lower; rye, ½c to 1c lower.

Council Committee Says Controller's Employment of Accountants Was Unauthorized.

The finance committee of the city council yesterday declined to allow the claim of D. C. and W. B. Jackson, accountants, for $3,748 for the investigation of the cost of telephone service in 1910. The firm was employed by the city controller to ascertain the cost of different classes of telephone service. Members of the committe said the accountants were employed by the controller without proper authorization.

$240,000 LEASE IN OTIS BUILDING

BUYS HOTEL EQUIPMENT.

The Illinois Life Insurance company has leased the entire third floor of the new Otis building, now in process of construction, at the southwest corner of Madison and La Salle streets. The lease runs for a term of ten years from May 1 next, at a total rent of $240,000, which is at the rate of $24,000 a year.

The space leased comprises about 1,600 square feet, so that the lease is on the basis of $1.50 a square foot. The floor will be divided to suit the needs of the insurance company.

The company for seventeen years has occupied the sixth floor of the Fort Dearborn building, at the southwest corner of Clark and Monroe streets, but it has felt the need of more room. Its new quarters in the Otis building will give it about twice the space it now has.

Buys New Southern Equipment.

W. E. Keeley of Sioux Falls, S. D., has purchased the furniture and general interior equipment of the New Southern hotel, at the northwest corner of Michigan avenue and Thirteenth street, for $200,000, from the New Southern Hotel company, and has leased from the latter the building for a term of twenty-five years at an annual rent of $46,000, plus insurance and taxes, for the first ten years, and $50,000 a year for the remainder of the term.

The building is a nine story and basement fireproof structure containing 272 rooms, and occupies a lot 100x170½ feet. It practically was reconstructed about five years ago, at the time Alexander Dryburg and associates secured the property under long term ground lease at a graded rental, beginning with $13,568 for the first year, $19,198 for each of the next ten years, $22,948 for the succeeding fourteen years, $25,583 for the next five, $28,335 for the following fourteen years, and a total rent of $1,886,000 for the rest of the term.

Mr. Keeley is a brother of the president of the First National bank of Denver and was formerly manager and half owner of the Julian, at Dubuque, Ia. He will take possession Nov. 1.

Flat Building Brings $75,000.

Louis Bomash has sold to Charles H. Nix the twenty-four flat building at the northwest corner of State and Forty-second streets, with lot 91x160 feet, for $75,000, subject to an incumbrance of $35,000. In part payment Mr. Nix conveyed the property at the northwest corner of Exchange avenue and One Hundredth street, 187x138½ feet, 25x138½ feet, east front, in Commercial avenue, 37 feet south of Ninety-ninth street, and 50x138½ feet on same street, 212 feet north of One Hundredth street, valued at $10,100. E. A. Holmes closed the deal.

August Turner has conveyed to Israel Schrimski the property at the southwest corner of Fourteenth place and Sangamon street, 214x364 feet, improved with six and seven story buildings. A nominal consideration is given.

Another Flat Deal Closed.

Isaac Marks has purchased from Frederick S. Hartman, trustee, under deed of Edward W. Lee, the property at the southeast corner of West Harrison street and Center avenue, 72x100 feet, with three story store and flat building. The consideration is withheld.

The estate of Edwin P. Wilce has sold to Edwina M. Van Auden of Islip N. Y., the 220x122 feet of vacant at the southwest corner of Throop and Twenty-first streets, the consideration being nominal. The property was sold in connection with the closing out of the estate and the purchaser is said to have no plans regarding its improvement.

279 Lots Go to Bank.

Silas J. Llewellyn of Evanston has conveyed to the Pullman Trust and Savings bank in trust 279 lots, bounded by One Hundred and Twentieth and One Hundred and Twenty-second streets, Ashland avenue and Loomis street.

Edward G. Felsenthal has purchased from George Devatenos the 100x154½ feet of vacant at the southwest corner of Evanston and Carmen avenues, the consideration being withheld. The purchaser will improve with a store building on the corner.

Martin Anderson has purchased from John P. Kellogg 225x125 feet at the southwest corner of Waller avenue and Division street, Austin, and fifty-eight other lots in the same subdivision for $20,000.

Weeghman Gets New Site.

Paul C. Loeber & Co. have sold for Gilbert Coyne to A. H. Grunewald the property at 456-58 West Huron street, 48x100 feet, for $12,000. The purchaser will improve with a large warehouse.

Joseps M. Finn has leased to Charles Weeghman the store and basement at 169-71 West Madison street, just west of the new Otis building, 25x190 feet to an alley, at a term rent of $110,000. Mr. Weeghman will remodel at a cost of about $40,000 and will use the front port of the store for a bakery lunch and the rear for a bakery shop. Farnham, Willoughby & Co. represented both parties.

The Colonial Trust and Savings bank is trustee in a bond issue loan of $45,000, five years at 6 per cent, to Albert H. Hollander, secured by the premises 2418-20 Milwaukee avenue and 2934-38 West Fullerton avenue with fireproof warehouse.

The sale of the premises 20-40-46 West Madison street by Joseph Lowis and Ernest Woltersdorf has been closed, title being taken by Benjamin B. Morris, who represents the purchasers. Ernest Woltersdorf & Co. represented the sellers. The improvements are a three story building containing four stores on the ground floor and flats above, on the front part of the lot and a two story brick building occupied by the Calumet laundry on the rear part of the lot. The consideration is nominal.

WESTERNERS BUY MORE LUXURIES

READY FOR SANTA CLAUS.

Dun's weekly review of Chicago trade, published today by R. G. Dun & Co., will say:

Excited markets for securities have not affected sustained progress in trade. The volume of payments through the banks again shows comparative gain, and the business failures are less disturbing than recently reported. Money continues in ample supply for legitimate employment, with rates favorable to borrowers and encouraging new enterprises. More seasonable weather increased activity in leading retail lines here and at the interior, fall and winter apparel being in stronger absorption.

A distinct feature is improving demand for luxuries and more costly goods. Wholesale dealings in general merchandise disclose no particular change aside from wider distribution of staples. Buyers appeared more frequently for moderate quantities involving immediate shipment.

There is yet pronounced conservatism in selections against future requirements, but bookings on the whole compare favorably with expectations and in some lines exceed those of a year ago, especially textiles, furs, footwear, clothing, cloaks and suits, knit goods, house utensils, and food products.

Holiday Shipments Increase.

In the holiday lines the orders show well, and increasing forwardings appear in toys, novelties, silver, and art wares. Current shipments from the jobbing district are notable from increased numbers for points west and southwest. Both city and country collections occasion complaint, settlements being slow, but mercantile credits suffer less from the elimination of weak concerns.

Agricultural advices mainly remain hopeful as a basis for future operations in the prominent industries. Crop marketings exceed those at this time last year; winter wheat seeding is completed on an extended acreage, with soil conditions unusually good; and new corn is delivered earlier than in the last twenty years.

Profitable prices obtained for the cereals, live stock, and other products assure substantial gain in purchasing power. Movements of commodities were larger in grain, meats, hides, leather, lumber, and coal, and decreased in ore, minor metals, heavy construction materials and finished outputs of the mills and factories. Demands have held strong for local building and planing mill supplies.

More Hands Work.

A moderate addition was made to active capacity in the Calumet region and more hands obtained work. Iron and steel contracts included none of large size, but fair tonnages were negotiated for furnace output, structural shapes, wire and wire products, average prices being made an incentive to large consumers.

Railroad managers are confronted with additional labor demands, and controversies delay issue of important commitments for rails and equipment. Curtailed production affects forges, foundries, car, and machine shops, but steadiness is seen in farm implements, electric branches, and hardware.

Total movement of grain at this port, 8,476,670 bu, compared with 8,772,550 bu last week, and 9,022,000 bu a year ago. Compared with 1910, increases appear in receipts 2.5 per cent and shipments 3.2 per cent. Flour receipts were 129,391 brls, against 127,197 brls last week, and 181,941 brls a year ago, while shipments were 151,956 brls, against 138,543 brls last week, and 205,706 brls in 1910.

Aggregate receipts of cattle, hogs, and sheep, 463,829 head, compare with 432,644 head last week, and 357,883 head last year. Receipts of hides rose to 3,434,400 lbs, comparing with 3,026,500 lbs last week, and 3,273,000 lbs in 1910.

Wool Receipts Fall Off.

Wool receipts were only 158,800 lbs, against 305,010 lbs last week, and 695,800 lbs last year. Lumber receipts improved to 50,486,000 ft, against 40,793,000 ft last week, and 44,237,000 ft in 1910.

Compared with the closings a week ago, cash prices are unchanged in flour, rye, pork, and sheep, but higher in corn, ¼c a bushel; barley, 5c, and choice cattle, 15c a hdwt; and lower in wheat and oats, each ½c a bushel; lard, 5c a tierce; ribs 12½c, and hogs, 25c a cwt.

Bank clearings, $205,127,518, exceed those of corresponding week in 1910 by 1.9 per cent, and compare with $269,099,679 in 1909.

Failures reported in the Chicago district numbered 25, against 40 last week, 16 in 1910, and 21 in 1909. Those with liabilities over $5,000 numbered 9, against 13 last week, 11 in 1910, and 6 in 1909.

Bradstreet's Review of Trade.

NEW YORK, Oct. 27.—Bradstreet's tomorrow will say:

"Trade displays little change, with perhaps a slightly greater tendency toward irregularity. Yet the consensus of reports from many markets, barring some at the south, indicate that retail trade has been materially helped by cooler weather.

"Proceeding to the larger lines, the reports as a whole do not indicate anything better than fair, though the low condition of retailers' stocks, coupled with the fact that final distribution is now likely to increase, may and probably will eventuate in much small lot buying as well as in the reinstatement of orders here of the canceled orders by timid buyers.

"But it is generally conceded that trade, wholesale, jobbing, and retail, tends to reflect improvement over this time last year, when more or less repression was in evidence.

"Business failures in the United States for the week ending Oct. 26 were 231, against 258 last week, 220 in the like week of 1910, 217 in 1909, 241 in 1908, and 223 in 1907. Business failures in Canada for the week terminating with Thursday number thirty-one, which contrasts with twenty-four for last week and thirty in the like week of last year."

CHICAGO STOCKS MOVE OFF A BIT

Active issues on the local stock exchange moved off in sympathy with New York, but with the exception of Sears-Roebuck common the price declines were trifling. Sears-Roebuck common opened at 138½, against a close the previous day at 140, and was freely sold down to 136. The last quotation was at 136½.

As for the rest of the list, it was irregular. Commonwealth Edison showed an advance instead of a decline, while Booth Fisheries common was freely bought at 50. Swift & Co. shares, in which there is a considerable speculative interest, only sold off to 98 and closed ⅝ better. Chicago Title and Trust lost 2 points, but the trading was small and the quotations merely represented the market situation. McCrum-Howell preferred was steady at 91¼, the common sold at 40½ for a few shares. Series 2 certificates of the Chicago Railways company were off about a point, being purely sympathetic.

The local market as a whole showed it has been well liquidated, and the course of the day's trading was largely significant because of what prices did not do.

Chicago and the Market.

Chicago commission houses did not do a great deal of business in the New York market. The heavy decline in prices was limited to United States Steel common, and, so far as could be learned, Chicago did not have a large amount of that stock carried on margin.

Generally speaking, local houses are carrying but light lines, and the fall in prices that was experienced did not lead to margin calling in any volume of consequence. As the result, while commission houses had a great many visitors, and interested customers, there was no nervousness. And while there was no selling of moment, neither was there any buying.

Stocks of the local elevated railroads continued to come into the merger plan. The Northwestern elevated has made the best record. Of the $5,000,000 of common stock of that company 97.8 has been deposited or taken into the merger. Of the $5,000,000 preferred stock there has been turned in 99.1 per cent. Metropolitan Elevated common has come in to the extent of 97.5 per cent, and the preferred, 96.8 per cent. South Side Elevated has come in to the extent of 96.8.

These figures for the different roads are much better than it was thought they would be when the merger was undertaken.

California Gas and Electric corporation, $5,401,000 unifying and refunding mortgage 5 per cent 30 year bonds, due 1937.

Denver and Rio Grande Railroad company, $3,000,000 first and refunding mortgage, first 5 per cent coupon bonds, due 1955, making the total amount authorized to be listed $33,944,000.

Chino Copper company, $2,500,000 6 per cent first mortgage convertible bonds, due 1921.

Farwell Trust Improves.

The market for Farwell Trust company stock is beginning to show some improvement. Curb brokers quote the shares 18 bid and 21 asked. The market appears to be near 20. The panicky feeling which some of the stockholders had following the announcement that the company would probably go into liquidation is passing, and there is more of a disposition to await developments. The so-called "insiders" have at no time recently offered any of their stock for sale. But there are a good many small shareholders who have not felt toward the proposition the same as the larger interests. It would have been impossible, however, for the latter to have disposed of their holdings, since all being equally well informed, there was no incentive to buy.

Dividend Declared.

The Cities Service company declares the regular monthly dividend of ½ per cent on the preferred and ¼ per cent on the common stock.

Indiana Bank Liquidates.

MONTGOMERY, Ind. Oct. 27.—After having met the withdrawal demands of a line of uneasy depositors, the directors of the First National bank of this city today decided to liquidate its affairs. The business has not been profitable, the directors announced, but all depositors and other creditors will be paid in full. The liquidation was entirely voluntary, they said.

OTHER DECLINES SEVERE.

[NEW YORK TIMES FINANCIAL LEADER.]

New York, Oct. 27.—[Special.]—All things considered, the stock market gave a fairly good account of itself today in the face of the news of the government's suit for the dissolution of the United States Steel corporation. The selling of United States Steel was conducted on a scale seldom witnessed in any stock, and a fall of over eight points accompanied the liquidation and the heavy short selling, but elsewhere in the list the declines in prices, while severe, did not result in critical market unsettlement.

A number of railroad shares showed only small losses, and even among the industrial issues losses of over 2½ points were exceptional. The railroad stocks which suffered most were Union Pacific and Reading, and sight was not lost of the fact that both of these companies are now before the court in actions begun by the federal government.

Steel Common Falls to 50.

United States Steel common fell 8½ points to 50 during the day. That movement was the most striking effect upon the securities market of the government's dissolution suit. Owners of United States Steel securities in all parts of the country and in foreign lands, alarmed at the suit, threw their holdings upon the market and trading in these securities ran to enormous proportions.

During the day 690,000 shares of United States Steel were sold. The general list developed pronounced weakness on account of this movement, but there was no demoralization except in the market for United States Steel itself.

The effect of the suit upon the market undoubtedly was lessened greatly by the wholesale liquidation of steel stocks which culminated in the upheaval of last month. The market as a whole was less turbulent than during the height of last month's disturbance, which was prompted by the fear that such a suit as has now been filed would be brought, or that the Steel corporation would deem it wise to avoid such action by voluntarily dissolving.

The drop in the price of United States Steel itself, however, was greater than on any other day of the previous decline and its low price of 50 today was 1⅜ below the bottom of the September drop. Following last month's descent the price climbed to 62⅜ and today's low figure represented a loss of ten points from yesterday's high.

London Prices Give Notice.

London prices gave notice before the market opened here of what was to be expected. Speculation abroad had been influenced by heavy selling orders placed there over night by New York. The rush to sell was so great that the market was thrown into confusion, and sales at prices ranging all the way from 55 to 53½ were made at the same time. The opening was a block of 28,000 at these figures.

Prices of all the standard issues gave way. Before the end of the first hour the decline was checked on strong support, but the market soon became weak again, and prices fell lower than before. Throughout the morning prices rose and fell in a feverish manner. Shortly after noon Steel common touched 50, the lowest price recorded since 1909. Declines elsewhere among the active issues ranged from 2 to 5 points. Both standard railroad stocks and the industrials suffered.

Determined efforts were made to prevent United States Steel from breaking through 50. They were successful and in the early afternoon the market rose slowly. Trading became much quieter and by the close substantial recoveries had been made. United States Steel ended the day at 52⅛, a net loss of 6⅜. The preferred stock closed at 103⅞, a net loss of 5 points. The 5 per cent sinking fund bonds closed at 100⅜, a loss of 1⅛, after having sold at 100¼.

Suit Brings Feeling of Relief.

In spite of today's events in the stock market, it is doubtful whether the government's action has greatly increased the unrest which has been prevalent in Wall street for some time. It has been generally expected that the suit would be brought sooner or later, and the feeling most generally expressed today was one of relief that the certainty on this score was ended.

The government's statement in its petition that the steel corporation's ability to earn dividends was a result of "a fictitious basis resting on unlawful competition," perhaps served to accentuate alarm on the part of security holders in general. In Wall street, however, the value behind the various issues of United States Steel securities has been well known, in a general way.

It was pointed out, moreover, that during the period of its existence the corporation has been expending an average of about $40,000,000 a year upon improvements. In fact it is estimated that nearly $450,000,000 has been expended in this manner, which acts as a substantial offset to the $600,000,000 of inflated value alleged by the government.

Money on call steady, 2¼@2½ per cent; ruling rate 2⅜ per cent; closing bid, 2¼ per cent; offered at 2⅜ per cent. Time loans steady; 60 days, 3¼@3⅜ per cent and 90 days, 3½@3⅝ per cent; six months, 3⅞@4 per cent. Close, prime mercantile paper, 4½@4¾ per cent. Sterling exchange steady, with actual business in bankers' bills at 483.75 for 60 days and at 487@487.05 for demand. Commercial bills, 487.50. Bar silver, 54¼. Mexican dollars, 46. Government bonds steady; railroad bonds weak.

IN THE FOREIGN STOCK MARKET.

LONDON, Oct. 27.—United States Steel shares were the feature on the stock exchange today. The common stock broke sharply at the opening and later touched 54½ on light transactions, while the preferred declined to 108. The rest of the list opened weak in sympathy, but later the market recovered fractionally on covering.

In the afternoon Wall street offerings caused another setback, and Steel common broke 3½, making the net loss for the day 8⅜ points. The general list followed, with losses ranging from ⅛ to 2 points, and the market closed flat. Copper shares lost 1⅜ in sympathy with the weakness in Rio Tintos.

With the settlement concluded satisfactorily and the recent broadening demand sustained, the other sections closed steady and higher, with consols and home rails the features.

MAY WHEAT DEAL UNDER FIRE

Court Upholds Action of St. Louis Broker Against Board of Trade.

Strong rumors that the federal treatment of the May wheat deal on the Chicago board of trade would not end with the civil suit pending before United States Circuit Judge Kohlsaat, but will go to the grand jury, were largely responsible for a sharp break of 1½ cents in the price of wheat yesterday.

A report current was to the effect that the government would investigate carefully the holdings of certain large grain concerns in Chicago and the price movements of wheat on exchange. Armour & Co., A. J. Lichstern, and Bartlett, Frazier & Co. were among the firms mentioned as being the most likely candidates for investigation.

Brokers Under Federal Eye.

For two years the Chicago board of trade has been under intermittent investigation. Government officials have attempted to fix the responsibility of certain combinations of brokers as combinations in restraint of trade.

As to any new developments the federal attorneys decline to say much. Grand jury investigation of offenses against the Sherman anti-trust act would follow orders from the attorney general's department.

Court Decision Surprises Brokers.

Contrary to the expectations of the brokers, the federal court will hear testimony regarding the board transactions of last May, when wheat soared up to $1.04½ and then slumped down again. This was decided Thursday, when Judge Kohlsaat ruled that the Circuit court had jurisdiction in the suit filed by William Lanyon of St. Louis against the board and James E. Bennett & Co.

Lanyon defaulted on 205,000 bushels. The board contested the right to take the matter out of the hands of the board itself, but Judge Kohlsaat took the other position. Testimony in the case will start some time next month.

BUTTER SETS YEAR'S RECORD; ALL GRADES TAKE AN UPTURN.

Fancy creamery butter at Chicago yesterday jumped to 31c a lb, an advance of 1c, and the highest price touched since November, 1910. Low grades of creamery, best dairies, and packing stock also sold at an upturn of 1c, and the general market was the highest of the year to date. Eggs were retained at former quotations, but the market was exceptionally strong, with buyers offering a premium over official quotations fo. supplies.

Potato receipts of 75 carloads proved insufficient to meet the requirements of the trade and further gains of 2@3c were made in prices. City retailers and shippers were big buyers at the advanced figures.

Poultry market was reported on a firm basis, with prices unchanged. Fresh fruits and green vegetables met with a more active demand than on earlier days this week and selected offerings brought advanced prices. Cranberries and sweet potatoes showed fair gains.

SEWAGE COMMISSION REPORT MAY NOT BE DISTRIBUTED.

Sanitary Trustee Sullivan Predicts President Smyth Will Veto Board's Order to Print Findings.

The report of the commission which recommended material improvements in disposing of Chicago's sewage and in safeguarding its water supply to the sanitary district trustees may not be distributed. Trustee Sullivan predicted yesterday that President Smyth, upon his return from New York, will veto the order of the board for the printing of 10,000 copies.

"To whom could we give 10,000 copies?" he remarked. "It is highly probable the president will veto the expense of printing them. Who would understand the report? It is highly technical. The commission did not legally exist and therefore could not make a report. The report does not give us the right remedy, according to my limited investigation.

"On the sewage testing station the district has spent $70,000 or $80,000 and it has not discovered anything to date."

HOG SURPLUSAGE HOLDS MART DOWN

A heavy accumulation of hogs from earlier in the week yesterday kept the hog market at Chicago from responding to the influence of small fresh receipts, and packers amassed their droves at an average cost of $6.27, against $6.28 on Thursday. Owing to the limited fresh supply, prime fat hogs were scarce and sold at firm to 5c higher prices, the market topping $6.55. The latter figure was reached by two loads of 254@265 lb hogs.

Best native and range lambs cleared at a decline of 10@15c, while inferior lots of native offerings were almost unsalable at a reduction of fully 25c from Thursday's prices. Nevada lambs reached $6.00, while natives stopped at $5.85. Range sheep were 10c lower, with choice wethers at $3.75.

Fancy veals calves sold at an upturn of 25c, topping at $8.50, with an outside buyer paying $9.00 for a small assorted lot. Butcher stock trade was more active at recent recessions in values, and the native steer trade continued stagnant, with best steers at $6.85.

I APPRECIATE ACCOUNTS OF HONORABLE people [men employed or in business, ladies with allowances from their husbands or income from other sources], who, while not in a position to borrow money from a bank, realize that exorbitant interest charged by professional money lenders is high and extortionate. I am connected with the Indiana Loan, Credit, and Trust Company of Chicago, co-partners, 4303 Grand-blvd., and, having private means of my own, I am willing to loan money with or without security and at a consideration but a trifle above bank rates, and never more than the interest legalized by the state of Massachusetts and Rhode Island, the precise rate being determined by the amount loaned and risk assumed. My location [15 minutes from loop district via South Side elevated] assures a privacy not possible to those who deal with brokers in downtown office buildings, where lenders congregate. Always best to telephone Drexel 54 for private appointment. Ask for MR. S.

Why not step into the Bent store and reap the benefit of our last week's sales of player-pianos?
Some really splendid pianos have been turned in by customers who have just changed over to our Bent Angelus, Emerson Angelus, Crown Combinola, and other improved instruments. Most of these exchanged pianos have been used more or less—some very much less.
All that are offered below are in good condition—a great opportunity to get a high grade piano for much less than even a cheap instrument would cost you new. Come in and look and listen.
The Geo. P. Bent reputation for generous value and square treatment is your protection in the purchase of a used piano just as in buying a brand new one.

WOMEN'S COATS

It's a sensible thing to do any winter, because they protect one from head to foot and they are so nice to wear over little dresses.

This winter there is an especial craze for warm, soft, rough-surface cloth coats so unprecedented as to make their supply limited.

From $35.00 up
